NOTE OF WARNING.

New York Full of Imported Hats and Bewildering Millinery Goods—The Standard's Letter.

No. 7 Fifth Avenue, New York City, Sept. 16, '97—Millinery is indeed beautiful this season, and New York is so full of the loveliest imported hats. It is quite bewildering when one tries to attend Wanamaker's, Koch's, Rothschilds' and a half dozen other "swell" openings in a day.

I shall be home soon with an exquisite line of patterns. On exhibition about October 1st.

Respectfully,
(Miss) NANNIE ALEXANDER.

THE CABARRUS KLONDIKE

Gold Hunters Rewarded by Rich Finds of Gold in Western Cabarrus—Fever Not Abating.

The gold fever in Cabarrus has as many victims in proportion as the yellow fever regions of the south, since several parties in the Poplar Tent section of the county have made wonderful finds of free gold on the plantations of F Davis Brumley and J C Johnston. A vein that is said to be unusually rich has been discovered on the property of the above named gentlemen. It is said to be only six feet from the surface and on a line with the bed that lies on the Shakespeare Harris plantation.

Mr. Brumley was in the city Saturday and told THE STANDARD reporter that several pennyweights a day had been gathered from a branch that runs through his place, and that parties are making exceedingly good wages at panning the dirt from the branch. Quartz that is picked up on the hillsides and in the level places on Mr. Brumley's and Mr. Johnston's farms contain great quantities of free gold, and the attention of all the miners in this section has been directed that way, and the gentlemen in possession of the lands have been offered very flattering prices for their properties.

Nuggets of considerable weight continue to be found on Mr. J S Harris' place, which adjoins those above named.

Broke a Horn.

The fine Jersey cow of Mrs. J A Kennett suffered intense pain Sunday morning, by breaking one of her horns. In some way the animal got her head fastened in the wire fencing and in trying to free herself, the member popped off. Her groans were pitiful to hear.

Eighty to Begin With—More to Come
Rev. H N Miller, principal of Mont Amœna Seminary at Mount Pleasant, was in the city Saturday and told THE STANDARD that his school opened under the most pleasing auspices and that the number of pupils now enrolled reached eighty, with several more to come in this week.

Mont Amœna is one of the best educational institutions in this section, and Cabarrus is justly proud of its successful career.

MURR FAGGART.

Romantic Marriage of Two Young People Well-Known in this City.

Many of our citizens were prone to believe it Sunday afternoon when the announcement was made that Mr. Kiah P Murr, of this city, and Miss Daisy Faggart, of No. 4 township, were married.

For several years past the young couple have been devoted lovers and there being some objections to the union, their marriage was postponed from time to time until at last when separation could no longer be endured, Sunday afternoon Mr. Murr went to the home of his bride's father, Mr. D C Faggart, got her consent to take a ride and forthwith the couple wended their way to the city and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of a number of friends they were married at the Forest Hill Methodist parsonage by Rev. J D Arnold.

Mr. Murr is a son of Mr. David L Murr of this city, and is well-known to everybody in this section. Mrs. Murr is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D C Faggart, of No. 9 township, and is a sister of Mrs. K L Dove and Mrs. W C Earnhardt, of this city.

THE STANDARD joins their many friends in hearty congratulations and good wishes.

The happy couple will reside at the home of the groom's father on Spring street.

BARELY MISSED HIM.

A Passenger Train Came Near Running Into a One-Horse Dray Wagon.

There was a throng of excited people at the depot this morning, when No. 36, the northbound passenger train pulled in.

Jack Ritchie attends a one-horse dray for the Cannon Manufacturing company. He was on his wagon going to the Standard O I warehouse and a line of cars shut from view the incoming train. He jostled along and while he was crossing the track the train was only about twenty-five yards from him. The hair on the heads of the loiters around the depot stood straight up and the screams of the excited people were thrilling, while the blood in their bodies chilled with terror. But the noble engineer saw the pandemonium and quickly reversed his lever, checking the speed of the train enough to avert what might have been a horrible accident.

Escaping steam from the engine of the local freight train and the clatter of the machinery at the Cabarrus cotton mill made it almost impossible for Mr. Ritchie to hear the incoming train.

Gained Ten Pounds.

A letter from Mr. Will Weddington, who is at Roanoke College, Salem, Va., states that he arrived there all right last Wednesday, and that he has picked up in flesh about 10 pounds. He says there are thirteen "Tar Heels" there, and that prospects for a good baseball team next spring are very promising. He says that Roanoke College opened with more students than ever before.
