Raise Provisions.

The southern newspapers are doing the farmers and all the people of this section good service when they urge the planting of larger food crops and the raising of more hogs. The war came upon us when it was not too late to provide, at least partially, against the calamity of short food supplies in the south this year.

Already the prices of provisions have advanced and they will go higher as the war advances. It passes comprehension that the great majority of the farmers of the south have gone on year after year relying upon the west for their meat and bread when they could have raised it at home for less than its ordinary cost. Now that the price of corn, the price of wheat, the price of meat, the price of everything to eat, is sure to go up and may remain unusually high for a year or longer, it would be the height of folly to depend upon the western supply instead of our own farms.

We hope that the war cloud which has been lowering for some time has given our farmers a warning which they have heeded and that the south will have a larger product of hog and hominy than usual this year.—Durham Sun.

It is to be hoped that Spain will learn some lessons in civil warfare from the United States. The President's liberal methods in dealing with her commerce on the seas and his avowed purpose to have no privateering, the admiral's paroling of an officer to gratify his great desire to see his family and the kind reception of prisoners should bring a smile on many a Spanish cheek and show them the heights of civilization to which they have not attained.

Too Much Of the Commercial.

Says the Philadelphia Record: Justice Patterson, of New York, in a speech before the Law Club of that city recently, deplored the fact that the law had become so largely a trade instead of a profession; and on the following day Dr. Edward Everett Hale, in an address before an educational body in the same city on "Morality in the Public Schools," made the declaration: "There is danger of the managers of a great machine taking more pride in the machine and its workings than in the results it turns out. This is the danger in our public schools." These words will, of course, be resented as the views of pessimists; yet they come from men qualified to speak as public teachers, and coming simultaneously they gain an emphasis which must command attention. We are accustomed to flatter ourselves with the idea that our development along material lines necessarily involves a corresponding development along intellectual and moral lines. However that may be, the fact can no longer be denied that the commercial instinct is beginning to dominate almost every action of our people.

Interesting Statistics.

In answer to questions by "A Rebel," the Charleston News and Courier says, "The reports of the adjutant general of the United States in July, 1865, show that the armies of the United States on May 1, 1865, included 1,000,516 men of arms. Of that number 176,800 were Germans, 144,200 Irishmen, 53,500 British Americans, 45,500 Englishmen and 79,900, other foreigners."

Editor Hull, of the Rock Hill Herald says that the largest muster roll of the Confederacy for troops ready for duty at one time was 472,781 on January 1, 1864, while the number mustered into service from first to last was about 600,000.

The Julia Magruder Club

Met with Mrs. W. R. Odell last Tuesday. The absence of several of the members was much regretted, but this void was most charmingly filled by the guests present. The author for the day was J. M. Barrie. He was so delightful and prolific a subject, that the meeting was long and enthusiastic. The club is impatiently awaiting his new novel, "Celebrated Tommy." Mrs. Odell served with her delicious refreshments, the most beautiful and luscious strawberries, which, of course, must have been of her own raising.

WINE OF CARDUI THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure taken in the privacy of a woman's own home insures quick relief and speedy cure. Women need not hesitate now. Wine of Cardui requires no humiliating examinations for its adoption. It cures any disease that comes under the head of "female troubles"—disordered menses, falling of the womb, "whites," change of life. It makes women beautiful by making them well. It keeps them young by keeping them healthy. $1.00 at the drug store.

For advice in cases requiring special directions, address, giving symptoms, the "Ladies' Advisory Department," The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. I. ADDISON, M.D., Cary, Miss., says: "I use Wine of Cardui extensively in my practice and find it a most excellent preparation for female troubles."

Three Cheers for Col. Armfield.

On Thursday night at nearly 8 o'clock, when THE STANDARD received a dispatch stating that J. F. Armfield, of Statesville, had been appointed Colonel of the First Regiment of Volunteers, it was at once read to the Cabarrus Light Infantry, which was then on drill in the streets. There cheers at once went up for Col. Armfield.

This ought to make every member of this company feel proud to think that their former Colonel of the then Fourth Regiment is yet to be at the head of their columns.

Too Much Grief to Bear.

A Newton lady whose son left home yesterday to enlist in the army was so overcome with grief that she swooned away at the depot. The mother followed her son to the train and, although he hid in the car, she found him and pleaded with him to stay at home. He was obdurate, however, and the mother's words fell on deaf ears. She had to leave the train as it was pulling out and fainted away on the platform.—Salisbury World.
