TOO MUCH CORN LIQUOR.

Fatal Result of Taking an Overdose on a Banter.

Goldsboro, Feb. 21.—Alexander the Great, on a banter, drank too much wine and died in consequence of his rash act. And now comes a simple country negro girl, Ella Best, 15 years old; who came to Golbsboro last Thursday in company with her brother-in-law Joe Smith, from their home in New Hope township, and while here Joe bought some corn whiskey and returning home bantered her that he could drink more than she could. Friday mornig Ella was found dead in her bed. Her sister, Joe's wife, gave Joe $20 to come to Goldsboro Friday to buy a coffin for Ella, and Joe has not since been seen, and it is supposed that he took fright at the fatal consequence of his banter and concluded, with $20 in hand, to "burn the wind."

As night came on and Joe did not materialize with the coffin, old man Luke Best, the dead girl's grandfather, began to be suspicious—Joe's wife not having said a word about the banter, or the presence even of whiskey in the house—and early Saturday morning he came to the city and consulted a lawyer. The lawyer referred the matter to the coroner and yesterday morning Dr. Thos. Hill, the coroner, summoned a jury and held an autopsy; and the post-mortem revealed a large quantity of whiskey, about a pint, in the dead girl's stomach; and not till then did Joe's wife, Ella's sister, tell of the banter between Joe and Ella, which she said was without thought of harm or fatal consequences.

The jury rendered a verdict that death was due to her own act in drinkng an over quantity of corn whiskey.

A BOY KILLS HIMSELF.

Ed Holland, Son of a Southern Railway Engineer, Ends His Life in Columbia.

The people on the street last night were shock to learn that young Ed Holland, youngest son of Mr. F. L. Holland, the well-known Southern Railway engineer, had sent a bullet through his own heart, killing himself instantly. The suicide occurred about 7:45 o'clock, while the family were at tea. The young man, who was about 16 years of age, went to his room at 1,817, Sumter street, and seating himself on the side of his bed, placed a photograph of the young woman of whom he was enamored and a note to his father over his heart. Then through the photo and the note he sent a bullet through his heart, dying instantly. He fell backward upon the bed. He was neatly dressed and there was no intimation that he intended to end his life, other than the fact that for the last weeks he has been very despondent. The note addressed to his father merely bade him good-bye and said that the suicide hoped to meet his mother and the young woman in heaven. The bullet passed through the left ventricle of the heart and the lung and lodged in the back.

The case is peculiarly sad and the boy's parents have the sympathy of scores of friends. The lad was in the employ of Mr. W. H. Monckton, his uncle, at the Goble Dry Goods Store, and was regarded as a model young man.—Columbia State, 24th.

Profitable Farming Under Glass.

Tobacco, oranges and pineapples are now being grown under glass or shelter, and those who have ventured into such work find that the method pays. More capital must be invested, but a farm of two acres under glass will give a larger profit than an ordinary farm of a hundred acres or more. On the small area only the crops that sell at the highest prices are grown, and, while greater expense is incurred, yet the crops pay. Garden crops are also receiving attention, and the future will witness hundreds of covered small frames.—Home and Farm,

ANOTHER HIGHWAY ROBBERY.

Mr. J. J. Alford, of Meadeville, Assaulted and Robbed of $80.

Yesterday evening about 7 o'clock Mr. J. J. Alford of Meadeville, was brought into the police station with a badly bruised and profusely bleeding face. He was without a coat and his upper lip was very severely bruised and cut. According to his statement, he had sold a horse in the city for $85 and was returning to Meadeville on the Southern Railway afoot. As he approached the junction of the Southern and Seaboard Railways, east of the city and near the Seaboard passenger depot, he met a man who he described as having a full round face, sandy hair a scanty light mustache and weighing about 145 pounds. The man hit him with some hard object, probably a rock, and knocked him senseless. When Alford regained consciousness he was minus his $85 and his coat.

Last night, at the Southern depot, Mr. Alford thought he recognized his assailant in a young man from Lancaster, S. C. When the boy was questioned, however, it was found that Alford had missed his mark, for the boy was considerably lighter, had no mustache and wore a cap, while the man Alford described wore a hat. Moreover, no money or any of the missing property was found on him so he was let loose.—Charlotte Observer of 25th.

Mrs. Jacob Mcose is very ill at this writing.

Mr. Jim Carter has returned from Canada where he had gone some months ago.

Our big snow is almost gone. Look for bad roads for awhile.

Last Saturday evening while crossing Jennie Wolf Creek, Mr. Peter Lippard had a narrow escape from drowning. The buggy floated down the stream with him. He managed to escape and the mule scrambled out also, but the buggy went on down the stream. Mr. Lippard returned later, in the night, and with the aid of others secured the buggy.

Mr. Lippard is 74 years old and never had a similar experience. He has stood this very well, however, and is not sick from it. M. E. L.
