JENKINS QUANTZ WEDDING

Which Took Place at the Home of the Bride Tuesday Night—A Nice Affair.

At 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, the appointed hour, at the home of the bride on East Corbin street, one of the nicest occasions was solemnized when Miss Berta Quantz and Mr. Will Jenkins were united in marriage.

Only a few friends besides the relatives witnessed the occasion, it being a quiet home affair. Those present besides the family were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jenkins, the groom's parents, and daughter, Miss Gassie Jenkins, Mrs. Rev. C B Miller, Mrs. Jas. P Cook, Misses Addie Patterson and Connie Oline, Messrs. Jno. R Patters n and Wade Barrier, and Mr. Jas. Northey, of Charlotte, also both of the grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Quantz and Mrs. Patterson.

After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. C B Miller, pastor of the Lutheran church, the bridal couple boarded the train for Charlotte, where they will spend several days, after which they go to Mr. Jenkins' home at Heile Gold Mine, S. C.

Mr. Jenkins is one of the officials at the Heile Gold Mine, being the chief electrician and machinist at that place and is known by quite a lot of people. Miss Quantz is one of Concord's finest ladies and is well thought of by all who know her.

To this newly married couple THE STANDARD extends its congratulations, and may their life ever be one of joy, peace and happiness.

Household Gods.

The household god of today is Dr. King's New Discovery. For consumption, coughs, colds and for all affections of throat, chest and Lungs it is invaluable. It has been tried for a quarter of a century and is guaranteed to cure, or money returned. No household should be without this good angel. It is pleasant to take and a safe and sure remedy for old and young. Free trial bottles at Fetzter's Drug Store, Regular size 50c and $1.

RIMER MISREPRESENTED.

She Deserves a Better Name Than Has Been Given Her.

Much has been said relative to the above place, and many conclusions formed which are incorrect, and all probably, because many have been misinformed, and opinions based upon reports and not on facts.

What Rimer town was before the flood, or even before the Revolutionary war, I would not pretend to say, but I know its modern history is not near as bad as some think. How the report ever got circulated that this town is a hard place I cannot say; but it seems to have been customary for other places to try to palm off some of their bad conduct on Rimer town; and if any unpleasant thing would occur within a radius of three miles of this place Rimer would have the blame to bear. The writer has known visitors from other places to behave very unbecomingly around our church here, who seemed to think we were able to bear the disrepute; but we don't propose to tolerate anything of the kind either around the church or in the town; and we would advise all parties to teach their young people to behave when they are away from home. But it is a great pleasure to say that this bad conduct around the church was in the past, and as we, as a congregation and town, know we can demean ourselves as well as any other place, we do not propose to be censured for every evil that is perpetrated in east Cabarrus. The intent, therefore, of this article, is to correct the error abroad, and to inform everybody concerned that the statement that "Rimertown is a hard place," is incorrect. The writer has been laboring with and for these people for more than seven months, and he finds the citizens of this place and vicinity to be up with those of other places in kindness, hospitality, morality, church work, etc.

Rimertown is a beautiful place, and is of an enterprising character and business capacity.

We have a postoffice, two stores, a black smith shop, cotton gin, saw mill and so on. The phone is spoken of and will probably come to Rimer soon. We also have a free school and neat frame Lutheran church, the outlook of which is very encouraging. The inducements for good moral incomers are strong, and lots can now be had at reasonable prices.
