STICK TO US LIKE BROTHERS.

We respectfully refer the Recorder to the subjoined from the Statesville Landmark, which is good authority on almost any subject. We could produce quite a number of the same tenor:

"This paper has a record of condemnation of lynch law. It is a desperate punishment and preventive of crime; but it is not in the heart to upbraid those citizens of Cabarrus who last Sunday night visited such swift and terrible vengeance upon those two negroes. The dangers of lynch law are that under its operation the wrong man may be put to death in the passion of the moment and in the eagerness to find a victim; and that if it is exercised and condoned in one class of cases it may spread to others, until the life of no man accused of any crime which aroused popular indignation, whether he be guilty or not, would be safe. If it were confined to such cases as this in Cabarrus, criticism of it would be practically hushed, and indeed criticism and reproof in such instances as this are a waste of words at best. Human nature, the desire to visit speedy punishment, are not to be repressed, and the only way to stop lynch law in this class of cases is through a cessation of the offence."

We extend our fraternal hand with all the gusto of neighborly good-will and esteem to our contemporary, the Monroe Enquirer, for the following manly defense of our county and for the fitting rebuke to the Biblical Recorder:

"The Biblical Recorder says that it believes the negroes lynched near Concord, on May 29th, were innocent. Why the Recorder thinks those two fiends were innocent when they declared their guilt in the face of death and had the blood stains of the murdered girl on their clothing is unknown to us. If there had been any doubt of their guilt before, certainly that doubt was removed when Johnson's pants were found a few days ago in a wood-pile, where he had hidden them, with blood stains on the identical portions of the garment as were found on the overalls of the wretch.

"The Recorder further says, 'The men who lynched them ought to be arrested, tried as speedily as possible and being found guilty, ought to be hanged until they are dead. The greatest shame of it is that the lynching occurred; but scarcely less tolerable is the fact that the whole

State must suffer the disgrace of the crime of a hideous mob.'

"We think that the men who love virtue and who believe in protecting defenseless women are few and far between in our State who would say that the citizens of Cabarrus, who, to revenge the hellish crime committed in the humble home of Sam Hartsell, took the law into their own hands and hanged the criminals, should be put to death for that act. We have heard some of the best and most conservative citizens of the State declare that the lynching was just. The Recorder would do well to give its sympathies to the stricken family of that humble farmer and good citizen, Sam Hartsell, instead of frothing at the mouth and demanding the lives of the men, many of them as good citizens as will be found in the State, who hanged those two brutal, bloody-handed criminals who committed two of the most awful crimes known to law.

"Let the Recorder's desire to see the men of Cabarrus, who lynched Johnson and Kizer, put to death be gratified and every devil in human form would feel that to some extent he is protected in his work of robbing womanhood of its virtue. We doubt not that some of those who took part in that lynching at Concord are men of noble character, men who in the business, the social and the religious walks of life are of as high standing as he who demands their blood and says they should die as criminals. Cursed be the hand which is lifted against the good citizens of Cabarrus who avenged the blood of an innocent girl and sent to their death two wretches who so richly deserved to die.

"The Recorder makes itself disgusting in demanding the lives of the lynchers of Johnson and Kizer."

TRouble IN THE CAMP.

It will be seen in today's issue that some very unpleasant experiences have been suffered in Company L.

It is most unfortunate beside being very criminal in Mr. Winecoff to resent a supposed injury with a false statement against Captain Hill. In as much as such thing existed, we are glad for the publicity that justice may be done to each. We feel sure that Captain Hill will be reconciled to slight abridgement of his communication flowing out of natural indignation. We hope that Mr. Winecoff will profit by the humiliating experience and will not again resent a real or imaginary wrong with a statement that is false. There is yet another that we regret to see entangled in this affair. Captain Hill feels justified in a sharp degree of indignation toward our townsman, Mr. R. K. Black. Being desirous that each should have a chance to be set straight, we phoned Mr. Black, informing him that THE STANDARD would contain Captain Hill's communication, in which he would be denounced.

Mr. Black asked us to state that when he received the letter from Mr. Winecoff he read it in the presence of the group who happened to be present, and on the statement of Mr. Winecoff he did not regard or treat it as a secret. He further told us that he retained the letter, but gave Esquire Hill a copy. He says his motive was to place the information where it could be used for correction if needed. Esquire Hill, however, claims that Mr. Black's course was not satisfactory in the interest of fairness.

Prof. Van Stratten Dead.

For about two weeks, Mr. Henry Van Stratten, father of Mrs. Sol Levy, has been quite sick. On Saturday evening it was noticeable that Mr. Stratten could not live much longer. He died Sunday morning at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Stratten was a man of fine intellect having once been a professor in one of the colleges in Belgium, and was able to converse in several different languages. He came here about two months ago from his home in Athens, Ga., to visit Mrs. Levy. He also has a son in Athens. He was 70 years of age.

The remains were taken to Charlotte on Sunday morning and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon they were interred in the Jewish cemetery.

Loses His Mind.

We are informed that on Saturday morning Mr. Will Barringer, who lives in the community of Hileman's mill in No. 5 township was cutting wheat but on Saturday evening he was found missing. The community began looking for him but not until Sunday morning did they succeed in finding him. He was found in the woods and had eaten nothing. His mind seems to have become deranged. Nothing at this time could be learned as to what would be done with him in his condition or whether he had in any way recovered.

Installation Services.

On Saturday evening Rev. J. N. Faust, the newly elected pastor of Trinity Reformed church, was ordained and installed as the pastor of that church. The services were conducted by Rev. Paul Barringer, of Mt. Pleasant, A. Shulenberger, of China Grove, and J. M. L. Lyerly, of Crescent. The services were to have been held Sunday morning but owing to some engagements on the part of the ministers it was changed to Saturday afternoon. The Holy Sacrament was administered on Sunday morning by the pastor.

Thier Stock in Trade Gone.

The frenzy of Butler and his lieutenants over the action of the Democratic convention will be well understood when it is remembered that they have now lost their power to trade. They have no threat to hold over the heads of Republicans in driving a bargain.—Monroe Journal.

A wife and mother suggests this motto as an excellent one for the dining room wall: "It is a good horse that never stumbles, and a good husband that never grumbles."
