THAT FEARFUL STORM.

Sixty-Four Killed and 50 Injured—Force Was Resistless—The Sleepers Never Waked—The Cumberland's Rise.

The storm that passed over parts of Southwest was reported so meagerly by the great dailies Wednesday as to attract little attention. Even on Wednesday evening the magnitude of the disaster seems not to have been fully comprehended. The dead are numbered up to 64 and the injured to 50 and the details being probably incomplete the list is likely to be enlarged. The storm occurred Tuesday night coming up from Mississippi and sweeping in a northeast direction in Tennessee. The path is about 50 yards wide and lasted only about 20 seconds.

It struck Columbia, where it was most severe; Lagrange, Nolensville and Gallatin, and lost its force against the Cumberland Mountains. At Columbia it left 25 dead and 50 injured. Four fine and 150 cheaper houses were demolished.

It was so severe as not to leave stone and iron fences in its path. Houses furnished little resistance and the wonder is not that so many were killed but that so many survived.

At Nolensville 16 houses were destroyed and two ladies were killed. A Mr. Hampton had $400 in his house, most of which was lost.

A colored baby was found safe and sound 300 yards away with a faithful dog lying by it.

At Nashville 16 miles south of Nashville 25 houses were torn into kindling wood. The high school and depot were destroyed.

One Mr. George Robertson lived in a log house in its path. He and his child were asleep in bed while Mrs. Robertson was up sewing by lamp. She had no time to even wake the sleepers, who probably never waked but were instantly killed. She escaped.

The rainfall was so heavy that the Cumberland river rose 20 feet.

Mrs. Dr. Columbus Mills Dead.

Dr. Lilly, on last Saturday evening, received a telegram from Mr. Goyan Cureton, of Atlanta, Ga., announcing the death of Mrs. Dr. Columbus Mills at the home of her niece, Mrs. Cureton. Dr. and Mrs. Mills were for a good long period prominent and beloved citizens of our county, and the death of Mrs. Mills will bring sad sensations while memories of the family will be re-kindled by this announcement.

THE COTTON GROWERS

Meet in Macon on the 20th—Hope to Get Uniform Prices—Mr. J. P. Allison Made Secretary.

The meeting of the Southern Inter-State Cotton Growers Association, which was formed in Macon last May, held its first convention there on the 20th. Mr. Harvie Jordan, agricultural editor of the Atlanta Journal, was re-elected president and Mr. John P. Allison, of our town, was chosen secretary. (This does not appear in first report as Mr. Allison at first declined the honor but later consented when it was shown that it was desired as an honor to the State as well as to himself, he being the Secretary of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association.)

There were a number of strong speeches, chief of which was that by Hon. Hoke Smith.

The line of procedure contemplated, as we catch it, is to have bureaus of information by which every reader of the news of the day may know the amount of acreage planted, the amount of the crop when gathered, the supply on hand and the probable demand, so that there will be a fair index to the price. Beside the association hopes to avoid the rush of cotton into the markets when not in demand, so that a uniform price may be had throughout the year.

The different States represented will hold their conventions and elect three delegates each and report to Secretary Allison when the president will call a meeting to be held in Atlanta early in the year 1901.

REGISTRAR MURPHY ARRESTED.

Bound in a Bond of $2,000—The Amount Easily Given.

United States Marshal James Free, of Asheboro, was in the city today and arrested Registrar John A. Murphy, of South Ward, this city, upon an indictment found several weeks ago.

The charges were depriving of rights under the constitution.

Mr. Murphy was bound in a bond of $2,000, which was quickly given, to appear at the Federal court at Statesville the third Monday in April.

His bondsmen are: Hon. Theo. F. Klutz, Messrs. Tho. C. Linn, R. Lee Wright and J. Frank McCubbins.

This is one of the results from the last State election.—Salisbury Sun of 21st.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and find it to be a great medicine," says Mr. E. S. Phipps, of Potosi, Ark. "It cured me of bloody flux. I cannot speak too highly of it." This remedy always wins the good opinion, if not praise, of those who use it. The quick cures which it effects even in the most severe cases make it a favorite everywhere. For sale at Marsh's drug store.

YOUNG MAN LOSES HIS ARM.

Charlie Julian Gets Caught in a Cotton Gin at Faith.

Mr. Charlie Julian, son of Mrs. Isaac Julian, of the St. Paul neighborhood, was seriously injured at Mr. Raney's cotton gin, near Faith this morning.

Mr. Julian had taken a load of cotton to the gin and while it was being unloaded he got too near the machinery and his right arm was caught.

The arm was drawn in and cut into shreds to the shoulder. A phone message to the Sun this afternoon stated that the arm would be taken off at the shoulder.

Drs. McKenzie and Heilig have gone to attend the injured young man.—Salisbury Sun, of 21st.

Mrs. G. F. Schaeffer Dead.

A Monroe dispatch of the 20th to the Atlanta Journal says:

"Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at her home on Railroad street in this city, Mrs. George F. Schaeffer suddenly and quietly passed away while sitting up in her chair near the fireside.

"She had been in declining health on account of rheumatism for some time, but none of her family or friends dreamed that the end was so near.

"Mrs. Schaeffer, better known to our people as Mrs. M. A. Rooks, was postmistress at the Monroe postoffice from April, 1867, to February, 1897, and during the time of her administration never lost a day on account of sickness—a most remarkable record. She was married to Professor George F. Schaeffer, of Baltimore, April 27, 1886. Professor Schaeffer, one brother and a host of relatives survive her.

"Mrs. Schaeffer was a devout member of the Monroe Methodist church, and the funeral occurred from that pulpit Saturday evening, but on account of the illness of her pastor, Rev. John F. Eden, of the Baptist church, officiated.

"Mrs. Schaeffer, at the time of her death, was 64 years, 7 months and 26 days old. She was regarded as an ideal Christian woman, and will be greatly missed."

"Prof. Schaeffer has many friends in Cabarrus who will be pained at the news of this sad bereavement, with whom we unite in sympathy and condolence.

Six Frightful Failures.

Six terrible failures of six different doctors nearly sent Wm. H. Mullen, of Lockland, O., to an early grave. All said he had a fatal lung trouble and that he must soon die. But he was urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. After taking five bottles he was entirely cured. It is positively guaranteed to cure all diseases of throat, chest and lungs, including coughs, colds, la grippe, pneumonia, bronchitis, asthma, hay fever, croup, whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Fetzer's drug store.
