BROWNLOW A CRIP OF THE OLD LOOK.

Atlanta Constitution.
The recent telegraphic report detailing the "firing" of Colonel John Bell Brownlow by President Roosevelt for alleged "black talk" to the late Postmaster General Payne, in official correspondence, will be of interest to many Georgians, and especially such as were formerly residents of East Tennessee.

It seems that Colonel Brownlow has been in charge of the government disbursements at the St. Louis exposition, as he has formerly been at the Pan-American and other large expositions, in which the national government had representation. Postmaster General Payne demanded a report of Colonel Brownlow's receipts and expenditures, and the latter reported the aggregates only. Mr. Payne then demanded an itemized statement, and this Colonel Brownlow resented as a reflection upon his integrity, in advance of his final accounting, and wrote to the postmaster general a letter that was not consonant with imperial notions of etiquette, but filled with a strong flavor of East Tennessee "sass." Then Brownlow's accounts were officially reviewed and found absolutely correct. Therefore, after the death of general Payne, his successor, Postmaster General Wynne, recommended that Brownlow be allowed to retain his office, after an official tenure of over thirty years, provided he would withdraw the language of his letter that had been officially stamped as "lese majeste," or words of like import, so to speak, etc.

John Bell Brownlow refused to unsay what he had felt the right to say to any man, superior officer or what-not, for impugning his fiduciary integrity. Those who know Brownlow's heredity and personal characteristics will not be surprised at his determination to "stand pat" and let the heavens fall, if they would.

All Americans of the passing generation who were alert to public affairs recall easily William G. Brownlow, "the Fighting Methodist Parson" of East Tennessee, editor of The Knoxville Whig, a newspaper famous throughout the Union, eloquent controversialist, vehement debater, knife or gun fighter if you wished it hard enough, upholder of the Union cause, provoker of bushwhackers, bridge burners and mobs; then Governor of Tennessee and United States Senator up to the time of his death in 1873 or 1874. He was one of the most conspicuous characters of the stormy civil war epoch.

John Bell Brownlow is the second son of that same "Old Bill Brownlow" and in himself embodies the fiery spirit of his celebrated father.

Shoots in Court at Judge, Who Grapples With Him.

The Rev. Isaac Selby, of Australia, Cal., plaintiff in a damage suit, shot at Superior Judge Hebbard last week while the latter was on the bench. The bullet came within an inch of the Judge's head and lodged in the back of his chair. Selby was removed to the city prison and charged with an attempt to commit murder.

Selby recently was sued for divorce. He conducted his own defense, but was unsuccessful, a decree against him being granted by Judge Hebbard.

When Selby arose from a seat in the court-room and fired at the Judge, the latter rushed from the bench and grappled with his assailant, preventing him from firing another shot.

Before being taken to his cell Selby said: "I shot at Judge Hebbard because that seemed the only way for a man to get justice in this country. My only regret is that I seem to have bungled matters considerably. My intention was to kill him, but I was a trifle nervous."

A Remarkable Coincidence.

Charlotte Observer.
Rev. W. H. Davis, pastor of Sharon church, who conducted the funeral services over the remains of Mrs. W. C. Graham, whose sad death occurred in Sharon last Wednesday, was the pastor in charge who conducted the funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann McCall, the mother of Mrs. Graham, whose death occurred almost the same day 28 years previous.

Mr. Davis was returned to the pastorate of Sharon church about three years ago.

The Key That Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five to ninety years of age are not the rotund well fed, thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Liver and Stomach Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age. For sale by M. L. Marsh and D. D. Johnson.

MALARIA ON THE CATAWBA.

Is It Due to the Building of the Big Dam.

Yorkville, S. C., Enquirer.
There is no doubt of the fact that there is more malaria along the west bank of the Catawba river, since the building of the dam than there has ever been before. All of the old people of the neighborhood testify to this; but it is still an interesting question as to whether the dam is responsible for this situation. Doubts have arisen from the fact that there have been cases of malaria as far back as eight or ten miles from the river, and this seems to prove that it would hardly be fair to charge the malarial to that source.

The reporter had a talk on the subject a few days ago with an able and experienced physician. This physician is fully conversant with the situation, and he is inclined to the opinion that there is no doubt of the responsibility of the dam. "It is a settled fact now," said the physician, "that malaria is disseminated only through mosquitoes. The back water has given rise to more mosquitoes and more opportunity for the dissemination of malaria. You must not understand that all mosquitoes carry malaria, for such is not the case. All mosquitoes, however, are capable of carrying malaria. The germs of the disease go through a process in the insect, and the disease is transmitted to human subjects by injection. Then by the same process the work of transmission goes on from one subject to another. There is no reasonable doubt in my mind that the mosquito is entirely responsible for the dissemination of malaria, nor is there any more doubt that typhoid fever owes its origin to infected drinking water. No man is liable to have typhoid fever except through infected water, and malaria is never transmitted except through mosquito bites."

A Time to "Lay Low."

New York World.

Mr. Bryan has brought out his maps and his charts, summoned his field-marshals, and is amusing himself by making preparations for the fourth battle.

This innocuous activity will come to nothing. Planning future campaigns now is as foolish premature a performance as would be the planting of corn in December. The control of the party organization is worth more on paper than it is worth in a national convention. Mr. Cleveland controlled the Democratic organization in 1896, but he could not suppress Bryan and the heaven-born ratio. Mr. Bryan controlled the organization in 1904, but he could not block the nomination of Judge Parker.

All talk of reorganizing or reconstructing the Democratic party at this time is absurdly "previous." What is there to do? Nobody knows what history the Roosevelt Administration will make or unmake. If the President succeeds in forcing a reasonable revision of the tariff, if he adopts vigorous measures for the enforcement of the Anti-Trust and Interstate Commerce laws; if he promotes the cause of ultimate independence for the Filipinos, and does not try to spend more money than the Governor can collect, what will be Mr. Bryan's paramount issue? Will he return to the 1896 demand for free silver or to the 1864 declaration that the war is a failure?

The obvious wisdom for the Democrats is to emulate Br'er Rabbit and "lay low" until they see what the Administration and Congress purpose to do or not to do.

That Throbbing Headache

Mr. Ed. W. Woody publishes a card in the Durham papers to say that at the proper time he will make application to the President for appointment as postmaster at Durham. The announcement is made, he says, because he is informed that the present postmaster, Mr. O'Brien, is making a personal canvass for appointment to a third term, and Mr. Woody wants his friends to know that he will be in the field.

KING COTTON NO MORE.

Capt. S. B. Alexander Makes Interesting Prediction About the Staple.

Charlotte News.
"Twenty-five or thirty years from now there will be very little cotton raised in this section, and the country lands will be used for trucking and other uses besides the cultivation of the fleecy staple," said Capt. S. B. Alexander, Tuesday, in discussing the outlook for the farmers during the next twenty to thirty years.

Captain Alexander says that this section when it comes down to facts, is not primarily a cotton country and that he is certain that in a quarter of a century cotton will compose only a small part of the productions of the country.

"The raising of cotton," said Captain Alexander, "will be placed partly by truck farming which will be much more profitable twenty-five years hence than it is now."

Captain Alexander is also much interested in the labor problem in this section in particular. He says that more intelligent labor is cheaper at $1.25 per day than unintelligent colored labor at 60 cents per day and gives many instances to show that this is true. "And yet," said Captain Alexander, "the colored man just as soon as he gets a little education will no longer work in the fields, but will seek other employment and cannot be gotten to do the farm work any longer."

Just what class of labor could be used to advantage in the South Captain Alexander did not say, but he referred to numerous attempts made by Southern planters in this section to use foreign labor and in most instances the attempt doomed to end in failure.

"The small farm is the coming agricultural system in the South," says Captain Alexander, and this will furnish a part solution at least of all the problems which now face the farmer concerning labor, kinds of products to raise, etc."

A Baptist Fish.

During a recent Baptist convention held in Charleston Rev. Dr. Greene, of Washington, strolled down to the Battery one morning to take a look across the harbor at Fort Sumter. An old negro was sitting on the sea wall fishing. Dr. Greene watched the lone fisherman, and finally saw him pull up an odd-looking fish—a cross between a toad and a catfish.

"What kind of a fish is that, old man?" inquired Dr. Greene.

"Dey calls it de Baptist fish," replied the fisherman, as he tossed it away, in deep disgust.

"Why do they call it the Baptist fish?" asked the minister.

"Because they spoil so soon after dey comes outen the water," answered the fisherman.

Responsibility of the Jug.

Atlanta Constitution.

"Yes, suh—le snake wus twelve foot long—"

"Come, now!"

"En had sixty rattles—"

"That won't do!"

"En five buttons—"

"You's a great liar!"

"Well, suh, maybe I is; but there was one thing I wuzent mistook in, en maybe you'll doubt dat."

"Go ahead and tell it."

Then the old man straightened himself, smacked his mouth and said:

"De jug held two gallons, en only had one handle."

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Batorsville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all lung and throat troubles, consumption, pneumonia and grip. Guaranteed by all druggists. Trial bottles free, regular size 50c, and $1.00.

Nothing's Doing.

Young Man—"Say, you—er—remember the engagement ring I bought of you yesterday?"

Jeweler—"Yes. What's wrong with it?"

Young man—"Nothing, but there's something wrong with the girl. Would you mind taking it back and giving me a collar button for it?"

The average estimate of the cotton crop of this season, made by 162 members of the New York cotton exchange, places the yield at 11,582,000 bales.

CAN HE RESIST THIS?

Savannah News.

It is announced that the President will not come South this winter, but will wait until next spring. He is making a mistake. The South is never more delightful than in winter—the mild, balmy winter peculiar to the section.

It is in the winter that the pine and oak logs blaze cheerily on the open hearth and give off an aroma that makes the man in whose nostrils it enters glad that he is alive.

It is in winter that home-made sausages, hung in long links from the rafters, are at their best, and the sauce in the stove crock is seasoned to a king's taste. It is then that the persimmon beer, the walnuts and the sweet potatoes combine to delight the palates of all healthy men.

And then there are "possums and chestnuts and corn pone and frost-nipped collards and dodgers," all holding out promise of cheer and inward delight to him who knows the unsurpassable pleasures of the simple and strong life.

We feel almost sure that if the President could get a whiff of pine knots blazing in the fireplace and "grandma" sausage cooking in the kitchen he would not wait until spring.

Marion Cummings, colored, and Fred Howard, a white boy, both of Monroe, shot and seriously wounded two foreigners who were traveling with a monkey Monday evening without provocation. They also shot the monkey to death. Cummings has been taken but Howard is at large.

Harry G. Carver, aged 39, clerk in a grocery store at Charlotte, cut his throat from ear to ear Monday morning, severing the external jugular vein. Melancholia is given as the cause. The young man is living, but cannot recover.
