Preliminaries to Supreme Happiness

A certain young gentleman who contemplates marriage, announcement of which has not yet been made but which will take place at an early day, evidently intends to look at every little detail to make his intended bride extremely happy. First thing done after securing the consent of the young lady to marry him, he was to step up to THE STANDARD reporter and give in a cash subscription for the daily paper. He will make an ideal husband and THE STANDARD rejoices to see such important and essential preliminaries.

We Have Always Known It.

In an editorial entitled "How Soon Shall We Fly," the Durham Sun says:

It is said that over two thousand inventors are now engaged in the task of perfecting an air-ship that will really fly. The successful experiment made at Nashville, Tenn., has encouraged new efforts which may result in a practical air-ship, able to mount and float in safety. Since the demonstration of the wonders of electricity by the modern inventor, the public is almost ready to believe in the possibility of a perfected air-ship within a reasonable length of time.

While our esteemed contemporary is almost persuaded, there is still an under-tone of doubt. His faith is still wavering—"the public is almost ready to believe." We wish to observe that we have always been hospitable to the air-ship, and have never lost faith in its coming. We ask those who have followed us closely in our patronage of the arts and inventions, if it isn't so. And while we think of it, we wish to say that we have already, proving our faith by our works, applied for a restraining order to prevent any heathen Chinese anywhere and at time from claiming our first air-ship as a reproduction of some flying machine invented in the ancient civilization of the Celestial Empire but thrown into the waste-basket of diabolical thousands of years ago as an exhausted and played-out contrivance.—Charlotte Observer.

Meetings Closed.

With last night's service the meeting which has been in progress for several weeks at the tent on the graded school grounds closed. Rev. Edmundson's sermons were very much enjoyed by the people of the community.
