THE TALE OF TEN.

Ten little merchants in a certain line, One didn't advertise and then there were nine.

Nine little merchants buying by the crate, One bought a car load, and then there were eight.

Eight little merchants might have gone to heaven, But one skinned his customers, and then there were seven.

Seven little merchants listening to kicks, One lost his temper, and then there were six.

Six little merchants seemed at last to thrive, One fell behind the times, and then there were five.

Five little merchants prospered all the more, One got the big head, and then there were four.

Four little merchants as busy as could be, One trusted recklessly, and then there were three.

Three little merchants with more than they could do, One left it all to clerks, and then there were two.

Two little merchants had an even run, Till one ran for office, then there was one.

One little merchant—but now the story's done, He retired with plenty, and then there was none

Negro Don't Ride Alone.

The merry-go-round has had big crowds every night except Tuesday and Friday nights of last week. These nights were given exclusively to the colored people and they didn't patronize. Big crowds of them came before the races were separated. Why? The negroes wanted to ride with the white people and refused to ride when denied that privilege.

Push the Work.

As the day of election approaches the enemies of good government in this State are becoming more desperate in their efforts to mislead the well-meaning but ignorant voters. Their efforts can and must be counteracted, and this by equal energy on the part of our people in personal explanations and appeals to the voters. We most earnestly and seriously urge such energy on our people; we urge it because it is necessary. Those only who are hoping for personal benefits in shape of some petty office, obtained at the expense of the peace and in the degradation of their fellow citizens, are at work to defeat the amendment. All good citizens are either active for it, or will be when their minds are disabused of the cruel and mischievous impressions made by bad men. Our forces—every good citizen—must push the work of informing the voters and securing their support of the cause which will assure honest government and peaceful conditions hereafter, not only for one class, but for all.—Morning Post.

Worst Soon to Be Revealed.

It has been evident to all that for days past the most hopeful coloring possible has been given to the news from China. The careful reader of the news as it has come in has made up his mind to a revelation of horror when the veil is drawn from Peking. There has been no official news from that city in weeks, but the indications are that the true conditions cannot much longer be concealed. It is ominous that Li Hung Chang has been ordered there to intercede for China with the powers when the revelation is made. The imperial decree is nothing short of a preliminary defense of the Chinese government and an excuse for what has been done behind its walls. The civilized world may prepare itself for a shock when the truth is known, and to all appearances that will be soon. The Chinese question is far from being settled.—Charlotte Observer.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail.—Mrs. Curtis Baker, Bookwalter, Ohio. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the last five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. "I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la-grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale at Marsh's drug store.
