CONCORD, JUNE 15 1898

In discussing the Lodge resolution to investigate the matter of the Methodist Book Concern appropriation, Senator Morgan said Tuesday that he had learned that the appropriations of $388,000 to the estate of John Roach had been lobbied through at 50 per cent., and he did not like to begin the investigation where the name of a great church is involved. He would go back to the Roach case too. Senator Lodge disavowed any purpose to make the church the starting point but would take action to forever cut off the lobbying appropriation business. Doubtless in this effort he will have the approval of all honest men. This lobbying appropriations through as if Congress could not be made to see the right, but only the dollar is altogether sickening.

The State Normal, a neat and well gotten up magazine, is before us. It is doubtless a source of much satisfaction to the young ladies of that splendid institution, and is a catchy advertisement. The State Normal College is now one of the leading sources of State pride. Its influence is incalculable in the progress of the educational work of the State.

We lack a Vance in the Governor's chair in the Old North State in these war times. A contrary Governor is not likely to accomplish much for the equipment and the comfort of our troops.

Life is too short to be trying to correct every false report going the rounds but we will say for the benefit of those who are misled into the belief that there has been another lynching in our community that probably some one wanted to start a sensation and lit on an easy subject. There is no mania for lynching in Cabarrus. The people would oppose with great vigor any attempt to lynch except in cases of such outrage as that on the 29th ult.

Was He Drunk Again?

Now again comes the news that Judge Norwood has been on a jag again and has tendered his resignation to Gov. Russell. There is no direct confirmation of the fact but it seems to be more than a mere idle report.

The Chief Burgess of Milesburg, Pa., says DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the best pills he ever used in his family during forty years of housekeeping. They cure constipation, sick headache and stomach and liver troubles. Small in size, but great in results.—J P Gibson.

When the Big Guns Are Fired.
The largest guns used in the navy are seldom used save for business; firing them is too expensive a matter. A letter received in Baltimore, Md., from a young officer on one of the battleships before Santiago de Cuba describes the sensations on board a ship when one of her guns goes off. The extract is from The Baltimore Sun:

"This was the first time that many of us had seen the big guns fired. The experience was novel and interesting. The handling room, from which the ammunition for the big guns is sent up on the hydraulic lifts, is in the lower part of the turrets just under the breeches of the 13-inch guns. This room after the firing ceased was eight inches deep in water. As soon as a gun is fired it is washed out with a hose, and the water pours down into the handling room, drenching the men at work there. When the big gun goes off the sensation all over the ship is one of jarring, and there is a great rush of air, but very little report within the ship."

Populists About to Split.

Omaha, Neb., June 14.—The Populist conference has developed every evidence of a split. At midnight two meets are in progress. The middle-of-the road element, headed by Milton Park, of Texas; Joseph Buchanan, of New York, and Robert Schilling, of Chicago, is determined to oppose all plans of fusion.

The liberal element, including Senator Marion Butler, Senator Allen and George C Washburn, of Massachusetts, is holding another meeting and has sent several propositions for a compromise to the leaders.

We have a communication signed S. S., with a desire to publish. The manuscript can be had by calling for it. No high-toned newspaper publishes a communication without knowing the author.

Dr. Miles' Pain Pills are guaranteed to stop headache in 20 minutes. 25 cent a dose.

Good Enough Progress.

It is just seven weeks since the rupture of diplomatic relations between the United States and Spain. This country had made so little preparation for war that while the ultimate result was not doubtful, there was a very general expectation that we should meet with some reverses at the outset. But never has a war moved more steadily in one direction, or more rapidly.

Seven weeks is certainly a short time in which to have practically wiped out the naval forces of a power that was supposed to be our equal at sea, and it is a short time also in which to have assembled and equipped an army strong enough to set forth on a campaign of invasion in perfect confidence of success.

Steam and the telegraph have made us too impatient. They can do much, but there are some things they cannot do, and it is greatly to the credit of the military authorities that they have declined to be hurried but have gone steadily forward and have organized results with a promptness that will be recognized in history. The expedition against Cuba is now actually under way, well organized and well prepared, and this, the eighth week of the war, is reasonably sure to bring about events of decisive importance.—Philadelphia Times.

Three of Company L Discharged.

From Mr. Fred Merritt's correspondence to the News and Observer we see that Chief Surgeon Wilder, in taking the boys through another physical examination, which is called the trimming process, entered the names of three soldiers of Company L on the discharge list as physically disabled for campaign duties. They were the following: O F Sherrill, P F Henderson and C L Harris.
