MARRIAGE AT CHINA GROVE.

Miss Willie Bernice Peeler becomes the Bride of Rev. J. C. Leonard, of Lexington.

Special to The Observer.

China Grove, January 30.—An event of much social interest to China Grove was solemnized last evening, at the pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. J M Peeler, when their daughter, Miss Willie Bernice, was happily married to Rev. Jacob C Leonard, of Lexington. Promptly at 6 o'clock Miss Myrtle Patterson, of this place, entered the parlor and began playing Mendelssohn's popular wedding march. Immediately following came Miss Nellie Trice, maid of honor, of Lexington, then came the bride leaning upon the arm of the groom, carrying a beautiful bouquet of bride's roses and asparagus ferns. They were met by Rev. J L Murphy, pastor of the Reformed church of Hickory, and the ceremony, which pronounced them husband and wife was duly performed. The ring was used in this service, the groom placing it upon the finger of the left hand of the bride, with appropriate words. During the marriage ceremony Narcissus was beautifully rendered in a very soft, sweet tone, which displayed the artistic touch of the pianist and added much to the impressive ceremony. The bride is a woman of pleasing manners and deservedly popular. The groom is the popular pastor of the Reformed church of Lexington, loved by his parishioners and is to be congratulated upon winning the hand of so fair a maiden. The bride was attired in white organdy trimmed in silk applique, tulle veil pinned with a pearl crescent and looped with orange blossoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard were the recipients of quite a number of handsome and costly presents. A number of reception cards had been sent out and despite the inclement weather, many friends were present to see this popular young couple wedded. Miss Nettie Pharr, of Concord, and Miss Pauline Thom, of this place, met the guests at the entrance to the hall and welcomed them into the hospitable home.

The reception was held from 3 to 6. The dining room was decorated with pink, white and green. Refreshments were served in abundance and in the most pleasing manner. White and green were the prevailing colors in the sitting room and parlor. The guests present were Mr. Felix Yorke, Mrs. A Jones Yorke, Mr. and Mrs. G T Crowell, of Concord; Mr. and Mrs. George E Leonard and Mr. Will Leonard, of Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. W J Swink, Rev. and Mrs.

J Q Wertz, Miss Lillian Wertz, Prof. W. J Weddington and T L Ross, all of China Grove.

The bride and groom left on the northbound train and will be at home at the Marsh House in Lexington for the present.

Misses Kerns and Trice, who were the guests of Miss Thom, left on the evening train for their respective homes.

Myers Case Compromised.

The troublesome long drawn out suit of Charles Myers vs. the Concord Lumber Company which was docketed for this term of court, has just been compromised, Myers getting $1,200.

It will be remembered that at a former term of the court the jury rendered a verdict, giving him $1,500. An appeal was taken to Supreme Court and a new trial was ordered.

Charming Social Event.

Those who had the pleasure and the honor of being guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J P Allison at a dinner given by them on Thursday were convinced that hospitality has not taken its departure from our earth, but still stands with cornucopia in one hand and extends the other for welcome to those who come. In song and story the old Southern mansion is immortal, and so long as men love what is noble and cherish the esprit de corps of that life, they will not forget the characters that were the flower and fruit of such heroic soil. As we were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Allison, with their warm hearts speaking in open face, we felt as if by some mystic hand we had been transported to the Old South with its undying glory and were surrounded by the immortals. Indeed, who could come into the presence of Mrs. Allison and not feel the impress of a Southern queen?

A most agreeable and affable company were guests in the home. It is easy to be a Pre-destinarian when in the circle of such royal Presbyterians as they, and when such free and full kindness flows we can blend Calvin and Wesley with ease. Could our life be always so graciously surrounded we would forget the cares that burden. This writer finds it impossible to describe the pleasures. The dinner was such as would be expected from our hostess. This is enough. Dinner being over we retired to the parlors and forgot the icy-fingered winds without, in the flow of social converse, which ranged from the heroine of '61 to the future triumphal arch to be unveiled in Richmond to Jefferson Davis.

In the stormy voyage we make to the realm where the loved ones are, there are some peaceful islands where weary human beings rest; such to us were the swift passing moments with our kind friends and hosts on Jan. 30, 1902. ONE THERE.
