Pretty Children

"We have three children. Before the birth of the last one my wife used four bottles of MOTHER'S FRIEND. If you had had the pictures of our children, you could see at a glance that the last one is healthiest, prettiest and finest-looking of them all. My wife thinks MOTHER'S FRIEND is the greatest and grandest remedy in the world for expectant mothers."—Written by a Kentucky Attorney-at-Law.

MOTHER'S FRIEND prevents nine-tenths of the suffering incident to childbirth. The coming mother's disposition and temper remain untroubled throughout the ordeal, because this relaxing, penetrating liniment relieves the usual distress. A good-natured mother is pretty sure to have a good-natured child. The patient is kept in a strong, healthy condition, which the child also inherits. MOTHER'S FRIEND takes a wife through the crisis quickly and almost painlessly. It assists in her rapid recovery, and wards off the dangers that so often follow delivery.

RENT.

My feet are weary and my hands are tired. My soul oppressed—
 And I desire what I have long desired—
 Rest—only rest.

'Tis hard to toil, when toil is almost vain.
 In barren ways,
 'Tis hard to sow and never gather grain
 In harvest days.

The burden of my days is hard to bear.
 But God knows best,
 And I have prayed, but vain has been my prayer,
 For rest—no rest.

'Tis hard to toil in Spring, and never reap
 In harvest days,
 'Tis hard to fill, and when 'tis filled to keep
 In a fruitless field.

And so I cry a weak and human cry
 No heart oppress:
 And so I sigh a weak and human sigh
 In vain distress.

My way has wound across the desert years,
 And I am faint,
 Though I have sought the flowing of hot tears
 In pain for rest.

'Tis always so, and when but a child I laid
 On mother's breast,
 My wretched little head, 'en then I prayed,
 And now, for rest.

And I am restless still, 'twill soon be o'er,
 For down the west
 I will go, and I will see the place
 Where I shall rest.

—Father Ryan

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

It is only a little book—a very little book—that the author has sent to me, but a perusal of his pages has provided me with a real comfort in my old age. I have read most of it aloud to my wife and daughters and it has comforted them and established them more firmly in the faith, if that were possible. This book is only a few pages long and is a real gem in large print—very large—so that veterans might read it without glasses or a strain of the optic nerve. Its modest title is "A Glance at Current History," by Colonel John Cussons, of Glen Allen, Va. It is the work of a retired veteran, and a noble brother of his love for his old enemy, watch him. He is getting ready to ask for something. Watch him. There is something pathetic in the picture of the north and south clasped in each other's arms and shedding each other's blood, but the aged mothers on either side have not yet learned to love the foe with much violence. Nor does the crippled veteran love the adversary who robbed him of his glorious youth and left him a feeble ruin, nor have the patriot soldiers on either side deserted the cause for which they fought.

But think of Virginia—the glorious Old Dominion—the mother of states and statesmen. Her domain extended from Carolina to Canada and from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. Born upon a generous bosom was Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Lighthorse Harry, Robert E. Lee, Joseph E. Johnston and Stonewall Jackson. Who would not be proud to be a Virginian? Who can wonder at the patriotic pride of those who were born in Virginia? Judith and Miss Anna Thomas, of Southampton county, now past their eightieth year, the only sisters of Gen. George H. Thomas, and who, ever since 1861, when he accepted office under Lincoln, have uniformly declared that they had no braver brother than he; and that they would rather be known as the widow of a hero than a woman who had no hero.

Robert E. Lee's regiment, but that he died in 1861 and now they have no brother. Ever since Virginia seceded they have patriotically declared their loyalty to the Union, and the only Virginia officer of the old army, save George H. Thomas, promptly resigned and volunteered to defend their State. These lonely old maidens seem really to believe that their brother still lives. The county of Southampton is now in the hands of the Federal Government. Every Virginia officer of the old army, save George H. Thomas, promptly resigned and volunteered to defend their State. These lonely old maidens seem really to believe that their brother still lives. The county of Southampton is now in the hands of the Federal Government. Every Virginia officer of the old army, save George H. Thomas, promptly resigned and volunteered to defend their State. ### DR. HILL'S PLAN TO FILL CHURCHES.

The Rev. Newell Dwight Hill, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., spoke last week before the New York Congregational Club on "The New Problem of the Church and the Ministry." He called attention to the fact that the church services are very slimly attended nowadays, but that the time is coming when there will be a revival of feeling and the churches will be once more filled. He favored a national half holiday on Saturday as a means to bring back the people to the Church. The people would have a chance to rest up on the half holiday. It is so in England, where the church services are largely attended.

What Pat Did When the Well Fell in.

An Irishman took a contract to dig a well. When he had dug about twenty feet down he came one morning and found it had fallen in and that it was filled nearly to the top.
 Pat looked cautiously around and saw that no person was near, then took off his hat and coat and hung them on a wicket, crawled into some bushes and awaited events.

In a short time the neighbors discovered that the well had fallen in, and, seeing Pat's hat and coat on the wicket, they supposed that he was at the bottom of the excavation.

Only a few hours of brick digging cleared the loose earth from the well, and the excavators began to dig at the bottom and were wondering where the body was. Pat came out of the bushes and good-naturedly thanked the diggers for relieving him of a sorry job. Some of the tired diggers were disgusted, but the joke was too good to allow of anything more than a laugh, which followed promptly.

Will Dam the Yackin River?

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 4.—J. E. Boardman, of Knoxville, who has just returned from Charlotte, N. C., where he is interested in the damming of the Yackin river, makes the following statement:

"The Yackin river will be dammed for the purpose of supplying electric light and power for Charlotte, Concord and Salisbury, N. C. About $80,000 will be spent on the enterprise. The Fidelity D-power Company, of Newark, N. J., is financing the scheme. A solid masonry dam, 500 feet in length and thirty feet in height will be built. The work of construction begins about June 1st."

Things That Tell.

Rev. Mr. Arlington—You should always be particular about details, Miss Tucker. It is little things that tell.

Nellie—I know that, I have three little sisters.

An Accident.

Fred—I had a fall last night which rendered me unconscious for several hours.

EJ.—You don't mean! Where did you fall?

Fred—I fell asleep.

REV. SAM JONES WRITES ON PEST-LEADING TOPICS.

Atlanta Journal.

Bea's weather is like a bad cold, a fellow thinks it is the worst on record, but a man with 10,000 or 100,000 bush trees with $5,000 or $25,000 worth of fruit exposed to the nip of the frost of the deadly influence of the cold winds and weather don't sleep well through such meteorological events as we have just gone through. The seasons change, but I believe in an overruling Providence and that whatever is, is best, while many look upon the destruction of property by cyclone and the devastation of crops by weather in anything but a subversive way. They are like the old negro in Arkansas: He and his co-worker were plowing in their cotton field and a cyclone passed along in the adjoining corn field and destroyed the great field of corn, whipped the corn into shreds and frightened the negroes very much. The man who was ever the old negro in Arkansas, he and his co-worker were plowing in their cotton field and a cyclone passed along in the adjoining corn field and destroyed the great field of corn, whipped the corn into shreds and frightened the negroes very much. The man who was ever the old negro in Arkansas, he and his co-worker were plowing in their cotton field and a cyclone passed along in the adjoining corn field and destroyed the great field of corn, whipped the corn into shreds and frightened the negroes very much.

THE LUTHERAN SYNOD.

GROUNDED, May 2.—The Lutheran Synod of North Carolina opened today at Frierden's church, near here. Synod is composed of sixty congregations and thirty-five ministers. The delegates, ministerial and lay, number about 60. Annual exercises of the Synod were presided by the synodical sermon and the Holy Communion. Rev. C. B. Miller, retiring president, presided thereupon, in which he presented the duty and responsibility of the Synod in view of the great need represented by Laurus lying at the gate of the Synod, represented by Davis. His appeal in behalf of mission stations and benevolent students was truly eloquent and made a deep impression upon the assembled delegates.

The president's report shows three ministerial accessions—one from the Tennessee and two from the Virginia Synod.

A new church was built and dedicated at Gastonia, S. C., and a lot secured for a third church in Concord. Thirty-eight congregations have generously responded to the century memorial call for the endowment of the Theological Seminary. The Synod supports five young men in the preparation for the ministry, four of them being in the Theological Seminary. The annual reunion inaugurated one year ago of all the Lutherans in North Carolina was heartily endorsed and the committee instructed to proceed with the work of making the next one a success equally with the last.

Twenty-five officers for the ensuing year resulted in continuing Rev. C. B. Miller as president and C. B. King as secretary, and J. D. Heib, treasurer. The report of the president of the board of trustees of the North Carolina College presented quite a glowing picture of renewed interest in the institution and the increase of patronage. The present enrollment is 102. Rev. W. A. Latz is president and has shown quite an aggressive spirit, and surrounded by an able faculty has accomplished a work which reveals the possibilities awaiting hearty co-operation on the part of the Synod.

THE USE OF LIVING.

Thomas Chalmers.

Thousands of men breathe, move and live, pass the stage of life and are heard of no more. Why? They did not at a part of the stage in the world, none were blessed by them; none could point to them as the instrument of their redemption; not a line they wrote, not a word they spoke could be recalled, and so they perished—their light went out in darkness and was not remembered more than the insects of yesterday. Will you thus live and die, O man! Instead of leaving behind you a monument of virtue that the storms of time can never destroy. Write your name by kindness, love and mercy on the hearts of the thousands you come in contact with year by year and you will never be forgotten. No, your name, your deeds, will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind as the stars on the brow of the evening. (God deeds will shine as bright on the earth as the stars in Heaven.)

DR. BROUGHTON ON "THE SERVANTS."

Rev. Dr. L. G. Broughton, of Atlanta, recently preached a sermon on "The Servant," and said in part:

"I have no objection to your having a servant if you can keep her. Servants often produce lessons.

"If you want your daughters to be worth anything to you or any one else, don't allow them to rely upon a servant to do everything for them; but teach daughter to work. Yes, why not? It makes no difference in the least whether the thousands or how many you are able to keep her, you cannot tell what may happen. She may marry a man who is worthless, who will not work and is extravagant. He may run through with her money, until finally she is left dependent upon her mother, and yet she knows not how. Mothers and fathers, it would pay you just to take that daughter of yours and put her in the kitchen and teach her how to cook meals, and then take her into the bedroom and teach her how to make a bedstead, to care for her room, to wash her face, to wash her hair, to teach her to make her own clothes, because you know not how soon she may be thrown on her own responsibilities and have to battle for her own bread.

"Too much is left to the servants in the matter of training children; and it is especially true in the south, where the most of the nurses in the homes are colored people, with a very low estimate of moral character and with a still lower estimate of the intellectual. Here we turn our children over to these servants and make them their guardians. How truly have they their charge! Their minds and their natures in their charge. And are you surprised that they grow up in life they are vulgar, rough and rude? Are you surprised at their low estimate of intellectual and moral character? Are you surprised at anything else but the same? And degrading when you take into consideration that the first five or six years of a child are the most important in its history and they have been given over to the ignorant and obedient. They must honor such a guardian, who employ them, and they will do so with a familiarity with the servant. Servants have a right to demand wages.

"I have in mind a member of a certain church noted for having a number of servants—a new servant almost every week—and when the reason was obtained it was this: 'The girl who had been taken into the family had a right to demand wages. What little she did pay them was in the form of old clothes.'

"Again, they have a right to demand a portion of their time. Have you ever thought of how little time our servants have which they call their own? Have you ever thought of how little time they have with their families? The most of them have families. These servants are responsible to God for the moral and intellectual training of their offspring—as responsible as we are for the training of ours. Are we surprised that the rising colored generation is so ignorant and mean, when they have had no regard at all for the sacredness of the family? Mother away all day, the greater part of the night and all day Sunday, not able to spare any time to spend with them. I tell you, friends, if our masters and mistresses would have to answer for a great deal for preventing that social intercourse with the family which God has intended should exist."

Bryan Talks on McLaurin.

LINCOLN, Neb., May 2.—In a statement made to-day, W. J. Bryan takes Senator McLaurin, of South Carolina, to task for what he declares is his political flip. At the same time, Mr. Bryan admits that Senator McLaurin's action marks the beginning of a movement in the South which will have an influence upon the politics of the nation. He says:

"It is not likely that Mr. McLaurin will be the leader of the movement, because he is handicapped by the fact that he is using his official position to misrepresent the views and interests of his constituents, but some leader will arise to give direction and force to the aristocratic and plutocratic element for which Mr. McLaurin speaks. There is such an element in every community, as such a government as we have, the same influences are at work in other States, where there is greater danger of their success.

"The Democratic sentiment is strong enough to resist and overcome the McLaurin movement, but those who believe that the race question is no longer the dollar will have to bestir themselves."

To Eloquent.

A cough is not a disease but a symptom. Consumption and bronchitis, which are the most dangerous and fatal diseases, have for their first indication a persistent cough, and if properly treated as soon as this cough appears an easily cured. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven wonderfully successful, and gained its wide reputation and extensive sale by its success in curing the diseases which cause coughing. If it is not beneficial it will not cost you a cent. For sale by M. L. Marsh.

Who Thought of It First?

"I shall soon be your new mamma," said a governess to her little charge. "I am going to marry your father's employer, dear. I wonder if you are glad?"

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness, soon disappears when the kidneys are out of order.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon to see a child be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child survives until the age of ten, when the kidneys reach a stage when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with the difficulty of kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, the Mid and the immediate relief of Swamp-Root is unexcelled. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may get a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling how to keep all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonials received from sufferers cured.
