CONCORD, SEPT. 24 1897.

A WOMAN MACHINIST.

Women have of late years invaded many of the callings formerly monopolized by men. Now a woman has added to the list by becoming a machinist. In the course of discussion based upon this departure, a Philadelphia woman said, "I believe I am as liberal as most of my sex, and I think it is proper for women to earn her living. But I also believe that women should use good judgment in selecting a vocation. It is possible, of course, that a woman could become a good machinist, as far as understanding and directing the work is concerned, but she was not intended by nature for manual labor. Even if her physical powers were equal to the lifting of heavy material and the manipulation of cumbersome machinery, she should remember that she owes something to her race. It is the duty of women to become wives and mothers, and with that destiny before them they should do nothing that could tend to make their children less strong than they are themselves, which would be the inevitable result of overtaxing their own strength. There are so many vocations for which women are adapted that it is not necessary for them to go into machine shops to earn a livelihood. Fortunately not many of them will follow the example we are talking about."

The President of Mexico did not Diaz easily as his assailant expected. —Norfolk Landmark.

There is no occasion for alarm in this section because there is a case of yellow fever reported at Atlanta.

Because a man throws up his straw hat, it's not due to enthusiasm over the approach of cold weather.

That heavy roller that's doing service for the town of West Depot street is a good thing, if they can push it along.

Now that the storm era is past, and warm weather has returned there are not many of our citizens so wrapped up in Concord.

John H Pearson, a Democrat and an opponent of the 99-year lease, and a member of the last Legislature, has been appointed a railroad commissioner by Governor Russell in the place of S Otho Wilson, while L C Caldwell, who flopped from the Democratic ranks to the rank Populists, has landed at the head of the commission to succeed James W Wilson, chairman of the board. This is truly a time of changes and we know not what a day may bring forth.

Ladies do not admire the genuine masher that's on West Depot street with as much sincerity as they do some that's on Main street, but it can't be because the first named is not a high roller.

Pointed Paragraphs.

A bad epigram, like a worn-out pencil, has no point to it.

Compliments on a tombstone might be termed epi-taffy.

Marriage is an eye salve that restores sight to blind lovers.

Conversing with a man who always agrees with you is about as monotonous as talking to an echo.

The wise man profits by experience; but he is still wiser who profits by the experience of others.

When a man has a reputation for wisdom he can say foolish things and his friends applaud them as sarcasm.

It takes the average woman about twice as long to make up her complexion as it does to make up her mind.

Some men are never satisfied to remain at the bottom of the ladder; they always try to get farther down.

A man gets very little credit for what he does in this world, but he gets lots of blame for what he doesn't.

If you want to see the smartest, cutest and sweetest baby that ever lived, just get any mother to show you hers.

The girl who tries to imitate a man is idiotic, but the imitation is often very flattering just the same.

A man isn't always to blame for thinking more of his typewriter than he does of his wife; he can dictate to his typewriter.

Some of us have more ups and downs in this world than others, but when we get to the cemetery we will all be on a dead level. —Chicago News.
