Grades in Our Navy.

The average citizen is much more familiar with the grades in army than with those in the navy. The army mingles more with the people than the navy, whose representatives are seldom seen except in our seacoast cities, but is well to understand what the grades in the navy are.

There were no admirals or vice-admirals in our navy until the civil war. These grades were created then as rewards for distinguished naval service, just as the ranks of general and lieutenant general were established for distinguished service in the army.

The United States have had but two admirals, first, David G. Farragut, and then David D. Porter; only three vice admirals, Farragut, Porter and Andrew H. Foote.

The rank of rear admiral has existed ever since the establishment of our navy, as has the rank of major general in our army. The ranks in the navy and the army correspond as follows:

Navy.	Army.
Admiral	General
Vice admiral.	Lieut. General.
Rear admiral.	Major General.
Commodore.	Brig. General.
Captain.	Colonel.
Commander.	Lieut. colonel.
Lieut. commander.	Major.
Lieutenant.	Captain.
Ensign	Lieutenant.

Even when we had an admiral of the navy and a general of the army they did not command the entire army and navy except under the direction of the president who under the constitution, is the commander-in-chief of both.

The naval officers or highest rank has command of the fleet or squadron with which he is present, just as the ranking army officer commands the troops with whom he is in the field or in camp.

The sea forces of the United States consists, first, the entire navy; second, a fleet; third, a squadron; fourth, single vessels, according to their size and power. A real admiral commands a fleet, as a major general commands a division. A commodore commands a squadron, as a brigadier general commands a brigade. A captain commands a ship of the largest size, as colonel commands a regiment. Commanders command vessels of the second class and the officers of minor rank have appropriate commands down to the smallest craft in the navy.

In the absence of rear admirals commodores command fleets and squadrons. The command of navy yards corresponds to the command of army departments. —Atlanta Journal.

We have recently been treated to a copy of the North Carolina Journal of Education for the first time, though it is the 10th number of the first volume. It is a bright, attractive journal, and being a home journal it should find its way into the hands of all teachers in the State. It is published at Greensboro by Prof. P. P. Claxton, of the State Normal and Industrial School, and Prof. Logan D. Howell, superintendent of the Raleigh Public schools. The price is the very small sum of 50 cents per annum.

It is remarkable that some of the newspapers have it that Rear Admiral Sampson's bombardment of San Juan resulted in silencing the enemy's guns and of effecting a surrender, while it appears from the Associated Press that the bombardment lasted for three hours with little effect, the Spanish even claiming a victory. It looks too much like Spanish silliness to magnify an ineffectual bombardment into a grand victorious achievement.

What seemed a few days ago as an infringement of the laws of neutrality on the part of France at Martinique are understood to be not such, but a fair and square procedure as far as is known, at least by the French government.

Beats the Klondike

Mr. A. C. Thomas, of Marysville, Tex., has found a more valuable discovery than has yet been made in the Klondike. For years he suffered untold agony from consumption, accompanied by hemorrhages; and was absolutely cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. He declares that gold is of little value in comparison with this marvelous cure; would have it, even if it cost a hundred dollars a bottle. Asthma, Bronchitis and all throat and lung affections are positively cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Trial bottles free at P. B. Fetzer's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00. Guaranteed to cure or price refunded.

In his modest recitals of the details of one of the greatest naval victories of modern times Dewey did not forget to mention that all possible was being done for the sick and wounded Spaniards. In this he showed not only that he was humane, but that he appreciated the fact that his countrymen would wish this news, as well as the news of the great victory. —Asheville Gazette.

Remenyi, the Famous Violinist Dead

The Hungarian violinist, Remenyi, is dead. He died on Sunday afternoon while performing on his violin to a vast audience in the Orpheum Theater. This man had a wide reputation and has held some of the finest audiences almost spell bound, as he was doing when he dropped down in the theater. He was playing at his his best and suddenly he fell forward, but fortunately was caught by his accompanist.

Doctors were called at once to his assistance but could lend no aid, as it was only a short time until the life of this famous, world-known musician was at its end.
