Almost Unnerved Me—Heart Pains.

Short of Breath, Faint and Languid.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve Cured Me.

"It has been five years since I was cured of heart trouble by your Heart Cure and Nerve, and I am just as sound as a dollar in that regard today. For several years I had been suffering with my heart. Breathing had become short and difficult at times, short, sharp pains about the heart, sometimes accompanied with fluttering would make me feel faint and languid. The least excitement or mental worry would almost unnerve me. I felt that the trouble was growing worse all the time, and after trying many remedies prescribed by physicians without obtaining relief, I was induced to give your remedies a trial. I was relieved the second day, and after taking three or four bottles all symptoms were removed and have never shown signs of returning."—Rev. Geo. W. KIRACOFF, Chincoteague, Va.

There are many symptoms of heart disease, which so closely resemble those of many common nervous disorders as to frequently mislead the attending physician. Often in cases of heart trouble the stomach, kidneys, liver or lungs become affected. Again the symptoms may be those of weakened nerves, as tired feeling, sleeplessness, timidity, the patient is easily excitable and apt to worry without cause. If you have the least suspicion that your heart is weak study your symptoms and begin the use of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, the great heart and blood tonic, without a day's delay.

W. SAM P. JONES IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Atlanta Journal.

I am circulating, in the Old North State this week, and I see much to interest and enjoy, as I go from place to place. My first stop was made at Rockingham. This is a town of water power and cotton mills. In spite of their disastrous fires within the past few months, they are forging ahead and will some day be immensely rich if there be anything in vantage ground and natural resources. From Rockingham to Kinston was my next jump. This thriving town of seven or eight thousand, is located 25 east of Goldsboro, and is one of the many prosperous towns of North Carolina. Tobacco, cotton, peanuts and truck gardening all together is making this town grow in leaps and bounds.

The same is true of Rocky Mount and Wilson, except perhaps truck raising is not so extensive in the two latter. Rocky Mount was visited a few days ago with a $75,000 fire, but already they are preparing to rebuild more substantially than before. Sufely the insurance companies have caught it in the neck this year. But the dear people will foot the bills.

I am greatly interested in the whisky fight now going on in North Carolina. The Watts law, so called, of North Carolina, passed by the legislature about two years ago has put a move on the anti-saloon crowd and John Barleycorn is getting a black eye in this state. The new law gives local option to the towns on saloons, dispensaries, distilleries, breweries, etc. The people can choose between barrooms and dispensaries. They elect whether they will have prohibition straight or whisky. They choose also whether they will have distilleries and breweries, and the foe is flying from the whisky crowd all over the State.

The supreme court of this State has lately affirmed the ruling of a circuit judge that no North Carolina town can ship whisky in any form into a prohibition town. So now whatever of jugs and packages of whisky the dry towns get by express, freight, etc., must come in by interstate traffic and that fact makes snake bite medicine very hard to get in the dry places.

Now this is the kind of law we have been hankering after in Georgia for a hundred years, for the benefit of our dry towns and every effort we make in that direction we are met with the declaration "that's unconstitutional."

It seems that it takes more than a bare technicality to whop Governor Aycock and the supreme court of North Carolina over into a barrel or demijohn. They just won't march with the whisky procession. I only wish that much could be said of the powers that be in Georgia.

There is a whole train load of people in Georgia that can't understand why a town could not as lawfully quarantine against whisky as it can against small pox or yellow fever.

I for one, can never understand why and how North Carolina towns can prevent her wet towns from stopping over on her dry towns and its unconstitutional for us to do the same thing in Georgia.

I do hope Judge John S. Candler or some other member of our supreme court would familiarize themselves with the North Carolina decisions on this subject and write a letter to the press of Georgia and tell us where trouble is, whether it's with the constitution or with the law or the fault of the leanings of the supreme court. Its at one of these points and its due the people that it be definitely pointed out and the remedy applied.

The dry towns of Georgia have been seeking relief and asking relief and some of these days we will demand relief.

I have great respect for the supreme court of our State, but when their decisions on the whisky questions are shrouded in mystery or small of whisky, I get uneasy for the better element of our State.

I have no patience with a court that will violate a good and moral law on a bare technicality and give it to the good people in the neck and to the bad element in their pockets.

I will furnish any member of our supreme court with the North Carolina decision on this subject if he will furnish the press the article. I find that many towns in North Carolina have voted prohibition and some have chosen the dispensary. Kinston, Raleigh, Greenville, etc., have chosen the dispensary, and I find that most of the people are well pleased with the dispensary. They boast that it will soon pay all their taxes and relieve them of that burden. The dispensary certainly does grow in the affections of a people as it fills their pockets, and the dispensary towns will soon exhibit all the greed and manifest all the resentment of the

SOUTH BOWAN.

Snow noticed falling this morning. Fruit trees beginning to bloom.

Mr. Alexander Powlas, better known as Sandy Powlas, died yesterday, aged 79 years. He was one of Rowan's best citizens. The interment will be at Organ Church to-morrow.

Mrs. Leah Basinger, who died on the 6th inst., was the wife of John A. Basinger, and lived in the Bostian X-Roads section, but was a member of Organ Church.

Some sneak thief on last Saturday night entered the smoke-house of Mr. James Shive, of upper Cabarrus, and took therefrom four large pieces of meat.

Bro. Bailey preached at Rocks Grove yesterday. He has service at that place every third Sunday at 3 p. m.

Wheat and oats, where they have not been frozen out, begin to look promising.

Mrs. S. C. Artz became quite sick last night, and is not much better this morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Barger, who has been in poor health for some time, had begun to improve, but on yesterday she became worse, and is now confined to her room.

The farmers have taken advantage of the past good weather, and ploughing has gone merrily on. More fertilizer is being hauled out than usual to be used for both corn and cotton.

We are glad to know that there is a correspondent from Sunnyside. That section is near the home of our childhood, and though the names of people mentioned in the correspondence are mostly strange to us—still we read with pleasure the items from "dear old home."

Will not some of the old soldiers write up some of the battles of the Civil war in which they participated from '61 to '65? It would be interesting reading, and doubtless be of historical value in the end.

COPAL GROVE.

Rev. C. L. T. Fisher preached his last sermon at Bethel Church Sunday.

A birthday festival with refreshments will be given at Misenheimer's Springs on Easter Saturday night, from 6 till 10 o'clock. Everybody is invited.

Mr. L. O. Ritchie, who has been very sick for the past two weeks with typhoid fever and appendicitis, is improving fast.

Mr. E. W. Plyler, of Concord, will move near Copal Grove this week.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of Bethel Church met with Mrs. J. O. Moore, at Misenheimer's Springs, on last Saturday at 2:30 p. m., with a large attendance. A luncheon was given immediately after service, which was much enjoyed by all present.

MARTINDALE MUSINGS.

Recently we fetched a compass, and went to Brief, (N. C., of course.) The "Academy of Music" that night was the scene of much hilarity—public school closing being the predisposing cause. The Rock Hill Colored Band, armed to the teeth with horns and drums, tooted forth melodious strains on the nocturnal air. Employing this band gave offense to some, as they did not believe in highly-scented music.

Others thought that it would look just as aristocratic to have a nigger band as to have a nigger in the woodpile or in the cornfield, and that the aroma arising from the band fellows, well-groomed and retouched with musk, would compare favorably with the esthetic smellification of the cornfield.

Others still, while not tickled to death at the idea of having a little cheap aristocracy, believed nevertheless that the soul of all music is white, though it has a black exterior at times. Happily, the wisest counsels prevailed, and a well-rounded good time rewarded those attending.

Neighborhood News.

At Jerome's school house, next day, some of the best public school exercises we ever heard were rendered. The Mint Hill String Band retailed excellent music for the occasion. One big bass horn was included with the stringed instruments, evidently as a compromise with those who stubbornly insist that music is not music unless it be thoroughly saturated with innumerable "toots." It was a source of much satisfaction to note that this band carefully refrains from superfluous upshinnings, and keeps time with its foot.

Give us the band that keeps time with its foot! It resurrects more tender memories of the past, and brings back more fond recollections to the square inch than anything else we know of.

Oae by one our cherished treasures are being relegated to the bottomless pit of oblivion; the lusty agent is even now introducing a new-fangled drawing apparatus that makes the storied moses-covered bucket that once arose from the well in solomonic glory look like 30 cents with the eagle scratched off; but we trust that the wily agent will never succeed in substituting anything for the band that pats its foot.

In Cabarrus, at Mill Grove, a well-packed house greeted an interesting program Saturday night. Standing room was above par. So close was the press that an elderly widower, of Cabarrus, was brought into just a position with a winsome maiden, of Stanly. However, cards are not out yet. A "one man orchestra," Mr. Abernathy, of Flows, manipulating guitar and mouth harp, discoursed entertaining music for the occasion.

Not Too High.

It is told of Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, who lived all his life a bachelor, that he was talking one day with a young man from the West about a tax a Western state was trying to impose on bachelors, the tax to be increased a certain per cent for every ten years of bachelorhood. "Why bishop," said the young man, "at your age you would have to pay about one hundred dollars a year." "Well," said the bishop, quietly and in his oldtime vernacular, "it's wuth it."

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in constipation, headache or liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25 cents at all drug stores.

Bill Collector—I have presented this bill to your husband time and time again at his office, and he is always busy to attend to it. I have also called here with it fifteen times but you always put me off.

Mrs. DeRich—What! You have called at this house with that petty bill fifteen times? Such frequent calling with one bill is an insult, sir. Begone!

If troubled with weak digestion, belching or sour stomach, use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and you will get quick relief. For sale by M. L. Marsh.

Neighborhood News.

Conan Doyle was once asked why he didn't establish a detective agency and employ Sherlock Holmes' tactics in conducting the business. "For the very good reason," he replied, "that all the knots Sherlock Holmes untied were of my own tying. I should fail if I undertook to unravel other people's entanglements. I believe that on one occasion I could have done so, though. I was in a tailor shop when a rather unattractive man was selecting a pair of trousers. He flatly objected to striped goods, and I got the idea that he was an ex-convict. To satisfy myself, I visited one or two prisons, and, sure enough, found the man's picture in the rogue's gallery. Doubtless, he had had enough of striped wearing apparel."

A Favorite Remedy for Babies.

Its pleasant taste and prompt cures have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a favorite with the mothers of small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds and prevents any danger of pneumonia or other serious consequences. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears will prevent the attack. For sale by M. L. Marsh.
