BOY DROWNED IN CAPE FEAR.

He Had a Miraculous Escape a Few Days Before by Clinging to a Fishing Pole.

Wilmington, May 14.—Little Johnnie Stubbs, the 11-year-old boy who was miraculously saved from drowning Saturday by clinging to the end of a fishing pole as detailed in this correspondence, was drowned yesterday down the Cape Fear river. He had gone with his mother on a fishing trip to the "rocks" in a sharpie. The sailing vessel was anchored off shore in the river and the party, including several men, rowed to the shore for a day's outing. At noon when they started to row back to the sharpie, the small boat was capsized and mother, son and three men thrown into the water. The boy quickly drowned, the mother was rescued with difficulty by some fishermen in another boat and the men swam to the sharpie. The boy's father is night watchman at one of the saw mills here and the queer coincidence attending the drowning has excited frequent comment.—Special to The Charlotte Observer.

About to Blow off.

There is a good deal of steam up in the Mecklenburg political pot, just now, and the expectation is that the lid is going to be blown off at the meeting of the county executive committee Saturday.—Charlotte Observer.

Concord in Danger of Being Absorbed by the Suburb.

Mr. J. P. Cook, of Concord, was here yesterday for the first time in weeks. Mr. Cook says that Concord is going to break the record for building this year. The town is being fairly dotted with new residences and storehouses, and the sidewalks on Main street are being laid in cement. It is the habit of Concord people to refer to Charlotte as their suburb, but after taking a trolley ride about town yesterday, Mr. Cook was candid enough to admit that the suburban town was coming along at a fairly good pace, and might yet reach Buffalo creek before Concord finds it out.—Charlotte Observer of 15th.

Mount Pelee Still in Eruption.

Castries, St. Lucia, May 14.—The signal station here reports that a large fire was seen last night in the direction of Fort-de-France, Martinique. The British steamer Savan, Captain Hunter, arrived here this morning and reports Mount Pelee to be still in eruption. The trend of the flow from the volcano is to the north. The search parties which are removing the dead from St. Pierre have discovered safes and molten and precious metal in stores and dwellings of the town.

No one is permitted to penetrate into St. Pierre beyond the street running along the sea front, and a cordon of soldiers has been placed around the town. The St. Pierre cathedral is all down, with the exception of one tower, and the theatre walls alone are now standing. The convent, which contained 200 girls and 36 nuns, has disappeared, as has the college, where 70 boys and 22 priests and professors were domiciled.

Going Through the Old Mill.

We have not yet heard of one who regretted paying 15 cents for going through the mill at the Charleston Exposition. This mill is like and unlike all mills. You see a large wheel running all the time but unlike mills in which the water turns the wheel, this wheel runs the water. The wheel is turned by electricity and it keeps the water in motion. You take a seat in a boat and float away into dark abysses, meaning, you know not where, and once in a while you come to a dim light and fancy you are in the streams in Mammoth Cave and you see the basaltic pillars and the stalactites and the stalagmites. Again you have a dark float and come to an illuminated spot, where you see a cotton patch and a veritable Sambo picking on his old banjo. You pass temples and tombs, rock walls and rooms, divided with spaces so dark that the eye can not extract the least ray of light.

You feel, what if something would happen that the water would no longer draw the boat along! But the big wheel keeps running and therefore the water is kept in motion and your ship of Zion carries you safe home.

It is a taste of the weird, the blackness of darkness, a bewildering when you know you are safe and as a whole it is a diversion that you enjoy.

DR. MOFFETT'S TEETHINA (TEETHING POWDERS)

Costs Only 25 cents at Druggists.

Or mail 25 cents to C. J. MOFFETT, M. D., ST. LOUIS, MO.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 26, 1900.—I was first advised by our family physician in Charleston to use TEETHINA with our baby when he was but a very young infant, as a preventive of colic and to warm and sweeten the stomach. Later it was useful in teething troubles, and its effect has been found to be so very beneficial and so free from dangers that we have come to regard it, after use with three children, as one of the necessities when there is a new baby in the house and until the teething troubles are over, and we take pleasure in recommending it to our friends instead of the horrid stuff that so many people use to keep their baby quiet.
