Chuckatuck and Its Potatoes.

The Standard man has been hearing of the Chuckatuck farm and its sweet potatoes. The paper man is not expected to take anybody's word for a fair estimate of things to eat or drink, so we did not dilate, or expand if you prefer, on the Buck potatoes of Chuckatuck until we sat down to a good sized one baked. This variety, when baked, is yellow as standard money and goes down a fellow's gullet as if lubricated by the oleaginous extracts of a good ripe opossum, or gravy coaxed out of the American didelphyoid marsupial by culinary process, if that is more to your palate.

We are assured that Chuckatuck's surface is now about half soil and half potatoes and that the soil would measure about 500 bushels. We congratulate the owner on having something to bank on for the winter.

Clergyman From Caharras Dead.

Rev. D M Blackwelder, for many years a faithful and successful pastor, and for the last two years living a retired life in Bedford, Pa., by reason of failing health, fell peacefully asleep in the arms of Jesus, at his late residence, October 16, 1900. The deceased clergyman was a native of North Carolina, and during his ministry he had served various pastorates in the South, among the latter being the St. Paul's charge, Pomaria, S. C., where he labored about the year 1860.—Lutheran Visitor.

This Mr. Blackwelder was the son of the late Mr. Reuben Blackwelder and was a brother of Messrs. A J, W R, and R M Blackwelder and Mrs. Sandy Blackwelder, Mrs. Joiner and Mrs. Jacob Misenheimer.

That Ever-Bearing Peach Tree.

Mr. Wilkinson, who recently brought us the two crops of peaches from his tree that had borne one crop already before, brought us samples again this [Thursday] morning of the third crop which had ripened on the tree and gained very much in size. Beside he brought a sample of another which seems to be a fourth bearing. We have no better way to describe the habits of this tree than that of the ever-bearing mulberry tree.

Mr. G. Crawford Goodman Dead.

As we go to press we learn with regret that Mr. G Crawford Goodman died at his home this morning. Mr. Goodman seemed very much better Wednesday and his death was quite a surprise to his physician, Dr. Lilly, who left him with the understanding that he would come to him if called but hoped he would not need further treatment. Mr. Goodman was a good, genial citizen of about 70 years of age. He was twice married and leaves, beside grown and married children, a wife and, we think, one or two small children.
