A Card from Mr. Richmond.

Notice is hereby given that I have this day sold and transferred all my right, interest and good will in the insurance business of G. G. Richmond & Co. to Thomas J. White. The business hereafter will be conducted under the firm name of Smith & White. I take this opportunity to thank the public for their liberal patronage in the past and respectfully ask a continuance of the same for the new firm.

G. G. RICHMOND.

June 1st, 1905.

THOS. W. SMITH. THOS. J. WHITE.

New Insurance Firm.

As will be seen from the above card of Mr. G. G. Richmond, we, the undersigned, have this day associated ourselves together to do a general insurance business. We are prepared to handle insurance in all the different lines. We represent the New York Life, Penn Mutual, and Southern Life and Trust Company, life insurance companies, and a full and complete line of old line fire insurance companies, composed of both home and foreign companies. We also handle Health and Accident Insurance, and all kinds of Casualty Insurance, Plate Glass, Steam Boiler, and Employers Liability, etc. When in need of anything in our line we will be pleased to serve you to the best of our ability. Very respectfully,

SMITH & WHITE.

Found Care for Dyspepsia.

Mrs. S. Lindsay, of Fort William, Ontario, Canada, who has suffered quite a number of years from dyspepsia and great pains in the stomach, was advised by her druggist to take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. She did so and says, "I find that they have done me a great deal of good. I have never had any suffering since I began using them." If troubled with dyspepsia or indigestion why not take these Tablets, get well and stay well? For sale by M. L. Marsh and D. D. Johnson.

A WONDERFUL GARDEN IN MINATURE.

For more than fifty years Herman R. Rauch, of Lebanon, Pa., has been at work on a miniature garden, which to-day is a veritable wonderland. Flowers, plants, oyster and clam shells, stones, cinders, small pieces of wood and rocks are the materials used in its novel construction.

The first thing that attracts one's attention upon a visit to the garden of wonders is a large bell made of oyster shells. It stands at the entrance to the park, which, by the way, Mr. Rauch utilizes as an attractive place for serving ice cream during the warmer seasons. Once within the inclosure, the mound covered with Egyptian characters first attracts a person. Near this mound is the Temple of Eros, wherein dwells the Goddess of Love, which is represented by a maiden surrounded by numerous attendants, all bowed in an attitude of worship. Fairy cherubs hold torches and have in their arms freshly cut flowers, which Mr. Rauch is careful to place there every day. Adjoining this temple is a miniature forest, within which are stationed armed soldiers, to protect the fair goddess.

The Goddess of Liberty is represented under an arc of forty-five stars, in the middle top of which is a red star representing the District of Columbia. Leading up to the south side is a solid stone stairway, at the top of which, beautifully laid out, are castles, churches, colleges, etc. The stairway has a railing on both sides, while trailing English ivy is twisted about the railing. On both sides of the steps are lanterns, with the national colors—red, white and blue—fitted in them. On the west side are found the fountains and streams, which when lighted in the evening present a beautiful sight.

As one strolls through the park, historic occurrences as well as tales of ancient lore are forcibly brought to mind. Here and there are seen ruined palaces, the walls of which are crumbled and fallen, chariot wheels broken, and other pictures which recall the awful story of Pompeii. Nero and his court are prominently shown, and near by can be seen true likenesses of Napoleon and Wellington. Manila Bay is represented, and on its waters can be seen Dewey's squadron, the scene made gay and patriotic by a liberal display of American flags and bunting. Many characters prominent in history and men of letters are carved and modeled out of stone. Among the most prominent are Roosevelt in Rough Rider costume, Edward VII. in his coronation robes, Sir Walter Raleigh offering his cloak to naughty Queen Bess, and Dickens with an immense goose quill behind his ear.

Here and there can be seen a boy or two fishing, children gathering flowers, trains carrying excursionists from the heat of the city to the country or seaside resorts, all in miniature. It is truly a wonderful piece of work.

REMARKABLE SCHOOL RECORD.

Gaston's Gazette.

In Concord last week one of the graduates of the graded schools completed a school life of nine years with a record that is truly remarkable. When the certificates were awarded, it was announced that during her—of course it was a girl—entire school life of nine years she had never been absent or tardy. We doubt whether this record has a parallel in the State or anywhere else. Not only is the case remarkable as showing a most commendable continuity of interest in her school duties over a long period of time, but the wonder increases when we reflect that the period covered was nine years of childhood. How in the world this little girl dodged the measles, and whooping cough, and the grip, and sore eyes during all her school days, or managed to get them on the program, including ever so many visits to the dress-maker while her commencement dress was being fitted, all without conflicting with her attendance at school, is one of the things we may think upon with satisfaction without fully understanding. Back in the old readers there is a saying that where there's a will there's a way. Doubtless that had something to do with it. And then among religious people there is a belief, a real faith, that when we want to do well, the Lord takes a hand in helping us along. It looks that way. The young lady in this case is a daughter of Mr. Jno. B. Sherrill, editor of THE CONCORD TIMES, and a grand daughter of Judge W. J. Montgomery, who is retained in an important criminal case at Dallas court this week. May the record she has made in her preparatory school days prove but a forecast of a long life of goodness, usefulness, and devotion to duty.

Guiteau's Defender.

Charlotte Observer.

Who was the lawyer that defended Guiteau, the assassin of President Garfield? There are few perhaps who can answer the question off-hand. His name is George Scoville. At the time he was a wealthy lawyer of Chicago and was forced into the defense of Guiteau by his wife, who was Guiteau's sister. After the trial his practice fell off, he was deserted by his friends and his wife got a divorce. Then Scoville took to the woods and for twenty-two years has been known as the hermit of Bass Lake, Ind. It is now announced that Scoville has tired of life of a recluse and has come back to civilization, but not as a lawyer, for he insists in his declaration that the law is a farce. The man's life was really wrecked by his loyalty to his wife and his brother-in-law. Only his children remained true to him, and it was their influence that has prevailed upon him finally to give up his life in the woods. A book on Scoville's life would doubtless be an interesting contribution to the literature of the day.

Great Discovery.

The tourist found the little town in Arkansas in a great state of jubilation. "Fair day?" ventured the tourist. "Better than that, sub," replied the lanky native in the stick-candy shirt. "Circus in town?" "Wrong again, stranger." "Ah, I have it! The town has just had an election?" "No, siree!" "Then what on earth is the cause of all the excitement?" "Well, our local doctor has just discovered that great results are brought about by giving the mosquitoes quinine pills instead of the people. That's why we are celebrating."

Latitude in the Palpit.

There was an old darkey preacher down in Georgia who refused to become ordained, but was content to remain simply an exhorter. This dissent appeared strange to some of his congregation, and one day one of his flock asked him about it.

"Well, it am dis way," he replied, "when you's a real preacher you's got to have a tex' and stick right close to it, but if you is only a exhorter you kin branch."

Avoidance.

"Do you really think I begin to show my years, Ella?" "Do you want me to answer frankly?" "Why, yes, of course."

"Then let us change the subject."

A Fearful Fate.

It is a fearful fate to have to endure the terrible torture of Piles. "I can truthfully say," writes Harry Colson, of Masonville, Ia., "that for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Protruding Piles, Buckle's Arnica Salve, is the best cure made." Also best for cuts, burns and bruises. 50c at all druggists.

A woman always has a reason for being unreasonable.

A CYCLONE OR TWO.

"Yes," replied the man from Arkansas when asked if he had ever experienced any cyclones in his locality, "I've been through a cyclone or two, and I don't hanker after any more."

"Can you give us any particulars about them?" was asked.

"Why, yes, a few. When the last cyclone came along I was out in the field plowing with a four-meyl team. I started to run for cover, but I had not gone more'n four rods when the wind picked me up and the next thing I knew I was astride of the back of one of them mews and we both in a tree 50 feet above the ground. The handles had been twisted out of the plow and driven through the trunk of the tree and one of the other mews was hanging to them by his tail."

"That was a queer thing. And so you were left in a tree top?"

"I was."

"And—and—"

"That's all."

"But I want to ask you—"

"I don't care to say anything more."

"But look here," said the questioner, "you were blown into a tree top along with a mule, and—"

"Please don't press me, sir."

"But can't I ask you how you got down?"

"Oh, yes, you can ask that and welcome, and I'll answer you that some feller come along and chopped the tree down. I thought you was going to ask me if the wind blew my husband off and if I ever recovered it ag'in, and that's a question I hain't going to answer for anybody!"

Declares Russia Will Win.

Baltimore Sun.

"Russia will undoubtedly win the present war with Japan in spite of the reverses which she has thus far met with, because her resources are practically inexhaustible, while those of Japan are limited."

This was the statement yesterday of Mr. John T. Fay, who is appearing at the Auditorium this week and who has spent a number of years in Russia, in which he studied to a considerable extent that country's social, financial and political condition. Mr. Fay said that the ideas concerning Russia's body politic, her autocracy and serfdom, as understood by Americans, were erroneous and exaggerated.

"The conditions there are not half so bad as Americans are led to believe," said Mr. Fay. "There are three classes—the nobles, the merchants and the serfs—each living in a separate and distinct atmosphere and never coming in contact with each other. All are ready to do anything in their country's service. To think that Russia with her enormous wealth and her resources, will sue for peace, is to my mind, almost ridiculous. Russia will hold out and ultimately defeat the Japanese, if it takes her 10 years to do it. I make these predictions only after a careful study of Russia and Russian conditions as I find them. Her internal disturbances are not so serious as the outside world is ready to believe, and will in no wise interfere with her policy in the present war."

Influenced by a Sermon of Sam Jones to Expose Election Frauds.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 2.—Influenced by a sermon which he heard from the lips of Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, William S. Keller to-day decided to confess his part in election rottenness. The Knox county judgeship is now being contested in a local court on a charge of election bribery, etc. Keller had twice been on the stand and had twice refused to answer certain pointed questions. To-day he again appeared and voluntarily asked to testify. The privilege was granted him, and he then told how he, as officer of election, had stuffed the ballot box in the Eleventh Ward, had marked between 200 and 300 votes for straight Democratic ticket and had shoved them into the box. In his confession he also implicated several city officials for alleged parts that they played in trying to cover up evidence of the rottenness by adding names to the poll lists of the ward to make them conform to the votes polled.

The "Lazy" Microbe.

A learned Professor claims to have discovered that "Laziness" is caused by a germ. If the Eminent Doctor is right, Rydale's Liver Tablets can rightly be termed Microbe Killers, because they always remove that tired, lazy, sluggish feeling that has usually been attributed to a torpid liver or constipated bowels. Rydale's Liver Tablets are guaranteed to cure constipation and all liver disorders. They are small, compressed chocolate coated tablets, easy to take, pleasant in effect. Reliable. Any dealer in our remedies will return you money if you are not satisfied with these tablets, 50 tablets 25 cts. D. D. Johnson.

RIGHT TIME TO CURE CATARRH

Gibson Drug Store Guarantee Hyomei—Will Cure if Used Now.

The early summer when the weather becomes warm and settled, is the best time of the whole year to treat catarrhal troubles with the expectation of complete and lasting relief.

Everyone who has catarrh, or even a tendency to catarrh, should use Hyomei now, for the benefit will be gained twice as quickly and the disease thoroughly eradicated from the system.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but one dollar, and includes a neat pocket inhaler, a medicine dropper, and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if more Hyomei is needed, extra bottles can be obtained for 50 cents.

In Concord there are scores of well known people who have been cured of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not cure you, Gibson's Drug Store will return your money. This is the strongest evidence it can offer as to its faith in the remedy.

In Mad Chase.

Millions rush in mad chase after health, from one extreme of faddism to another, when if they would only eat good food, and keep their bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills, their troubles would all pass away. Prompt relief and quick cure for liver and stomach trouble. 25c at all druggists; guaranteed.

The National Association of Mexican War Veterans held their 32nd annual reunion at Dallas, Tex., the 23rd and 24th of May, 1905.

The closing exercise of Genesboro Female College will begin Sunday, June 11.
