Join the Red Cross.

Membership in the American Red Cross has passed the million mark. Less than a year and a half ago it numbered only 30,000. Since the declaration of a state of war with Germany new members have been added in an unceasing torrent and it is to be hoped that there will be no let up to it. A million is a good many, but the figure is far below what it should be. Japan's Red Cross boasts a membership of two million. On this same basis America's Red Cross should number at least 8,500,000.

A Good Suggestion.

A good suggestion coming for several sources is as follows: Save the glass and stoneware containers and send them to the women on the farms for preserving fruits and vegetables!

On account of the expected shortage in tin cans, it is suggested that all commercial canneries, girls' canning clubs and others promptly assure themselves of an adequate supply of containers. The conservation of glass and stone ware containers may be accomplished through the cooperation of the consumers in the towns and cities with the girls' canning clubs and others who may be interested in the canning of fruits and vegetables.

Cholera Morbus.

This is a very painful and dangerous disease. In almost every neighborhood some one has died from it before medicine could be obtained or a physician summoned. Mrs. Charles Eneyart, Huntington, Ind., writes: "During the summer of 1911 two of my children were taken sick with cholera morbus.
