A BAD RECORD.

Thus far Kentucky is the only State with a bloody election record of last Tuesday. Thirteen is the number killed and two the number wounded. Besides these there were a number of hand to hand contests, including some cuttings.

The most serious part of the fatal conflicts was in Frankfort, where some Democrats succeeded in getting some negroes to leave town with out voting, hauling them out in wagons. A party of Republicans, under the lead of one Frank Egbert, waylaid them on their return, seriously wounding John W Smith and slightly wounding the negro driver Deputy Sheriff, Ted Deakins, organized a force to arrest Egbert. The deputy's force was met by the crowd with brandishing pistols. About 50 shots were fired and Egbert and one of his men were killed, and Deakins was mortally wounded, while a negro was slightly wounded. At Paris about 50 shots were fired, but with poor aim, as it resulted in the wounding of two negroes only. Several encounters were confined to the negroes.

Upon the whole it was a dark record day for Kentucky. What a pity that men can't differ honestly and charitably.

ANOTHER SNAKE STORY.

There's no end to the sizes and shapes of stories manufactured out of snakes or some other whole cloth.

A truthful somebody (of course) told the Raleigh Daily Times one of the following drift:

A family near Darlington, S. C., was visited by a large snake with 26 rattles that would crawl into bed with different members of the family. It scared the madam almost to death, but quickly made its escape at first till it convinced the family that it meant no evil to them. They could neither kill it nor shut it out.

Once upon a time, all in 1897, a burglar put in an appearance for the purpose of a little equalization of this world's goods from this particular family, that certainly was peculiarly blessed, to make life a little easier for himself. His snakeship promptly put himself in position of a protege, kind of nibbled at the burglar's lower limbs and caused the fellow to go dead in a few hours. From then on his serpentine lordship was an honored member of the household and fondled the sire of the family by rubbing his head against papa's cheeks. But the good die young, you know, and rattler died among the wallings and boohoos of that family.

There was a noise heard about here some time ago unaccounted for, now it is explained.

COMPLIMENT ENOUGH.

We have no grander words in our vocabulary with which to embellish a compliment to the heirs of Major L G Heilig, deceased, of Mount Pleasant, than a simple statement of the fact that they have now upon the majority of the youngest heir, Miss Grace, divided up the whole estate with entire satisfaction and mutual good will. There are few such instances on record, and when we remember that any one of of the seven, with less desire for peace and fraternal good will than for the dollars and cents involved, would have defeated the happy results, we can but repeat that a simple statement of the fact is the highest possible compliment. New hope is held out to those who leave property to heirs that it will be a source of pleasure and of unity instead of avaricious misery and alienation.

History in Virginia Will Be Repeated in North Carolina.

There are many Populists in the State who say they left the Democratic party because Cleveland was nominated in 1892. They occupy the same attitude that the Virginians occupied when they joined the Readjuster party. After they joined the Readjusters, they found that their leaders were negroizing the old Dominion in order to get offices for themselves.

In the day of their State's shame and disgrace what did these Readjusters who loved their country do? They said: We did not go into this thing to degrade our State and destroy Anglo-Saxon civilization. We will return to the only party to which a respectable Southern man can afford to belong." And led by parson Massey, enough of these men returned to drive Mahone out of power and to give the State back into good hands. They found a warm welcome to the old home, and they have ever since received the consideration in the Democratic party to which their abilities entitled them.

History will repeat itself. The honest Populists, without any suggestion of trades and bargains, will come back and help their old Democratic comrades drive out the knaves and ignoramuses who are misgoverning the State.—News and Observer.

In his speech of welcome on Tennessee Day, at the Nashville Exposition, Governor Bob Taylor paid the following handsome tribute to North Carolina. Alluding to the old North State, he said:

But who will chide me if I speak tenderly of North Carolina—the mother of Tennessee? We love her for the history she has made. We love her for her heroes, whose names shall live forever in song and story. We love her for the sake of her orators and poets who have enriched the literature of the world. We love her because our people are bound by the sacred ties of blood and because her sons, and the sons of Tennessee, have suffered together on many a battlefield.

It is said that Gen. Weyler's parting speech at Ouba gave offense to the Spanish Cabinet and he will be called to account on his arrival in Spain. There is talk of impeachment. It is difficult to see where the offense comes in, as his declarations of loyalty to Spain were very strong.

In the Chautauqua for October, Mr. Carroll D Wright, it is said, gave interesting statistics showing the increase of percentage of females in the different callings where once men's domain was scarcely contested. With this increased percentage of women comes a corresponding decreased percentage of men and children recorded as at work. Is it that the kids are belled and turned out like berry grazing while the men are telling smutty yarns and whittling goods boxes?

Electric Bitters. Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails. When the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache indigestion, constipation, dizziness yields to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Fetzner Drug Store.
