CONCORD, N. C., JAN. 29, 1900.

NOTHING LIKE VANCE IN IT.

The Richmond Dispatch says:

The efforts of the East Tennessee Brownlowite who misrepresents North Carolina in the Federal Senate to make the memory of Vance stand sponsor for his attack upon the real people of the Old North State is bold indeed, and as thoroughly unwarranted as bold. It can have but one effect, and that is to make the baseless charges preferred by Pritchard recoil politically upon the head of him who makes them. The memory of Vance is held in love and reverence by all true North Carolinians, without regard to party. The great Senator now gone to his reward was a very tribune of his people, ever watchful of their rights and honor and welfare. The idea that he would in any wise have condoned a measure that would tend to revive negro domination, or to continue disorder, unrest, hostility between the races, is as foreign to his character as day is different from night. Mr. Pritchard's argument is based on a wholly false assumption.

It is noted by those outside the State and is absolutely nauseating to true North Carolinians that those so instrumental in effecting the late injury and shame, on North Carolina are free to lay claims to endorsement by the life and political teachings of Senator Vance.

He is an idle gazer, not a student, who does not see that Vance's whole life is a standing rebuke to every partisan movement in which our two Senators have been engaged since they have bubbled to the surface. Let them pursue the course they elect full the virtue and intelligence of the State relegate them to where they belong but to be covering their foulness with the cloak of Vance is about as desecrating as for them to meddle with his reposing dust.

An exchange thinks that this year we may expect to read something like the following in the daily papers: "About 10 o'clock this morning a horseless wagon loaded with cowless milk collided with a brainless rider on a chainless wheel. The luckless wheelman was badly injured and being homeless and friendless, he was taken in a horseless cab to the home for the friendless where his death was painless in an hour or less. It was afterward learned that he was the inventor of smokeless powder and the public covered his corpse with thornless roses."

WHITE SUPREMACY.

"Come, Let Us Reason Together," White Voters.

We have put our hands to the plow and we will not turn backward. In 1898 we unfurled the Democratic banner to the breeze emblazoned with the rally cry of "White Supremacy." We volunteered under that banner to the end of the war. We have won the outposts of the enemy, we have driven them back in disorder, and they are making one last desperate stand reforming their broken lines behind the breastworks of prejudice and demagoguery. They form in vain. The traditions of North Carolina Democrats are filled with glorious achievements; their courage is of the best, their determination is unyielding, their certainty of victory amounts to inspiration. For peace, for prosperity, for universal education, for that day when the race issue is forever settled, we can have an absolutely free ballot and a fair count for "the glorious privilege of being independent," for general toleration of honest if mistaken opinions, we renew the contest. Let the banner of 1898 be again unfurled. Let it still be inscribed with the motto "White Supremacy," but above that let there also appear as the aim and the end of White Supremacy good government for all, absolute justice before the law and unquestioned liberty of opinion.—C. B. Aycock.

The Legislature thought the right to participate in government should be limited to those who had some training, and that the test of this should be knowledge obtained by what we ordinarily call education, or by experience. It said that men who could read and write were qualified, and it also said that those who could not read and write, but who by themselves or through their ancestors had been in the habit of participating in government were equally well qualified, and that the two would constitute the electorate of the State.

It is one system, one plan, is passed as a whole, and ratified as a whole.

It is a matter of public history that the Legislature would not have passed the amendment without the fifth section, and if this is admitted the rule we have invoked shows that the different parts of the amendment must fall or stand together.—Judge Allen.

Since we have printed this amendment in full we will not discuss it at length. We believe it will bring us into a freedom in which much can be done for the common good that has long been out of reach. The amendment was offered to the people at their bidding—not on the campaign—but after it had stirred their souls with a bitterness that set them determined to avoid another like it. About it a great campaign, and a passionate one, will be waged. It must be seriously prepared for.—J. W. Bailey, Editor Biblical Recorder.

The amendment will be adopted, and adopted by the biggest majority that has been seen in North Carolina for many a day. It will be adopted by the votes of white men of all parties, white men who are Republicans, white men who are Populists, as well as white men who are Democrats.

Every great movement in the constitutional life of any people has a sure foundation. A people's fundamental law changes slowly. In the dawn of constitutional liberty in America the cry of the "divine right of kings" was drowned in the surging cry that the people must have voice in the councils of State.

In these closing hours of a century the descendants of the men who declared against the rule of enlightened kings, dare to provide against the rule of the benighted slave. In the light of its unwise bestowal and in the fuller light of the base uses to which it has been put, we of North Carolina declare that the ballot in the hand of the ignorant black man is a menace to our civilization.—F. D. Winston.

M. J. Marsh & Co. guarantees every bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and will refund the money to any one who is not satisfied after using two-thirds of the contents. This is the best remedy in the world for grippe, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is pleasant and safe to take. It prevents any possibility of a cold to result in pneumonia.

Armed men came into Frankfort, Ky., last week evidently to wield an influence in favor of Taylor in the final count of votes. Like always when bayonets are intended to secure ballots it plays wild. Now the Democrats are more solidly in line, with Taylor's cause hurt. The troops were quickly gotten out but the mistake was in calling them in.

Mr. W. L. Dabney, of Virginia, who is now a machinist at the Patterson mill at China Grove, spent Sunday here with his friend, Paul Parks. They were room-mates at school at Lowell, Mass.

August Flowers.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Houston, "that my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from irregular habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not injure the system by frequent use and is excellent for sour stomachs and indigestion." Sample bottles free at Fetzler's drug store. Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.
