"From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a table-spoonful before each meal and at bed-time." This is said to be the quickest and best remedy known to the medical profession for rheumatism and back-ache. Good results come after the first dose. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce, sealed, yellow package. Hundreds of the worst cases were cured here by this prescription last winter. #### PUBLIC- DAIRIES IN HOLLAND

Co-Operative System When Rightly Managed, Is Most Satisfactory to the Farmer.

No person interested in milk, butter or cheese should fail to visit one of the co-operative steam creameries while in Holland. These public dairies are the only practical solution of the dairy problem in a strictly dairy district. The co-operative system when rightly managed is the most satisfactory to the farmer; yet a public creamery, run by private enterprise, that treats its patrons justly is infinitely more advantageous, to the cow-keeper than his own unaided efthe question he has to decide, always forts, writes John Ashton in the Breeders' Gazette. Even Holland found that out to her own bitter cost and allowed the Danes to get ahead of them; but things are beginning to change since Holland began to move with the times and adopted the mutual system of centralizing production, which means economizing time and labor, raising the standard of quality and maintenance of uniformity butter ranks higher than the Dutch done will more than repay you product on the British market.

I left my hotel at Leeuwarden one raw morning about five o'clock to take the first car to Marssum, where the district creamery is situated. Long before I reached there I could see wagons and carts of all description laden with milk hurrying to the creamery. A sight never to be forgotten is to see the many dogs trotting along the roads hauling those small two-wheeled carts-sometimes two, often three dogs hitched together, drawing a surprisingly heavy load, with the driver running behind the cart, his hand on a short handle to steady the load. Indeed, a team of these big dogs do just as well and move every bit as fast as a pony on these flat roads. Everything was in full swing when arrived at the creamery. The milk of each farm is first weighed, and then a sample is taken, the joint samples being tested at the end of the week. Every week the farmer receives a check for his product based on the fat content and weight of milk, a receipt for the latter being given every morning and evening. At the time I was there the pastures were in bad shape on account of the drouth, but the manager told me they were receiving about 1,500 gallons twice a day. The milk is emptied at once into an enormous shallow tank. from which it is pumped to the cooler. This cooler will handle 2,000 gallons an hour. After that some of it runs to the separator and some to one of twelve tanks, each with a capacity of 1,400 gallons, where it is cooled to 12 degrees Cent. (53.6 degrees Fahr.).

After the Grazing Cattle.

GROUCHY MAN IS ISOLATED

One Should Lay Aside Prejudices and Distastes and Seek Him Out in Spirit of Friendliness.

Every community has the offish, st ent, non-communicative, apparently grouchy man. He is shunned by his neighbors until he gradually becomes almost as isolated as one left on a desert island, so far as intercourse with his fellowman is concerned.

You know such a man, perhaps sev eral. I've known hundreds of that sort, and I, too, in the long ago left him alone. But years, experience and a little of the milk of human kindness long since made me change that pol-

The farmer is often by nature and environment silent, uncommunicative, because, unlike his city neighbor, he is isolated and must of necessity live much of his life shut off from others. Yet there are exaggerated types of even this sort, and this is the one I have in mind-the loneliest of the lonely men.

I want you to make one New Year resolution, and that is to seek this man out. Show him you are really and humanly interested in him, his family, his farm, his horses, cows, pigs, all the things that go to make up the life of the tiller of the soil. You are going to be amazed to find often that you have a good neighbor and a friend worth while in that man. #### FARMERS ARE CO-OPERATNG

Over Three Million of Tillers of Soil Have United in Many Helpful Associations.

It is a most gratifying fact, though not generally known, that during the past twelve years the co-operative movement among farmers has grown so rapidly that there are now 75,000 economic associations with a membership considerably over 3,000,000.

There are but 6.100,000 farms in cultivation and in this number more than one-half are represented in these cooperative associations. Among the great number of co-operative associations are insurance companies against fire, injury and death to live stock. These insurance companies will not have over 2,000,000 stockholders.

For the most part they are well managed and have accumulated a surplus which is large for safeguarding of the interest of the stockholders and for the payments of losses.

The 3,000,000 farmers in the cooperative associations are bonded in associations large and small for economical manufacturing of butter. cheese-making, irrigation, the warehousing of grain and cotton and the building of telephone lines.

Perhaps the greatest benefit comes from co-operation by selling. Supplies are bought wholesale at often manufacturer's prices and selling is conducted through organizations whose business methods are yearly adding millions to the profits of the

SUCCESS IN RAISING TURKEYS

First Consideration Is Desirable Loca tion and Suitable Range—Few Other Essentials.

What do I consider the most imporant essentials to be a successful turkey raiser? First important consideration desirable location and good range; next, sound, healthy fowls of standard breed to begin with, for no one can succeed without sound, healthy birds to start with. Third, careful feeding. Fourth, keep free from lice. Last, but not least, dry roomy coop wo they can be kept out of sudden showers. These equipments, coupled with sound judgment and proper care of poults, should make anyone successful in raising turkeys, says a writer in an exchange. The way I manage mine after years of experience, I gather the eggs daily, keep in a place neither too cool nor too hot; turn eggs ever day. When the hen gets ready to set make a coop in some dry place, placing 15 or 16 eggs in nest; bring hen up late in evening, place on nest, keep fastened up two or three days, turn out so she can get something to eat and drink. Watch to see if she goes on same nest. When eggs hatch leave poults in nest 36 hours. Move hen and poults to large roomy coop inclosed in pen to keep anything from running over them. Dust hen and little ones with some good insect powder to kill lice. Feed them egg bread first few days. Give them plenty of fresh water. When they are a few days old give them lettuce and onion tops chopped fine with bread crumbs. Also give them a little chicken feed consisting of grain, small seeds, grit and oyster shells. Keep fastened in coop until strong enough to keep up with hen: turn out in the morning, but see that they come home at night to roost. Sprinkle a little black pepper occasionally in their food, but be sure not to overfeed, as it brings trouble and disaster in its train.

It is urged that all farmers and poultrymen adhere strictly to the following rules in handling their poultry and eggs:

1. Keep the nests clean; provide one nest for every four hens. 2. Gather the eggs twice daily. 3. Keep the eggs in a cool, dry room or cellar.

4. Market the egsg at least twice a week. 5. Sell, kill or confine all male birds as soon as the hatching season is over.

Drafts Are Injurious.

Drafts are just as injurious to the health of the flock as improper ventilation is and must be carefully guarded against. Drafts can be avoided by having all openings on one end of the house, preferably the south end. Have the north and west ends or sides built as tightly as possible and well protected from the winds.

Cleanliness Is Profitable. Cleanliness in the poultry pens puts many dollars into the pockets of the Euphemia, Ohio.—"Because of total ignorance of how to care for myself when verging into womanhood, and from taking cold when going to school, I suf-fered from a displacement, and each month I had severe pains and nausea which always meant a lay-off from work for two to four days from the time I was 16 years old.
