DEMOCRATIC PRINCIPLES. "Equal and exact justice to all mer of whatever state or persuasion, religious or political." "The support of the State govern ments in all their rights as the most competent administrators of our domestic concerns." In other words, home rule.

Economy in the public expenses that labor may be lightly burdened." "Encouragement of agriculture and commerce its handmaid.'

"Trial by juries, freedom of religion, freedom of the press, freedom under the protection of the habeas corpus."

The above were cardinal doctrines taught by Thos. Jefferson. Hence he was and is called "the father of the Democratic party."

Andrew Jackson said, "Regard should be had for the rights of the several States, taking care not to confound the powers reserved to them with those conferred on the general government."

"In the adjustment of a tariff for revenue he (Jackson) insisted that a spirit of equity, caution and compromise requires the great interests of agriculture, manufactures and commerce to be equally favored." He advocated "unfettered commerce, by selfish motives and never just and equal." Tilden said: "Every business, every excessive taxation, false systems of finance, extravagant cost of protection, diminished ability to consume." "Whoever obstructs the means of payment obstructs the facilities of sale.

We must no longer legislate against the want of humanity and the beneficence of God." He cautioned the people against allowing intellect, training and virtue to succumb to wealth; against allowing servants."

"A protective tax, increased by profits of successive intermediaries, blights human wellbeing at every step. When it reaches the hapless child of toil who buys his bread by the single loaf and his feel by the basket, it devours his earnings and inflicts starvation."

To all the above teachings the Demoeratic party of to-day stands pledged. To these principles the Republican party is and has been opposed. Let the people choose whom they will serve, the Democratic or Republican parties.

WHERE IS THE REFORM ?

The people all remember the greatcry of reform which was raised two years ago. The fusionists said they were going to reform all branches of government. Now what reforms did they give us? Is a negro magistrate for the people of Cabarrus any reform? Are negro judges of election and negro magistrates in Cabarrus any reform? Is-amending the election laws so as to permit imported negroes and minors | ters. It says: without limit to vote any reform?

Is electing incompetent judicial officers any reform? Is passing a law making it possible for the white children of Concord to be placed under the control of a negro school commissioner any reform? Is an increase of taxes any reform?

Although the property valuation in 1894 in Cabarrus general was $220,500 less than in 1895, the county tax rate was increased over 6 per cent. Is that reform? It is well to remember also that the general taxes were increased in spite of the fact that a large special tax was collected from lawyers, doctors, boarding ing the apparently divided white vote the chances all seem to favor McKinley houses, factories, drug stores, etc.

Will some of our Republican friends show us where the reform comes in?

we have decided to sell them

It will pay you to buy good and store them away if you do

It is hardly worth which name prices. 1st, because would take up the whole paper and, 2nd, you have been fooled so often in giving you a price it store another, that we have be cided not to name prices will

We ask you, therefore, to com and convince yourselves that w mean what we say. Respectfully,
