CONCORD, N. C., March 12, 1902.

Three dogs died quite suddenly in Salisbury on Monday and Tuesday. The symptoms were those of hydrophobia, but death was the result of faultless aim and good ammunition. Hydrophobia is to be feared, but the fear of it is a great boon.

We heard a prominent citizen a few days ago say that the Concord churches were never so well supplied with such uniformly able preachers as now. There are several of the very ablest in the bodies to which they belong and there is not a weakling in the list of pastors. We had not thought of it in that way but on reflection we see the force of the conclusion. Truly our congregations have much for which to be thankful in their spiritual shepherds and the street corners, drug stores, etc., should contribute their full complements to the sanctuary at the preaching hour.

The meeting of the town commissioners, which should have been held Tuesday night, was from good reason delayed till Thursday night. We think it best to defer to those whose official business it is to view these matters from an all round standpoint and are therefore rarely benefitted by suggestions and criticism from others who do not enjoy equal advantages for knowing and have not the responsibilities of action, but somehow we are caught in the drift of enthusiasm for a chemical fire engine and would be greatly pleased with action in that direction. It takes a very ordinary fire, even if the building is saved, to make the damages by water a thing to be dreaded and a cause for high insurance.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, grippe, bronchitis and other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporary relief. It softens and liquefies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. One Minute Cough Cure will do all that is claimed for it," says Justice of the Peace J. Q. Hood, Crooby, Miss. "My wife could not get her breath and was relieved by the first dose. It has been a benefit to all my family."—Gibson Drug Store.

"Probably the women who want to vote would compromise on being allowed to make stump speeches."

The Champion Speller.
"Spellers are born, not made," was a favorite saying of an old fashioned school teacher in North Carolina who flourished twenty-five years ago. He could spell every word in the dictionary and he said it had never been any trouble for him to learn to spell.

The Western papers have had much to say of late about Prof. D. Jones, of Lancaster, Mo., who has outspelled every man, woman or child in the West and has humbled a professor in a Kansas University. Confident that he can outspell anybody in the world, Prof. Jones has issued a challenge "to any person on earth" to meet him in a spelling match, upon these conditions:

"Contest to last four hours, words to be English, pronounced by a disinterested person, words to be reduced to writing, both contestants spelling the same words, the ones missing the largest number of words to present the other with a Webster unabridged dictionary."

The California News takes up the Kansas man's challenge and says that Mr. John Allen, of Franklin county, North Carolina, who is no professor but a farmer, can beat the Kansan, it adds:

"Mr. Allen can derive, spell and define every word in Webster's dictionary. He can do better; he can tell you on what page and column; and will go so far as to tell you about what position the word occupies in such column. If the Lancaster pedagogue desires a contest there is no reason why he can't get it. This paper has money to back its assertion."

The Louisburg Times backs up the News and agrees to raise two dollars to the Lancaster pedagogue's one "that John Allen can give him 'two and the deal' and 'sit him down' within an hour's time." The Henderson Gold Leaf takes a hand and says:

"Nor would the Gold Leaf object to being let into the game on a soft snap like that. Know John Allen as it does it would back him against all comers as being able to carry off the honors in a spelling match anywhere at any time."

Why not invite the Lancaster pedagogue to come to Raleigh and meet John Allen, the champion speller of North Carolina in a public match for the championship for "the best speller on earth?" We nominate Thad R. Manning and J. A. Thomas as a committee to make the arrangements.—News and Observer.

[We second the nomination and hope the match will be pulled off.]
