CONCORD, N. C., MONDAY NOVEMBER 8 1897

WHOLE No.—1044

LEXINGTON SALISBURY

Will Get to Salisbury in a Bicycle Meet if Taylor Will Come to the Front.

Mr. Alex Springs, of Lexington, it seems, wants to get Salisbury's bicycle champion, Tony Taylor, on the race track, to beat or get beat. The following letter was written Editor Jno. M. Julian, last Friday, which explains itself:

Dear Sir:—I have written to two or three parties in your city in regard to the Springs-Taylor five-mile meet, but by some means I have been unable to hear from them. Now, if Taylor wants to meet me he will have to name his date at once, so I can go in training, for I am ready to go in.

He can make his date any time between the 15th and 19th, not later, for business prevents.

Awaiting a decision, I am,

A A SPRINGS, JR.

For Over Fifty Years

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Joyous Day at St. Andrews.

It was no little pleasure for pastor and people of St. James' church to leave their own sanctuary and join that noble mission band at St. Andrews in making Sunday the 7th one of glad recollections.

The house of worship has undergone some much needed improvements of a substantial character, and till this was done the congregation found themselves with a little church so neat and inviting as to be a joy to every devout worshipper entering it.

Rev. V R Stickley, president of the North Carolina Synod, assisted by Revs. J Q Wertz, C B Miller and Pastor McCullough, by the impressive rite of the Lutheran church, dedicated, or set apart, the church and all pertaining thereto to the sacred purposes of worship.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the congregation again assembled and was addressed by Rev. Stickley. Subject, "The Duty of a Sunday-school Teacher," by Rev. Wertz, "The Children of the Sunday-school," and by Mr. M B Stickley, "The Future of the Church." All received close attention, and we trust much encouragement was imparted.

A special feature of pleasure was the music rendered by the young people under the training of Mr. Leonard, who is conducting a singing school in the church. It makes one glad to see a band of music-lovers making the welkin ring with the outpouring of lovely sentiment in joyous song. This choir is a model of clear and intelligent enunciation, a feature of music so desirable yet so poorly attained generally.

This with the whole programme of the day made the dedication of St. Andrews a day of joy and gladness, and we hope that St. Andrews will score a power of great good.

Under the ministerial service of Rev. McCullough the number of members has increased from 48 to 71.

SOME NEWS.

In Regard to the Responsibility of Store-Keepers and Gaugers of Distilleries.

We clip the following from the News and Observer of some days ago, in regard to the responsibility of storekeepers and gaugers:

District Attorney Holton received the following letter which explains itself: "Being about to accept a position as store-keeper and gauger, I write to inquire if there has been an order issued from the Department of Justice that store-keepers are to be indicted with distillers in case of seizure in violation of the revenue laws? It has not been the custom hitherto to do so. You will confer a favor by giving the above information." The district attorney replied as follows: "I must inform you that store-keepers and gaugers are the trusted agents of the United States assigned to distilleries to see that the law is complied with and the tax upon the spirits produced paid. They are required to give bond and take oath for the faithful discharge of their duties and are paid by the government for their services, and for a failure to discharge their duties heavy fines and imprisonment are imposed. I am of the opinion that a store-keeper and gauger who would take upon himself all these obligations and go as a trusted agent of the distiller to defraud the United States of its tax should be more severely dealt with than the distiller. Besides, my observation teaches me that when men forget themselves, violate their trusts and oaths, become partners in crime, they soon lose all moral restraints and ere long they do not hesitate to go into the court house in a private controversy between their neighbors and swear falsely, if the emergency requires. When a man once loses his regard for his oath, he loses respect for himself and the obligations he owes to his country, and is unworthy to be trusted. If we cannot engage in business in a legitimate manner it is best to abandon the pursuit and seek other avocations, even though less profitable. You may rest assured that the violations of the law by store-keepers and gaugers will be vigorously prosecuted. You may also feel assured that if you prove faithful to your trust and your oath your services will be appreciated and continued."

Romicide in Monroe.

A special from Monroe to the Charlotte Observer says that Hamp Carpenter, a white man, and Louis Olyburn, a young mulatto, full of whisky, went to a festival Friday night and Carpenter got into a tussle with Tom Smith. Carpenter called on his friend to shoot Smith. Olyburn fired, the ball passing through Carpenter's thumb and into Smith's heart, from which Smith died instantly.

Olyburn was arrested promptly.

PERSONAL POINTERS.

—Mr. Will Lindsay, of Salisbury, who is travelling for a Baltimore firm, is in the city today.

—Dr. R S Young spent Saturday night at China Grove with his friend, W J Swink.

—Mr. Robert Julian, of Salisbury, spent several hours in the city this morning in the interest of the State Luther League meeting.

Rumple Hall.

One of the most interesting features of the Presbyterian Synod in session at Salisbury last week was that of the entire body's going by excursion train to Barium Springs, where the new building was formally presented by Dr. Rumble to the Synod and by unanimous vote received and named "Rumple Hall." This name was given it in honor of Dr. Rumble, whose great services were so conspicuous in the consummation of the scheme. It was presented to the Synod unencumbered with debt and at the call for means with which to furnish the building, in less than twenty minutes, says the Salisbury World, $875 were contributed. The train returned to Salisbury in the evening.

The Synod closed a most notable session on Friday.

At the Churches.

Rev. B F Davis is suffering with a carbuncle on the neck and was unable to preach morning or evening at Trinity Reformed church.

St. James church was closed in the morning but Rev. V R Stickley filled Rev. Miller's pulpit in the evening.

Rev. J Q Wertz preached at St. Andrews Sunday evening for Rev. McCullough.

Rev. C W Robinson, of North Wilkesboro, preached morning and evening at the First Presbyterian church instead of the pastor, Rev. Alexander.

A Runaway Marriage.

Cannonsville furnishes us some news in the way of a runaway marriage. The contracting parties were Mr. Calvin Stonestreet, a young gentleman who has been working in our city for several years, and Miss Mamie Martin, of Cannonsville, daughter of Mr. Mangum Martin. They succeeded in boarding the train Saturday night for Pineville, where they were made husband and wife, and have returned home to spend their honeymoon. The opposing parties, we learn, are becoming pacified, and "it is all over now."
