Not Strictly Apropos.
"And now," said the lecturer at the close of a discourse on theosophy, to which his audience had listened with the deepest attention, "in accordance with my usual custom I shall extend to any person present who cares to do so the opportunity to ask whatever question may be in his mind. I wish to leave no point obscured if it is in my power to make it clear."
"There's one thing I've always wanted to know," said an earnest-looking man in the audience, rising as he spoke. "I've asked a great many men, and none of them could ever tell me. Why is it that you always find a picture of a goat on a book beer sign?"
"Failed to Identify Her."
Miss Muggs—I don't see how it is your sister failed to find me at the station. You said you would describe me to her.
Infatuated Lover (who sees a good deal more in Miss Muggs than other folks can)—Yes, I told her to look for a beautiful girl, with the face of a Madonna, and the form of a sylph. It's queer she missed you.
A Trait in Common.
Mrs. Yeast—Have you ever seen anything in the moon which reminded you of a man?
Mrs. Crimmonpeak—Oh, yes; when it was full, I have.
Before and After.
Crimmons—I see the sweetheart of a St. Louis peroxide blonde has shot her. Crimmons—She died.
How He Gets It.
Brown—Old De Souque seems to have the wisdom of the serpent.
Towe—Yes; the result of constant association.

Popular Literary Girl.
"For a literary girl Miss Plum seems very popular."
"Yes, it's her method. She invites a young man to the house to read over her latest sonnet. When she comes to a word like 'mias' for instance, she asks him if he can improve the rhyme. If he has any brightness at all he will suggest 'kiss,' and at the same time illustrate it. If the word is 'tease' he will suggest 'squeeze' and illustrate that. Oh, it's no wonder she's a popular poetess."

The Old, Old Story.
"You are the only woman I ever loved," said Adam.
"And you," murmured Eve, "are the first man that ever kissed me."
Then Satan smiled and said unto himself: "That is equal to burnt-cork repairs, and posterity shall perpetuate it." And it was even so.

Better Than Nothing.
Lord Notacem—I cannot tell you how much I love you.
Ethel Glitledge—Oh, make a rough guess at it then. How much do you think I'm worth.

Rival Cemeteries.
In Nowherewhere, in Limbo Place, 'Mid lurid reeking muck,
Two aged jokes met face to face,
"Where rest thy bones, since thou hast died?"
Each asked him of his brother.
"In the Almannac," the one replied,
"Parce comedy," the other.
