HERE THEY GO.

The Train of Moving People Will Soon Begin—One Goes Right After the Other.

The procession of moving people will soon begin, and all the parties in the wake-up are getting their baggage ready. The procession will consist of eight families, none of them going a very long distance. The family of Mr. J. M. Hendrix will lead the procession, though it is not definitely known what day they will begin. They will move from the Fetzer house on South Main street to the house on Church street formerly occupied by Dr. Holden. Mr. R. E. Ridenhour will then move to the Fetzer house, leaving the Gillon house for Sheriff Buchanan to occupy. Mr. S. J. Lowe will move into the Morrison house vacated by Sheriff Buchanan, while Mr. Smoot Dayvault moves to the house now occupied by Mr. Lowe. Dr. Young has purchased the house where Mr. Dayvault now lives, and will probably move when the Montgomery house is vacated, though this is not definite, and Dr. Stevens will then move where Dr. Young is now living. Then Dr. M. L. Marsh and wife, who are now boarding at Mrs. Henderson's, will move into the house vacated by Dr. Stevens. Then we think the procession will be past.

Better Kill a Man Than Shoot a Bull.

At the recent term of Halifax Criminal Court, Judge Sutton, Republican, presiding, a colored man submitted to a verdict of manslaughter and was sentenced to 3½ years in the penitentiary. A white man who had shot his neighbor's bull because the animal wouldn't stay off his premises, was sentenced to 30 days on the roads and fined $50. He didn't kill the bull, either. The evidence showed that the animal had broken into and trespassed upon his premises repeatedly, and that, after repeated ineffectual warnings to its owner to take it away, he shot it, inflicting only slight injuries. If the bull had been killed the man would doubtless have received as severe punishment as the negro who had taken human life.

The Scotland Neck Commonwealth says that Sutton inflicted very light punishment in all cases where the defendants were colored.

This is a specimen of our "reform" and "non-partisan" judiciary.—Statesville Landmark.

Not a Paying Investment.

We are told of a sewing machine agent that is not a thousand miles away, who promised a young lady a nice gold watch if she would induce her father to buy a sewing machine from him. The lady has succeeded in her task, and the girl's father is now looking at the different styles at the jewelry store, and will probably advise the young man as to which one he thinks would suit the fair maiden best.

Telephone Change.

As will be noticed at the top of the local column, the number of our telephone has been changed from 2 to 71. The Steam Laundry had been assigned No. 2 long before the line was put up, but when our phone was connected it was found to be No. 2, instead of the Laundry. Mr. Frazier had had a lot of his blanks printed with his telephone number on them, so we have consented to have our number changed.

A Sad Suicidal Fate.

Miss Lelia Herbert, the daughter of ex-Secretary Herbert committed suicide on Tuesday by jumping out of the third story window of the Herbert home in Washington city. She was being treated for acute melancholia, which tends to suicidal insanity and had severed her right artery with a pair of scissors.

When discovered the attendant hastened for assistance and during the short absence the unfortunate lady made the fatal jump. She struck the asphalt sidewalk with her head and died in about one hour after the fall.

Miss Herbert was much admired for her graceful bearing in Washington society, especially while her father was in charge of the navy department.

Acquitted of Murder.

Mc Ginn, of Sharon township, Mecklenburg county, who was on trial for the murder of Lester Turner, was promptly acquitted of the charge, the jury being unanimous in the first vote.

A Case of Diphtheria.

Miss Blanche, the twelve-year-old daughter of Mr. W. C. Boyd, has a fully developed case of diphtheria, we learn. She is isolated from the rest of the family, and but one, her sister, enters the room. We think there need be no alarm, but prudential caution should be exercised as a safeguard against the spread of this malignant disease.

Grimm-Phillips Marriage.

This evening at 8 o'clock, Mr. Jesse Griffin, who is employed at Sappenfield's store, was married to Miss Emma Phillips, of South Spring street. The ceremony took place at the Lutheran parsonage, Rev. O. B. Miller officiating. THE STANDARD extends its hearty congratulations to the newly wedded couple.
