NEWS FROM SOUTH ROWAN.

Death of Mr. Jerry Basinger Heart Disease the Cause—Mr. Klutz's Birthday Reunion—Building Buggy for the Magnetic Healer.

Organ Church, March 24.—Mr. Jacob Barger has his new barn ready for the roof.

Mr. Billy Earnhardt has stopped working on his house and is preparing to plant corn.

Mr. David Beaver has his tenant house nearly done. Mr. Pfler (his brother-in-law) will occupy it when completed.

Mr. N W Barger has backed out going to China Grove. He says small-pox are too plentiful there for him.

Prof. Hartman, the magnetic healer, is having W P Barnhardt to make him a buggy, says he is tired of riding horse-back.

The big dinner of Ex-Esq. A W Klutz was a grand success. Over one hundred people were present. All his children and grand children were present. He and wife received a number of valuable presents. Messrs. Arthur S Bost and W P Barnhardt were on the grounds with their cameras and made a number of exposures, some are very good.

Mr. Eli Holshouser is somewhat better than at last writing. His son, Adolphus, is suffering with a severe case of erysipelas.

Mrs. Bettie Barger has erysipelas on her face and eyes.

Mr. Jacob Castor was paralyzed one day last week. He was going home from Shupings mill when he received the stroke. His people thought he was dead when they found him. He is better at this writing.

Mr. Jerry Basinger died at the home of Mr. Steve Williams on Monday, the 17th. He was in his 66th year. His funeral was conducted at Organ church by Dr. G H Cox on Tuesday.

I think it not amiss to say that the impression has gone out that Mr. Basinger died intoxicated.

This I think is incorrect and unfair to him. He went to his rock quarry as usual and had made some use of whisky as was his habit, but the quantity was not sufficient to produce any special effects. He had been afflicted with heart disease and had expressed the belief that it would result just as it did.

He had little warning. Mr. Williams' home is near the quarry and he was sitting in the house waiting for another when he was found to be suffering and was laid down and found to be dead.

Mr. Basinger possessed many traits of generosity and kindness. He had some weaknesses, it is true, but has much to his credit as a good neighbor and whole-souled friend.

He leaves a widow and two children and a number of grand children.

MILLINERY DISPLAYS.

Spring Beauties in Charming Profession—Styles Just too Lovely.

This was millinery opening day and the feminine crown caps the climax of all that is charming in the art.

The Standard man made some fashionable calls and was delighted. He was met at the threshold of Miss Nannie Alexander's millinery parlor by Miss Zula Patterson who insisted upon the autograph of all colors. Miss Wilma Correll was her associate. Miss Alexander's parlor, we think, never showed to better advantage. Her stock is full and contains a style to suit every one, even Miss Alice Roosevelt and Prince Henry. One wants to linger long and admire, but time flies.

The windows of the department store had an extra touch of harmony and grace but back in the millinery department Miss Annie Burkhead stood or moved about in joyous pride at her triumph in having a stock of which she herself was the selecting and arranging genius. The decorations about were very attractive, so neatly and charmingly arranged with colors so brilliant and spring like. The stock is attractive and meets the wants.

Miss Mary Brachen, who delights to listen at her customers and then sit down and trim a hat that suits to a T, has, as usual, a superb stock of goods and can feel proud of her achievements in supplying the most artistic tastes. Her department is truly a place of beauty. Miss Brachen is Mistress of the art.

At Dayvault Bro's. Miss Dora Hicks excelled herself in a window display. Nothing could be more neat and tidy with not a tinge of the gaudy. The styles of hats are so tasty and up-to-date that she is justly proud of them. Miss Addie Patterson assists in placing on hats and making just the right selections while catching the facial beams of pleasure which must always be excused in one with a new hat or bonnet.

"Just perfectly lovely" is hardly the word for the styles this season and exquisite is tame. The colors are varied and there seems to be several rivals for the ruling hue. Violets are profuse and deep pink is conspicuous. White and black bedecked with the gayer ornaments make a truly beautiful combination.

The striking feature of the artistic grace displayed this season, too, by our Concord milliners is that they place the ornamental touches to best advantage. See on the left lapel of the Standard man's coat.

ITEMS FROM FLOWS.

Fruit Destroying Birds Making Their Appearance and Starting Their Depredations.

Flows, March 24.—Messrs. Hal Barnhardt, of Pioneer Mills, and Sam Black, of Carriker, have returned from the Exposition.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Dorton, of Gold Hill, spent Saturday and Sunday at the bedside of Mrs. Dorton's mother, Mrs. Hudson.

The school at Sossamon's will close Friday, March 28th, with an examination.

The birds which pick the buds from the fruit trees, have made their appearance in our section. These birds destroyed whole crops last year and every fruit grower should notice and rid themselves of this pest.

CHILD KILLED BY STREET CAR.

Distressing Accident in Charlotte Monday Evening.

Little Edith, the four-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nolan an employee of the Charlotte Cotton Mills, was killed by a street car in Charlotte Monday evening at 6:35 o'clock. The unfortunate little girl was playing at a neighbor's and on being called home for supper dashed out without seeing the street car. The motorman had no chance to stop the car in time and she was on the center of the track when the car struck her. Death was instantaneous.

Mr. Culp, the motorman, was arrested but doubtless will be dismissed as the accident seems as unavoidable as it was distressing.

No Longer the Dummy Lot.

What has been long known as the Dummy lot on North Union street is now occupied by two splendid residences in different stages of building.

Dr. Pemberton's house is now ready for the inside work and will soon be a handsome and elegant residence of nine rooms that will be well in keeping with this beautiful street.

Mr. W R Harris' house, on the south side of this lot is now well on the way. It is nearly under cover and is being pushed toward completion. It will have ten rooms and will be a most elegant domicile, attractive and commodious. These splendid residences well fill an aching void in this part of one of the town's beauty spots and will be a delight to sponsors of the nobler sentiment of home sweet home.

Mr. Alexander Kato left this morning for Hillsboro to spend a few days with relatives and friends.
