BRIGHTER IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Natives Come Under Flag of Truce—Tired of Fighting—Cold Comfort for Aggy.

The news this morning from the Philippines are of the most cheering tone yet from that region. The insurgents were as unable to hold Camlumpit as any other of what were considered their strongholds. The temerity and skill with which the American troops overcame all obstacles before them amazes the enemy and takes away their hope. On Friday after the boldest open field stand that they had taken and their utter defeat, twenty or more approached under a flag of truce and said they were tired of fighting and that food was scarce, which was demonstrated when they were given food.

A representative delegation was escorted to Gen. Otis at Manila with a message from Aguinaldo asking for an armistice till the Filipino congress could be called together to arrange for peace. Gen. Otis declined, of course. The representatives then claimed that it would be impossible for Aguinaldo to surrender without the consent and direction of Congress, to which Gen. Otis replied that Aguinaldo did not assemble a congress to inaugurate the war.

There was little comfort in it for Aguinaldo. It is hoped that the end of the war is near.

The exhaustion of our troops from the heat is dreaded more than facing the enemy in battle. The heroism displayed in the troops is admirable. It is more than probable, too, that the volunteers that stayed when they might have been mustered out will each receive a medal when they do come home.

It Speaks Well of Them.

The correspondent from this place to the Textile Excelsior, who no doubt knows what he is talking about has the following about our town.

"There is quite a lot of building going on in Concord, and a lot of it is being done by factory people. They are buying lots and building homes. I venture the assertion that more mill people own their own homes in Concord than any town or city in the South. If I am in error, I stand for correction."

Poisoned By the Ice Cream.

A supper was given at Mr. Smoot Dayvault's Friday night to the Dayvault families, together with the boarders and a few invited friends. Among the nice things served was ice cream. But for some reason the participants were poisoned from the cream and with but two or three exceptions every one of them became very sick. Nothing serious resulted but there was a sick lot.

Manhood's Task.

To be honest, to be kind, to earn a little and to spend a little less; to make upon the whole a family happier by his presence; to renounce where that shall be necessary, and not to be embittered; to keep a few friends, but these without capitulation; above all, on the same grim conditions, to keep friends with himself; here is a task for all that a man has of fortitude and delicacy.—Stevenson.

They Took an Outing.

The whole corps of graded school teachers, chaperoned by Prof. and Mrs. Coler, took a jolly outing to the Bala mill region this afternoon. These geniuses that teach the young idea how to shoot know well how to get enjoyment out of the rugged rocks and the limpid rills, the grassy plains and the blooming hills, the thorny hedge and the verdent heath, the laughing sky and all beneath. They played with speary blade and blushing rose, spied the oping leaflets, and the wild grattoes. They quoted Shakespeare, Byron and Poe, and shot their puns both to and fro. They poured out rhetoric in rhyme and prose, and braved the danger of sun-burnt nose. They laughed and skipped and bounced and tripped and forgot the gravity that station had nipped. They returned quite late with demeanor sedate; you'd never suspect that these modest elect would condense ever to mix in childish sport or juvenile tricks.

Not Guilty of Killing Saxton.

Mrs. Annie E. George, after a long and tedious trial, has been acquitted of the slaying of George D. Saxton, the brother of Mrs. McKinley. When the verdict was announced she kissed her little son passionately, then went to the box and grasped the hand of every juryman with deep thankfulness.

The Concord High School Exercises.

The annual closing exercises of the Concord High School have come to be expected with interest by all citizens not only on account of the interest felt in the institution but for the high quality of the address, delivered by the chosen speaker.

The high standard of the past is to be maintained this year as Dr. Henry Louis Smith, of Davidson College, has consented to be present. Dr. Smith is easily one of the ablest men in the State as well as one of the most graceful and powerful speakers. We congratulate the school and people.

of a Building Nature.

It is the intention of Mr. H. M. Barrow to have four buildings erected on the Burrage property, which he recently purchased. It is probable that he will have a fifth one built later.

Mr. Chas. Wagoner is making preparations to build seven of his fifty-three dwellings on the vacant lot near the depot between Depot and Corbin streets. He has also moved the vacant storehouse to the other side of the lot.

University Debate.

The annual inter-society debate at the University took place Friday night and was won by the representatives of the Dialectic Society, Messrs Dorman Thompson, of Statesville, and Whitehead Klutz, of Salisbury. Mr. Thompson is a brother of Mr. Holland Thompson, of this place, and Mr. Klutz is a son of Hon. Theo. F. Klutz. These young men advocated the abolition of capital punishment.

Was Trying to Make His Escape.

Last Thursday night Mr. W. F. Hess, one of the guards of the convicts, detected that the chains on Jim Coon, or Jim Harris, were almost out apart at both ankles where the chain is fastened to the shackle. But Jim's game didn't work, for it was found out when they inspected one. It was a sad find for Jim, too, and it hurt him very much to know that he had almost succeeded in severing those which were put on there for twelve months. For a while he pretended to suffer with despondency and his appetite left him, but he soon recovered and is fitted with new links.

A Laundry Song.

Tell us not in mournful numbers,
Be you girl or be you boy,
That we will fail to please you
If you'll patronize the Concord.

Enjoyment, not discomfort,
Gives our work in every way,
And we aim that each tomorrow
Finds it better than today.

Work that perhaps another
Seeing, he would fain exclaim,
Oh, my poorly wash'd brother,
You did not "remember the Maine!"

Think about our Laundry work that
It gives pleasure without alloy;
Peace, contentment and satisfaction
Have the patrons of the Concord.

Then let us your work be doing,
Our plant of methods are the best.
Send or 'phone and we will call,
And the Concord will do the rest.
