BROWN-MOSS.

Mr Earl Brown Leads Miss Agnes Moss to the Hymenal Altar—The Stars Witness Their Nuptials.

Those who were fortunate enough to be present at the marriage of Miss Agnes Moss and Mr. Earl Brown Tuesday night witnessed a beautiful ceremony. It was a perfect ending of a perfect love.

Their vows were not plighted in the midst of pomp and ceremony in cold and formal walls among a curious and criticising crowd, but in the midst of loving hearts with the stars looking down upon them and the birds and flowers around them "in the midst of God and these witnesses" these two young hearts joined by a beautiful love and God's blessing became one.

The charming home of Mr. and Mrs. Swink never appeared more attractive. The porch was beautifully and artistically decorated with lights and flowers. Under a canopy of white and green, stood the young couple and were united in holy matrimony by the Rev. Mr. Cornelison. The beautiful picture will live long in the memory of those who witnessed it. The bride's beauty was of the style that was emphasized by the surroundings and one wondered if the bride who celebrated the first garden marriage could have been much fairer.

The guests were assembled in front of the improvised altar. Miss Kate Gibson and Miss Nan Cannon were the bride's maids, Master Sterling Brown the ring bearer.

The presents were many and very handsome. Silver and cut glass sparkled on every side.

Congratulations, both in person and by telegram, were showered upon them.

A delicious repast was served and much merriment ensued over the cutting of the bride's cake. Miss Kate Gibson cut the ring, Miss Emily Gibson the ten cents and Miss Fay Brown the thimble.

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown" left amidst a shower of rice and good byes for a honeymoon in Western North Carolina. X.

Mr. Jno. P. Allison's Speech of Acceptance.

MY FRIENDS AND FELLOW CITIZENS:—It is with feelings of gratitude I come before you to accept this honor you have just conferred upon me through your committee.

This is not a time to outline a policy,—it would tax your patience too much to listen to a poor talker after the arduous labors you have performed today. Besides, there is plenty of time for that before the election, but I will pledge my best efforts for whatever will promote the interest of the old North State, or my native county, glorious old Cabarrus.

I cannot refer you to labors performed in legislative matters, but I am not a stranger to the people of this county, nor ignorant of your wants. My ambition has never lead me into politics, but I have always taken an interest in the elections, for my friends whose ambitions have lead them into the political arena, and from a sense of duty, that every good citizen owes his government and this step today is from a sense of duty to my friends and my county.

It is very gratifying to have passed through this part of the campaign with so few scars, which shows the high and honorable plane upon which the contest has been waged.

While I may be a novice in legislation, my experience in business matters, my acquaintance with leading men in all parts of the State and with many who will be my colleagues, and having kept up with all State matters for many years, I feel that I can attempt to represent this people in the State Senate.

If my motives were altogether selfish I could not pass a law that would hurt you worse than myself. You will find me interested in all enterprises that I think will help my town and county.

Again I thank you gentlemen for this honor.
