CONCORD, APRIL 5 1897.

A SEVERE ARRANGEMENT.

"Armenia and Europe, an Indictment," by Dr. J. Leipsius, a professor in the University of Berlin, who investigated in person the Armenian massacres, makes out a very bad case against the Turk. He went to Armenia with a bias in favor of Turkey, weighed the evidence on both sides, talked with both Moslems and Armenians, in public and private life, and with the careful scrutiny characteristic of the German scholar, he summarized his conclusions as follows:

Killed in the massacres, about 5,000.

Towns and villages laid waste, about 2,500.

Churches and convents destroyed, 568.

Forced to adopt the Mohammedan faith, 559 villages, with all their surviving inhabitants and hundreds of families in the towns.

Churches turned into mosques, 282.

Numbers of those without means of subsistence, about 500,000.

These figures only give the extent of our statistical information. A full statement of the facts would be much more terrible.

When we think of the thousands in the unregistered villages who were murdered, or died of their wounds, or who perished trying to escape, or succumbed to hunger or disease and were buried in the mountains under the winter snow, we shall be understating the number of victims of the Armenian massacres if we reckon it to be 100,000.

And yet the Christian powers of Europe have permitted this outrage, and are even now preventing and harassing the study little nation of Greece who has dared to attack and antagonize the Turk. The Mohammedans are taking advantage of the opportunity to again begin their work of rapine and massacre in Armenia, and that the Christian powers should allow it is hardly short of international murder.—Charlotte Observer.

THE UNIVERSE AT SALISBURY.

Our neighbor Salisbury seems to about to absorb the universe. Having the "Truth," if unmixed would place her towering above her rival. To this was added the "World" itself, making its daily revolutions with its news panorama. Then the "Sun" blazed forth with journalistic effulgence and now the "Moon" has risen to further expel the popular darkness and shoot its silver rays on the ever-moving throngs that bustle along and beckon the remnants of men and things to its centre.

It is singular how these confidence butchers would have us believe that men who have forged their way to distinction and rank will drift about as it suits the particular case on which they are interested and yet will, at the same time insinuate that if a man has been a paid attorney for a corporation, he is bound by a sort of magic spell that makes him always lean steadily to the side of corporations.

The Floods Still Raging.

The situation along the Mississippi River is still growing in its fearfulness. Thousands of dollars spent and many men are on the dykes placing bags of earth to hold the flood which is already carrying destruction through many parts of the line river valleys. Just below Memphis the levees are fearfully strained on each side of the river. The Arkansas people wishing relief by the breaking of the levees on the Mississippi side while the Mississippians hope for a break on the Arkansas side. Efforts are even made to effect a break on their neighbors side and two men have been shot in the attempt by patrolmen who keep up a constant vigilance.

L. $20,000 or $25,000 are wanted, $10,000 of which are to be in hand to begin operations.
