JUDGE McIVER.

The habit of eulogizing judges when the very manner raises some suspicion that there is a sinister purpose has met with such criticism from influential sources as to almost deter one from making other than unfavorable reference to those presiding at our courts. But in the interests of due respect and appreciation of this best known means of enforcing the duties of man to his State and of distinctly marking the line of right between man and man we feel justified in noting that Judge McIver has been very happy in his rulings during this court to give the greatest degree of satisfaction to the bar, and to inspire among the common people that confidence in his court, as the temple of justice, that is promotive of the peace and dignity of State. A court may be rigidly just or piously lenient and yet be not well calculated to lessen crime, for the true object of law and courts may not be apparent. In these respects Judge McIver seems to rise to the full height of his judicial functions, and it is but just to say that respect for courts has been promoted, and this term will be looked upon as a model rarely attained to in its beneficence.

The papers have noted the starting of the Indian Head Mills at Cordova, Ala. This is one of the largest new plants in the South, containing 10,000 looms and 50,000 spindles. It gives employment to 1,000 persons, but next year it will double its capacity and the number of hands, as it has already sold its production for five years ahead in China. This plant is owned entirely by Boston capitalists, Mr. Harcourt Amory being the principal investor. As a pioneer it does first rate, and shows that when the New Englanders do invade the South they will bring big mills along with them. The South is big enough to hold them.—Charlotte Observer.

It seems that lice were found in Germany on some pears shipped from California that are said to be identical with the San Jose louse, which now forms such a terror to fruit growers of our own land. This forms something of a plausible excuse for debarring American fruits. A liberal international policy, though, might make the evil look much less formidable.

Every woman needs Dr. Miles' Pain Pills.

Sheriff Martin and His Deputies on Trial.

Sheriff Martin and his deputies who fired on the band of strikers last September at Hazelton and did such fearful havoc are on trial at Wilkesbarre. The trial is expected to take about four weeks. There are about 150 witnesses for the State and probably 200 for the defense. It was a terrible tragedy and will require a great trial to ferret out where the real crime was. Dr. Keller, who treated the 39 patients at the hospital testified that 5 were shot directly in front, indirectly, 9; directly in side 15, indirectly, 6; directly in rear, 3; indirectly, 8. Of the 39, seven died in the hospital, two are recovering slowly and 30 have been discharged, one though, not entirely well.

The evidence on the side of the commonwealth looks rather bad for the deputies thus far.

The Moodus Noises.

The Scientific American says there is a place in the Connecticut Valley, near Mount Tom, from which noises proceed periodically and that the noise period is now on. There are noises, says a writer, that sound like the firing of small arms then of a cannon and the whizzing of shells. Sometimes more nearly resembling thunder. The earth trembles like in an earthquake till crockery rattles in houses, yet no smoke as of explosion is to be seen. There has been no satisfactory explanation of the phenomenon. It was observed by the Indians before the presence of the white man.

The Indians called it Matchemadaset or "place of bad noises." It reminds us of the famous Fingal's cave on the West coast of Scotland that forms the basis of so much romance.

This great generous country of ours overdoes the matter sometimes as in the case of Congress when it appropriates $2,000 to each party in a contest for a seat in the body. With some economy the defeated candidate can make it profitable to contest for his seat. The contesting enterprise has thrived under this protective system. Every contest, though, counts $4,000 direct from Uncle Sam's pocket beside the time and energy diverted from subjects more deserving for the public interests. A wholesome halt along this line is probable. This scrambling for the office to which one is not elected is one of the growing industries that does not need a fostering of $2,000.

The railroad commission seems determined to drive the Southern Railway out of the State. They are continually and eternally harassing Col. Andrews about rates, passes, etc. One thing we would like to know and that is, whose business is it if Col. Andrews issues passes to the whole State? He has done more to help the old State of North Carolina in the way of inducing capital and manufacturing to come here than any one else, then pray why try to ruin his business? The present railroad commission as it is constituted is a great humbug and we believe the honest yeomanry of North Carolina will rise up in their might and repudiate the whole gang at the first opportunity.—Elkin Journal.

Miss Long to Be a Doctor.

Washington Telegram to the Pittsburg Dispatch.

Miss Margaret Long, second daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, has just passed a brilliant examination and matriculated, in the senior class of the medical school of the Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore. She intends to continue her studies in this institution until she is prepared to practice medicine at her home, Boston.

Miss Long is unusually prepossessing in appearance, but she has never been given to social frivolities. Soon after her father's nomination for the cabinet she announced her intention of fitting herself for a profession.

ELY BROTHERS,

I was afflicted with catarrh last autumn. During the month of October I could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus G. Shantz, Rabway, N. J.

A brother editor says: "No sensible man should get angry because a newspaper man duns him for money. A dun is not an impeachment of a subscriber's integrity, but it is the outcropping of the publisher's necessity. For instance, a thousand men owe from one to four dollars. He has to dun them to pay expenses. Instead of becoming angry for what is honestly due, the subscriber should thank the editor for waiting on him patiently and pay up like a man."—Ex.

Gloomy, Hopeless Life

Internal Pains—Lame, Tired, Nervous—Every Bad Symptom Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For nearly five years I suffered with a severe case of stomach trouble. I had pains in my stomach and bowels so that I could not stand or work without great suffering. My appetite was very poor and when I did eat anything I was shortly afterwards seized with vomiting spells. I could not rest at night and felt lame and tired all over. I became nervous and had no energy whatever. My life seemed gloomy and hopeless. My husband advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I began taking it and the first bottle did me a great deal of good. I continued with it regularly and have now almost fully regained my natural weight and am doing nearly all my housework." MRS. RINDA CROCKER, Gladstone, Ala.
