Mrs. Pethel Found Dead In Bed.

On Thursday Mrs. Pethel, the widow of Mr. Frank Pethel, who lived near Glass, was in as good health as usual but when her children attempted to wake her next morning it was found that she was dead. As to her death nothing more is known.

Mrs. Pethel was the daughter of Mr. Jno. Rogers of Rowan county. Several years ago her husband was killed while attempting to take his railroad hand car off the track as a train was approaching, he having been a section master. Mrs. Pethel afterwards married Mr. Joe Herring, which marriage was annulled. Coroner Dorsett, of Salisbury, was called to hold an inquest over the body.

S. C. ALEXANDER DEAD.

He Breathes His Last Thursday Night—A Large Family Left Behind—A Devout Christian Man He Was—His Fraternity Takes the Body In Charge.

Some days ago it was known that Mr. Sam Alexander, who lived on Mill street, was nearing his end of this earthly life and would soon be called away. At 10 o'clock Thursday night the call came and with one long breath he fell asleep to wake no more.

Some years ago Mr. Alexander suffered an attack of pneumonia, which seemed to have never left him entirely. Since that time he has suffered with bronchitis and lastly with erysipelas.

He was a man of good character and took an interest in his church. About three years ago he moved from the Poplar Tent neighborhood to this place, having since that time been a devout member of the First Presbyterian church until the building of the Cannonville Presbyterian church, at which time he transferred his membership and was made an elder. He had reached the age of 55 years and leaves behind a wife and ten children—six daughters and four sons.

The funeral services were conducted at the home today (Friday) by Revs. W. C. Alexander and Chas. F. Rankin, after which the remains were interred in the city cemetery. The pallbearers were members of the Woodmen of the World, to which order the deceased belonged, having carried $1,000 insurance in it.

A GOOD SHOW.

A Number of Additional Feats Are Added; Each Year By Jno. H. Sparks in His Show.—Large Crowd Attends.

In 1894 Jno. H. Sparks first gave Concord a visit, having travelled through the country in wagons, visiting numbers of points off the railroad. In that investment he lost a good amount of money. While his show then was not a fine one or up to the point that he has reached now, still he had some good feats along with it.

Each year since that time Mr. Sparks has been paying Concord a day's visit and the fact is noticeable by all who have attended his show that he makes improvements each year.

In addition to trapeze, tumbling and balancing acts, he has added two large trained lions which alone ought to bring a large crowd, as no show ever brought here presents a more dangerous scene than where the keeper leaves his head between the jaws of a lion which has already caused the death of three persons besides tearing the face badly of one trainer while in Mr. Sparks employ. Since last year he has also added a number of trained dogs and goats.

From here the show went to Norwood and from there to Albemarle. This, very probably, is the first time that a railroad show has been on the Yadkin railroad.

Hereafter the people will know that a good show is coming when Jno. H. Sparks puts up his advertisements.
