GROVER CLEVELAND ON WOMAN'S CLUBS.

Ex President Grover Cleveland has an article on "Woman's Mission and Woman's Clubs" in a current magazine. He says in part:

"To those of us who suffer periods of social pessimism, but who, in the midst of it all, cling to our faith in the saving grace of simple and unadorned womanhood any discontent on the part of woman with her ordained lot, or a restless desire on her part to be and to do something not within the sphere of her appointed ministrations, cannot appear otherwise than as perversions of a gift of God to the human race.

"The restlessness and discontent to which I have referred is most strongly manifested in a movement which has for a long time been on foot for securing to women the right to vote and otherwise participate in public affairs. Let it here be distinctly understood that no sensible man has fears of injury to the country on account of such participation. It is its dangerous, undermining effect on the characters of the wives and mothers of our land that we fear. This particular movement is so aggressive and so extreme in its insistence that those whom it has fully enlisted may well be considered as incorrigible. At a very recent meeting of these radicals a high priestess of the faith declared: 'No matter how bad the crime a woman commits, if she can't vote and is classed with idiots and criminals and lunatics, she should not be punished by the same laws as those who vote obey.'

"This was said when advocating united action on the part of the assembled body to prevent the execution of a woman proved guilty of the deliberate and aggravated murder of her husband. The speaker is reported to have further announced, as apparently the keynote of her address, 'If we could vote we'd be willing to be hanged.' It is a thousand pities that all the wives found in such company cannot sufficiently open their minds to see the complete fitness of the homely definition which describes a good wife as 'a woman who loves her husband and her country, with no desire to run either.'

"There is comfort in the reflection that, even though these extremists may not be amenable to reformation, there is a fair prospect that their manifest radicalism and their blunt avowal of subverting purposes will effectively warn again a dangerously wide acceptance of their theories."

After considering the woman's club as a weapon of retaliation upon man for neglect of his home, and suggesting that the retaliation may fall upon the innocent as well as the guilty, Mr. Cleveland says:

"It may safely be assumed that among those who are most disturbed by the growth of woman's clubs, the sentiment is universal that man's neglect of woman is a dastardly offense, and that the whipping post for wife-beaters would be a wholesome feature of our criminal law."

He goes on: "I am persuaded that without exaggeration of statement, we may assume that there are woman's clubs whose objects and intents are not only harmful in a way that directly menaces the integrity of our homes and the benign disposition and character of our wifehood and motherhood.

"I believe that it should be boldly declared that the best and safest club for a woman to patronize is her home."

The North Carolina Baptist says that as the result of the revival in Wales a lawyer gave up his position as attorney for brewers, which paid him $10,000 a year. This moves the Baptist to say that this lawyer had "the right kind of religion." Thereupon the Biblical Recorder says it can name "two lawyers who recently declined fees from the liquor men—one declining a fee of $10,000, the other $5,000 each in North Carolina."

Seeking refuge from a rainstorm in the mouth of a big sewer, a number of workmen employed at West Chester, Pa., narrowly escaped death last week. The storm broke upon a portion of the town half a mile away, and before they could escape the flood caught the men and washed them out of the sewer.

THE ROBBED MAN.

Charlotte Observer.

There is a tribe of 80 Catawba Indians located on a reservation of 600 acres in York county, S. C., near the town of Fort Mill. The chief of the tribe, Jim Harris, made a pilgrimage to Columbia recently to lay the troubles of his folks before the Governor. It appears that they have an annual appropriation of $1,500 from the State; it does not appear that they receive anything from the general government for support; and the chief represents that they are on the verge of starvation and he wants a larger appropriation from the State, either for the maintenance of his people or to the enable them to go West and settle with other Indians in the Indian Territory. These Catawbas are good Indians, and Chief Harris had the face with him when he told Governor Heyward that they had stood with the American colonists against British aggression and later with the South in the war between the States. All that is well and in acknowledgment of the facts South Carolina would do well to help move these people to Indian Territory. Eighty of them, men, women and children, cannot, even with accessories of hunting and fishing, coax a living out of 600 acres of land. The fact is that the Indians are of no account. They won't work; they won't accept the methods which white civilization suggests, and they won't even learn the English language. In saying this we have in mind particularly the Cherokees of western North Carolina. They are no good. They are retreating instead of advancing. They are decreasing in number—that is to say the death-rate out-runs the birth-rate—and as if by intuition the population is being further depleted by the removal of some of them to the West every year. All efforts to civilize them have failed and will continue to fail. It would be better if the general government would take all the Indians of the East in hand and move them to the Indian Territory, or somewhere, where they could hunt and fish and rub off the thin veneer of civilization which has been forced upon them, and be wild again.

Give Money to Poor Colleges of South

Gifts amounting in all to $250,000 will be made this year to small colleges in the rural districts of Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and West Virginia. This announcement was made by Dr. D. K. Pearsons, retired capitalist and benefactor of many small colleges in the United States.

"I am not going to give to any rich colleges," said Dr. Pearsons. "I have a lot of colleges to choose from in distributing the $250,000 that I have decided to send down South. I am going to pick out the very poorest and most worthy and have the money ready by May 1st."

Ten men were killed in the Conynco Colliery of the Delaware and Hudson Coal Company at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning by the breaking of a rope carriage which was being lowered. They fell over 450 feet and were crushed under the ruins of the carriage at the bottom of the shaft.

CROPS FOR FORAGE.

Southern Farm Magazine.

With the large number of crops that may be grown in the Southern States suitable for making forage there is no good reason why there should be any scarcity in this particular. Stock peas, soya beans, velvet beans, clover, vetches, Japan clover, alfalfa and numerous other legumes may be successfully grown in every Southern State. There are also numerous true grasses that grow with surprising luxuriance—as many certainly as 40 varieties—that have done well and may be utilized in the making of forage crops. Among these sorghum may be accounted one of the most prolific in yield and most valuable for forage. On good land that is well cultivated fully 10 tons of forage, the very best for cattle, may be produced upon one acre. The greatest objection to this plant for forage is that it freezes or totally destroys its feeding value, but this danger may be averted by putting up the sorghum in silos properly built. No other plant is at once so easily grown and that yields such a large amount of succulent and nutritious forage for stock. It is good for all kinds of stock, and for milch cows it produces an abundant flow of rich milk even during the stormy days of winter. Pea hay is to be preferred for sheep and it should be provided in such abundance by the stockmaster that his flock may at all times be able to feed upon it. Ewes especially, giving nourishment to young lambs, need it to increase the flow of milk. It is to be doubted if any other dry food is so valuable to the sheep-breeder during the winter months as pea hay.

A Congressman's Shoes.

An apt illustration of distinction without a difference occurred recently in a Washington shoe shop, according to the story Congressman Sulzer tells of one of his colleagues.

Mr. Sulzer's friend, it seems, has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, so that one foot has been affected by it and has become a trifle smaller than the other. He ordered his shoes made accordingly. His directions were obeyed, but when he visited the shop to try them on he picked up the small shoe first and attempted to get it on the larger foot.

"Look here," he exclaimed, in a burst of petulance. "I told you to make one shoe larger than the other. Instead of that you have made one smaller than the other."

"EVERY MAN HAS HIS PRICE," A FALSE DOCTRINE.

Monroe Inquirer.

"The devil told God that Job had been bought. The devil in this day and time says that every man has his price, that you can buy any man. That is false. I would not say every man has his price. I would not make that declaration anywhere, no not if I were alone in a windowless cellar at midnight on the dark of the moon, and if I did say such a thing I would try to die in my own blushes." The foregoing are some of the pointed sayings of that original thinker and instructive speaker, Dr. R. T. Vann, and were said in a splendid sermon in the First Baptist Church last Sunday night. That is truth forcibly put. The man who says that all men can be bought "takes the measure of his own small soul and thinks the world no larger." If you would hear that there is no temptation and that everybody drinks, go into the barrooms; if you would hear that there is no purity and no virtue, go into the lazarettes where the moral lepers herd and you will hear that statement made. The dishonest man accuses the world of dishonesty and the unclean man accuses the world of uncleanness.

Children Ought to Go Barefooted.

Greensboro Record.

People are getting so fashionable that it will not do to let a little tot of a girl go barefooted except around home or in the back lot. They are sent to school diked out in shoes and stockings, and when they get sick and puny, as they often do, parents wonder why their children are not more robust and healthy. Style and pride has much to do with it. Turn them out barefoot to school until frost comes; boys and girls should practice it until they are at least ten years old, but if a girl of this age should be seen on the streets without shoes, some people would faint. Yet a bare foot on God's ground is most conducive to health.

Student Only a Burden.

Ralph C. Roberts a student of the University of Illinois, and a star football player, was killed in a railroad accident last fall. His administrator brought suit for 10,000. The railroad moved that the suit be dismissed on the ground that no evidence had been introduced to show that any person was depending upon Roberts for support, and that Roberts, being a college man was really an expense to his parents. Judge Wright, in the County Court, decided to-day that the point was well taken and dismissed the case.
