CONCORD, APRIL 23 1898

The Associated Press is an association of all the principal daily newspapers of the United States for the collection and transmission of news. It leases wires from the Western Union Telegraph company owns its own telegraph instruments and hires its own operators. The service begins, for afternoon newspapers, at 7.30 a. m. and ends about 3.30 or 4.00 p. m. The Associated Press maintains an office and a staff of correspondents at Washington, New York and Chicago, has a similar office in London, which obtains foreign news through the great European news agencies. The cost of the collection and transmission of news is assessed upon the papers receiving the service, in proportion to the size of the report they receive and their relative importance as newspapers.—Ex.

The Wilmington Star is a veritable journalistic star in point of witty paragraphs especially, but it fell into the train of prophesying that there would be no war and as late as its issue of the 21st it clings to the belief that there will not be, basing its opinion on the very last possible hypothesis that Spain will not fight. We read Spains temper quite differently. Spain, we think, will have to be pretty soundly drubbed, especially if she should hold her own pretty well in the beginning.

In naming one of the new navy vessels the "Dixie," the Secretary of the Navy has given further official evidence of the drawing together of the bonds of the union between the North and the South, which cannot fail to please citizens of all sections of the country. No one doubts that if necessity shall arise the "Dixie" will give a good account of herself.—New York Herald.

Sherman Will Resign.

Washington, April 22.—The Post tomorrow will say: "There is every reason to believe that Secretary Sherman will resign from the cabinet within the next few days. It is felt by friends of the Secretary that the present crisis is too severe a strain upon his failing strength, and for this reason he will retire to private life. His successor will be Assistant Secretary Day, in all probability, but it can be stated that Judge Day has no desire to remain in public life."

Uncle Sam Has Never Been Whipped.

Speaking of war prompts the reflection that Uncle Sam has been uniformly successful every time he has appealed to the sword.

In the 123 years of his existence he has waged five wars—the war of the revolution, the war of 1812, the war with the Barbary States the Mexican war and the war for the Union. The various brushes he has had with the Indians were mere incidents. In every one of these wars the stars and stripes have been triumphant. In the war with the Barbary States Uncle Sam was a long way off from his base of supplies, and the Barbary States were backed by the moral support of Great Britain, and yet Uncle Sam cleaned up those pirates so thoroughly that the Mediterranean sea became as free from their attacks as is one of the American island seas. The war of the revolution and the war of 1812 were fought against tremendous odds, and yet the United States won. In the same period, or since the beginning of the United States' independence, England has carried on six wars, two of which, that of the colonies and the war of 1812, were lost to her.

France lost two wars in the same period, the war with the allied powers and the Franco-Prussian war. Prussia, out of five wars in that period, lost two. Austria lost three, Russia two, and Spain every one she undertook except the ten years' war in Cuba, which she never did admit was anything more than an insurrection, and which she quelled by false promises.

Uncle Sam is not likely to break his record of success in the impending brush, if the brush comes.—Mexico Two Republican.

Can't Lose Charlotte.

The amiable and neighborly Concord gentleman who was wondering, a few weeks ago, what special prominence Charlotte would contrive to get out of the war if there should be one is hereby informed that Ensign Walker, of this city, is one of the officers on board the Nashville which yesterday morning captured a Spanish lumber-laden vessel. You can't lose Charlotte.—Charlotte Observer.

A Spaniard for a Cup of Coffee.

One of the soldiers that passed through this morning on the troop trains was heard in conversation with an engineer at the Southern depot. He said to the engineer: "If you will give me a cup of hot water to make some coffee, I will bring you a Spaniard to pay for it when we come back."—Charlotte News.

A Michigan man has in his possession a piece of hard-tack issued as a part of the rations of the regiment in which he served during the civil war. Though thirty-three years old, the biscuit is said to be in an excellent state of preservation.—Home Visitor.

THIEVES ABOUT.

Steal Corn from Mrs. George M. Walter's Farm—About Thirty Bushels.

News comes to us this (Saturday) morning that thieves entered the barn on the farm of Mrs. George M. Walter, in No 5 township, Friday night and stole twenty-five or thirty bushels of corn in the ear.

Mr. Zeb Walter, son of Mrs. Walter, lives at the place and was at home, but the barn is a considerable distance from the house, and he did not hear any one during the night.

About 3 o'clock that night, as Mr. Anthony Bost was returning to his home on East Depot street, he saw two wagons coming up the street from out in that direction, and, thinking it something unusual for two wagons to be travelling at this hour of the night, he followed them a short distance to where they passed an electric light, and they had something on sacks in their wagons which one might suppose is corn. Mr. Charlie Sappenfield also heard them pass his house on East Corbin street. Besides, a negro beyond the depot heard two wagons pass about the same time also.

The thieves have not yet been caught.

WINE OF CARDUI THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure
