PROPHET WITH OUT HONOR.

It is a question with all the earmarks of a platitude but why do the people of a small town ungraciously and forever knock any one of their members who strives to better himself?

A young man ventures in to professional lines and all the gossip discusses his audacity and predicts his failure. Unusually generous his success. Almost anyone with an average brain power and a large quantity of push can occupy a professional position. There are many positions high up waiting, not for genius but a capable and trained brain to occupy them.

Salisbury has turned out many a boy who occupies a position of prominence and Salisbury is proud of them. "Yes," boasts one citizen, "I'm behind him at school."

The reflection of glory in this instance is a very desirable thing, yet the time has been when the successful man's ambition was an object of speculation, wonderment and scorn.

Who who says Rowan for a free bridge Yackiu is to ignore the matter and intelligently and knowingly this fact.

It is just as dangerous to drive the car of Progress without breaks as it is to drive any other vehicle without them.

Joh Shell, now 130 years old, of Leslie county, Kentucky, attributes his long life to outdoor and temperate habits. It's a wonder the N.C. Board of Health does not put in some claims for such a remarkable record. We suppose it is a case of having successfully evaded the regulations of the boards of health, health officers, etc.

The successful merchant is the one who is constantly seeking an enlarged field and an increased business. The fellow who ignores trade that could be readily brought to his town and his place of business, allows his prejudice, narrow-mindedness and littleness to swerve him from the path of duty, is not likely to become a John Wanamaker, a Pierpont Morgan or a successful peanut vendor.

Mr. Proctor, well known throughout the county, is the author of a 32 page pamphlet entitled, "Roman Catholicism Examined," price 36cts. Mr. Proctor makes many quotations from recognized standard works by Romanists and gives home his points effectively. The book is certainly worth careful reading by all. In addition to the production of the book Mr. Proctor has taken to the lecture platform on the same subject and will be glad to take the matter up with anyone who might be interested.

"OLD NORTH STATE" SUPPORTS WAR WELFARE WORK TO LIMIT

North Carolina, as a state, has a record in the World War which will always be the occasion of great and just pride to her future generations. Every call made of the Old North State for money, food, manufactured products, was promptly and generously met. The war effort of the boys in the service, and none have better, has been matched by the women and men who at all times stood solidly back of their fighting sons. Her boys were in the thick of the battle and those at home saw to it that the farms, factories, banks, business generally and efforts individually, were all lined up to win the war. Every appeal for funds was met and over Liberty Bonds, War Savings Stamps, the Red Cross, Y. M. C. A. and other welfare agencies all received generous support from the people of North Carolina.

War is Over.
 The war is won and for the most of us it is over and done with. The boys coming back from France cast off their uniform with a feeling of a job well and completely done. It is over for them. They have done all that was asked or expected of them and better. But there are a few phases of the war in which the home-folks took part, that are not as yet completed. In mind is the United War Work Campaign which was held November of last year. North Carolina pledged a total of $1,208,000. Of this grand total there has only been paid in up to this time the amount of $1,001,000. All of this money was raised in a good faith by the citizenship of the state. The war is over but only half of the boys have been sent home from France. Those that remain are impatient and restless and chafing to get back. Put yourself in a foreign country, with strange faces and languages, board by an iron discipline and with your thoughts turning ever to HOME, how would you feel? The welfare agencies, which co-operated in the United War Work Campaign, are at the present time doing one of the biggest pieces of work in their history.

Helping the Boys.
 Large colleges with full staffs of educators are helping the boys improve their time of waiting. Scores and scores of trained, enterprising boys are traveling from one end of France to the other, dispensing cheer and sunshine and helping the boys get up their own shows; athletic events are being staged that compare with former Olympic meets; everything possible is being done at this time to make the hours go faster for the boys who are upholding the power of right to the Germans. The war is won and a good many of the boys who helped win it are still in France ready for any eventually. We owe them a debt; the money has been pledged and in paying it real true-blue patriotism will be shown.

Need For Funds.
 Secretary Josephus Daniels, in approving the budgets of the War Work societies, made an urgent request to the people of the nation to pay in full their pledges. Following is a combined statement of Secretary Newton D. Baker and Secretary Josephus Daniels.
 Regarding the budgets which will finance the activities of the seven organizations presented in the campaign from October 1st, last, to December 31, 1919, the secretaries declared reports from overseas confirmed the necessity of "maintaining and in some of its aspects, augmenting this work."
 "In our judgment," the statement continued, "the full sum subscribed in the campaign will be required, if these societies are to do what the American people desire to have them do in serving the soldiers and sailors and the other classes included in the original appeal.
 "Moreover, there could, in our judgment, be no wiser use of such funds. The demobilization plans, so far as they have been determined, make it plain the work of the different organizations will be needed for a long time still, and, owing to conditions which necessarily characterize the period of demobilization, this practical welfare work will be even more needed than ever."
Wipe the Slate Clean.
 Fifteen out of a hundred counties of the state of North Carolina have already reported every cent collected and in some cases an over-collection is reported.
 The county chairmen and treasurers of the counties not yet reported worked as hard and faithfully as those in the counties which have paid the entire subscriptions; in some cases, perhaps, more so, but the people of their counties have not the pride and personal pride enough to pay their own subscriptions, the county campaign organizations cannot wipe the slate clean for their counties.
 Surely there can be no better of thanking and appreciation than the war is won than to pay up the obligations assumed for the welfare agencies for the work of the state of North Carolina. This state of North Carolina has not a more a record on the Olympic meets; everything possible is being done at this time to make the hours go faster for the boys who are upholding the power of right to the Germans. The war is won and a good many of the boys who helped
