DI NOT FIND THE SPANISH.
Troops to Move to Chickamauga—Five Thousand to Manila—A Sword of Honor for Dewey—Arms for the Insurgents—Spain in Distress.
If indications since the morning exchanges are at hand are verified the crisis may be stayed and the fleets may not meet today. It seems that Sampson did not find the enemy.

Troops are on the move in earnest. After going to press Monday evening the Charlotte Observer telegraphed THE STANDARD that our First North Carolina Regiment had orders to go to Chickamauga. The destiny of this regiment seems to be Cuba, while the Second Regiment will probably move to the coasts very soon.
Five thousand troops are to be sent to Manila as quickly as possible. There is reason to believe that Spain will make a strong effort to relieve Manila. There is little fear, however, that she can send a fleet sufficient in power to endanger Admiral Dewey.

The President sent a message to Congress asking that a vote of thanks be given to Mr. Dewey on whom he had conferred the title of Acting Rear Admiral, and also thanks to his officers and men for their splendid conduct. Both Houses promptly passed a unanimous vote of thanks. Both houses increased the number of admirals to seven that the President might nominate Mr. Dewey for the commission which the Senate will be glad to confirm. Beside this the Senate requested the Secretary of the Navy to present to Admiral Dewey a sword of honor and to present to each officer and man that participated in the famous battle a bronze medal in commemoration of the event.
The work of arming the insurgents goes on. The steamer Gussie is booked to leave Tampa today with 7,000 or more Springfield rifles and 200,000 rounds of ammunition. Spain's internal condition is deplorable enough. Monday twelve or more rioters at Linares were killed and fifty were wounded. At Brones the village priest was stoned to death. Riots have broken out at Cadiz and other points. The responsibility of office holding is not inviting in Spain just now.

GROCERS

SPANISH PRISONERS.

Sixteen Spaniards are now behind the bars in Atlanta waiting for an exchange of prisoners or until the war is over.
From the Atlanta Journal we learn that sixteen Spanish prisoners were brought to the city of Atlanta last Sunday. They are captives from the Alfonso XII and every one of them held high positions of honor in General Blanco's army.

Upon marching them through the streets they conducted themselves well and showed no signs of resentment until the order was given for them to be searched. Then their colonel, Vincente de Cortijo, stepped forward and put in a protest, saying that his men were honest men and that they had no contraband of war or weapons concealed on their persons, but of course this did not change the order, as the United States now has not too good an opinion of the Spanish folks.

Colonel Vincent de Cortijo, the highest officer in the crowd, is very indignant over being searched and made the remark that he was going to starve himself to death, and vowed that he was not going to leave his cot until he was dead, but when meal time came he seemed to have changed his mind as he quickly responded.
The prisoners are treated splendidly but are not allowed any privileges save walking about at leisure in the guard house, and are well fed.
