CONCORD, N. C., MAY 9, 1899.

GOD BE WITH THEM.

The Standard would be untrue to itself, to its parishioners and other folks if it did not give utterances to the fact that it feels grateful that the Lord has been good to so many soldiers, when soldiers are soldiers, to enable them to pierce their tents by the sea, in Charleston, S. C.

It is a pity that all the survivors of the little trouble our folks had with the Blue Coats of '60-'65, could not go but enough have gone from the four quarters of the county to demonstrate to their comrades of other counties and States the undying memory of the scenes which tried men's souls and on rations not even as good as beer with whiskers.

The old Vets that have gone to Charleston are quiet, submissive and reconciled to the situation, they accepted the results of overpower in 1865, but that power has never yet come into existence to make them repudiate their good motives and the righteousness of what they did. Those Vets are all right. They will salute the flag of the United States, they will defend it and all such, but they reserve the right to cherish the memory of the Confederate flag and give a patriotic yell whenever and wherever it is raised. Angels would do the same.

But we started out to ask the Lord's protection to our representatives on their trip to Charleston—and may each old soldier have his canteen of happiness and good things running over when home again he returns.

God with them—they that answered the call of duty and never got their backs converted into a shot bag. The soldiers that performed this way were on the other side and have the distinguished honor of being U. S. pensioners.

Death prevails among the Charlotte Observer office force. Editorially the Observer prints the obituary of its dog. It's a pity that dogs, like most people, have to die to get nice things printed about them.

The Queen City of North Carolina—otherwise known as Charlotte—comes up again poking in the rear. Salisbury has a visitation of Roseola and Charlotte hasn't so much as a newspaper suspicion of the presence of this accomplishment.

The average Salisburyian has ceased to speak of the 5-centees and other small demoniations that formerly prevailed. It is the hundreds of thousands and millions of dollars. Even the boot-blacks decline to say "shine, boss—only a nickel."

THE NEW SCHOOL BOARD.

The Standard feels it is doing the proper thing when it congratulates the town of Concord upon the personnel of its Board of Graded School Trustees, which is now organized for business.

The Board is composed of public spirited, conservative men, each of whom has the very best interest of Concord close to heart. The great portion of them have had real school room experience and know, from having been there, just what a school ought to be; the others have so long studied the problem of conducting a good school on a limited fund that their qualifications are assuring and pleasing to the constituency of the public schools.

The Board paid a high compliment to its own good judgement when it selected for its chairman him who has almost since the beginning of the schools been officially connected with and has been giving to the schools his best thought.

In passing, it means much when we contemplate the splendid and marked harmony in the Boards of Aldermen and School Trustees of Concord, which is but another name for peace, harmony and incidentally a union for the greatest possible good from the opportunities at hand.

Let this same good spirit continue all along the line of Concord governmental powers and the town must be the gainer.

Conratulations.

It was railroad officer vs. Jim-Crow-Car-Bill day before the Railroad Commissioners on Monday, at Raleigh. The revenues of the several roads asked the exemption of branch lines and claimed that the provisions of the bill exempted through trains and mixed trains.

It now looks as if the Jim-Crow-Car-Bill is a miscarriage; at any rate, those who have been praying so long for deliverance surely will be disappointed. It is to be hoped that enough of the instrument will be effective that travelers may know when it goes into effect without asking any questions.

During the piping times in which the penitentiary inefficiency and general cussedness were being aired and remedies proposed, proper means for the care of our unfortunate insane seems not to have been provided. But it is the way of all human affairs—the wicked receive more attention from the newspaper all down the line to the pulpit than does the good and pious.

Bishop Turner, colored, of Georgia, says it is "God's will that the negro should return to Africa." We are not sure the Bishop has received any direct information from the Lord, but if he speaks from authority it is to be hoped he will work his screws on negroes Manly, Jim Young and a parcel of others and have them understand what the Lord has decided about the matter.

The ancient believe that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demonic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the Pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by M. L. Marsh & Co.

SOME STATE STOCK.

Many People Have Gone to Charleston But Enough are Left to Make History.

Citizens of Lexington voted down the dispensary proposition. The town has been dry many years.

The Baptist Female University will open September 27th. This is the date agreed upon by the Board of Trustees of the institution.

Hon. Edward W. Pen, of Smithfield, has been secured to deliver the address, Mrs. Dalton receiving his letter of acceptance today. Mr. Pen is a born orator and the ladies are to be congratulated upon their selection.

The case of the board of county commissioners of Iredell county against ex-Sheriff M. A. White and his bondsmen was compromised, and judgment will be entered at May term of Iredell Superior court in favor of the county for $2,670 and costs of action against ex-Sheriff White and his bondsmen in accordance with the terms of the compromise.—Statesville Mascot.

What North Carolina Needs.

North Carolina ought to produce corn and hogs enough to satisfy home consumption. If the farmers of the State will meet consumption in these two respects, no one will object to their cotton acreage, no matter how large it may be. A State that is full of corn, side meat, eggs, cows and hens is a State that can afford to ignore the current talk as to a great acreage. But the trouble is North Carolina is not full of these needful articles. We need more acres in corn—more hogs, more cattle and particularly more hens. In some States the little brown hen is the most important and inoperative creature contained therein. It has been the salvation, it is claimed, of Kansas, as the cow has been of Iowa.—Goldsboro Argus.

Mr. W. W. Alexander Dead.

Mr. Wallace W. Alexander, of near Eastfield, died Saturday at the age of 32 years, and was buried at Prosperity church Sunday.

This is the third death in this family within less than a year and leaves one little boy only of the family. Mr. Wallace buried a child last August and his wife in November.

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. Lynch, Dorr, W. Va. This remedy is sold by M. L. Marsh & Co.

Mrs. Whitney Dead.

Mrs. Wm. O. Whitney died at her home in New York about 10 o'clock Saturday, the 6th. Mrs. Whitney got a fatal blow on February 21st, 1898, at Aiken, S. C., while fox hunting. She attempted to ride under a bridge but her head struck the bridge and she has been paralyzed from the neck down ever since till death relieved her, as stated.

Fortunately Not So Bad.

There was a report prevalent Monday night that was probably misleading that Rev. W. O. Alexander was paralyzed. He was stricken slightly, a few muscles of the cheek being uncontrollable.

NO CURE, NO PAY.

That is the way all druggists sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic for chills and Malaria. It is simply Iron and Quinine in a tasteless form. Children love it. Adults refer to it bitter, nauseating Tonics. Price, 50c.

THE RACKET.

Yesterday closed the sale of Towels; 1,152 sold in 10 days. This is a record breaker, but there is no limit to the demand for an article that is bought and sold right. We gathered them in at 50c. on the dollar and sold them the same way.

We are now offering a lot of Men's heavy seamless Sox, bought at a fire sale, for 5c. These goods are well worth 8 1-3c.; in fact that is the regular retail price of them. 1 case of fine Printed Lawn Remnants at a sacrifice.

Shirt Waists, 25c. up.

Gents' Linen Collars and Cuffs 5c up
