CONCORD, JULY 14 1897.

COOL HEADED LEADERS WANTED.

The great mining strike continues and no one can see its ultimate proportions and its final results.

The West Virginia miners have been disposed to be conservative and to hold off from the movement, but it can easily be seen if they belong to a labor's union they can not act on individual judgement or preference. Indeed they surrender such when they join such organizations.

Without attempting to settle the question whether labor organizations are productive of more good than evil, and whether the evil connected with them is a necessary evil to be borne to avert greater evils, it remains the fact that organized and agitated bodies become unreasonable and dangerous and are generally like Samson shaking the pillars, till they bring down destruction on their own heads as well as on the heads of their enemies.

There are few who are bold enough to say that business is in condition to be interfered with by further hindrance and the strike must necessarily close, as it already is closing, our already crippled business, by closing manufactures dependent on the miner's output of coal.

Cool headed conservative leaders are needed and if found differences can and will be adjusted provided such be followed.

The danger is though that they will not be found and if found will not be followed. Uprisings are usually led by fanatics and what there is to justify the beginning is overshadowed in the end.

Probably human genius has not devised a better solution of these divergencies between capital and labor than arbitration, and that can not be resorted to or made effectual unless a spirit of conciliation or submission exists. If such exists we want oppressive capital and fanatical labor frowned upon and these strike evils will be unknown.

Commend us to the employer who tries to increase his capital to a legitimate extent, while he bears steadily in mind his opportunities for gladdening and elevating his employees, bringing richer results to human freedom, greater triumphs of all lasting good and adding stars to the crown of his rejoicing when this world's riches will seem as sordid dust.

LET US MARK THE SPOT.

We have not had much response to the call for a united effort to mark the spot of the Gun Powder Plot, but we are sure it is not from pure indifference. We do not think that it is essential to mark the spot with anything costly, but we are not ready to believe that the people of Cabarrus are willing for this spot to pass out of the knowledge of men.

The Gun Powder Plot will have a place in history for centuries, and it is no little satisfaction to go to the spots of historic interest and there muse on the heroism of those to whom we owe so much of our enjoyment of civil liberty.

This heroic act of the "Black Boys of Cabarrus" may not be ranked as one on which independence hinged, but it was a deed inspired by patriotism as true as that which crowned with glory the fields of Moore's Creek Bridge, Kings Mountain and Guilford Court House.

This is a glory spot of Cabarrus and we delight to honor the memories of those men who risked their lives to destroy the ammunition that was intended to be used to slay the sons of North Carolina who dared to break the shackles of tyranny being riveted upon them.

This is a spot of which Cabarrus may well be proud and the deed might well be marked with bronze, but a mark with granite block, suitably inscribed that would withstand the forces of nature for centuries would be quite sufficient, while if native pride should demand more than this a monument might be erected in the court house yard.

We plead only for a small but united effort to obtain this patriotic trophy and pass it down to posterity.

GIVE US YOUR NAME.

We call the attention of just a few of our friends who occasionally furnish us items of news very acceptable but for the fact that the author's name is not given.

Such items only find their way into print because we are anxious for items from the particular section and on close scrutiny they are adjudged entirely harmless.

The only proper way is for the author to leave no shadow of doubt of the authorship of the items and we shall endeavor to follow the rule strictly to drop into the waste basket all communications that we cannot vouch for as to authenticity.

The Grab-All Instinct.

The grab all instinct is common to United States Senators, as well as to people of common mould.

The deficiency bill, which was under consideration in the Senate yesterday, contained an amendment appropriating $500 for the preliminary steps to establishing a fish station in Georgia. Senator Bacon had been enterprising enough to secure its adoption.

"I think we ought to have a fish hatching station in Alabama also," said Senator Morgan, and Alabama was added.

"Washington would also like to have one," said Senator Wilson, and that State also went in.

"Florida has the longest sea coast of any State," suggested Senator Pasco, and $500 went to that State. "And North Carolina has been promised one," said Senator Butler, so the old Tar Heel State was not forgotten.

"Wyoming is certainly entitled to a fish station," remarked the alert Senator Clark, and Wyoming went into the bill.

By this time it seemed as if every State in the Union would get its $500 but the clerk hurried to the next paragraph and the grab-bag was closed.

Our I's and....Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn., who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholesale and retail, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. I believe Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier, that has been introduced to the general public." This, from a man who has sold thousands of dozens of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is strong testimony. But it only echoes popular sentiment the world over, which has, "Nothing but words of praise for Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

Any doubt about it? Send for "Curebook" It kills doubts and cures doubters. Address J. C. AYER CO., Lowell, Mass.
