Why a NATIONAL BANK is Best

1. A National Bank is under the supervision of the United States Government.
2. Laws governing National Banks are very strict.
3. They are required to submit to the government a sworn detailed statement FIVE TIMES a year.
4. The stockholders are held responsible for DOUBLE the amount of their stock. This is for the benefit of the depositors.
5. The capital stock is required to be paid in cash, and must be held intact for the benefit of the depositors.
6. The Bank is required each year to add to its surplus account before declaring dividends. This is for the further security of the depositors.
7. A National Bank cannot loan more than 10 per cent. of its capital to one man or firm.

If We Can't Make That Watch of Yours Go,

You may just as well give it to the baby to play with. Its days of service are surely ended—and it is a question with you now of buying a new one.

You ought to come here for a new watch for the same reason that prompts you to bring us your repair work—because we are in a position to give you the highest grade of satisfaction.

As we said, we can get all the service out of a watch that there is in it, down to the last tick, if you will let us look at it occasionally.

And as for new Watches—well just take a few minutes some day to look over what we have. That's all we ask.

SAM JONES WRITES ABOUT HIS TRAVELS.
Atlanta Journal.

In the past ten days I have made a tour through Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Arkansas. My work has called me mostly into the northwest this winter with the exception of the week I spent in Florida, and it is very difficult for me to determine which is the most prosperous, the great northwest or the great southeast. The lumber and iron, coal and cotton of the south, in the past ten years, have emptied their millions into our banks and pockets, to say nothing of our fruits and vegetables. The south is growing rich and richer, faster perhaps than any section of the country, and the tide is beginning to set this way, for immigration into our midst, not only from Yankee Doodle, but from all sections and countries.

The south is suffering more from scarcity of labor than from anything else. In many sections of our southern states the negro has quit the farm and gone to the saw mill, the ore bank or to the truck garden, and both in the agricultural and mechanical departments labor is very scarce and withal very high. And I rejoice at the increased wages the laboring people are getting. I notice in my own town many nice little cottages have been built by our laboring people in the past few years, and the best thing that can be done for labor is to give them wages sufficient not only to live, but to build them homes. The best contented and most effective labor is labor which is domiciled in the home life.

So far as my observation and information goes, I doubt if there will be more negroes in cotton this year than last. In some sections there more; in some there is much less. Evidently the farmers can calculate on ten cents for his cotton as long as present conditions remain. The farmer can make no more money now on ten-cent cotton than he could on eight-cent cotton two or three years ago. Mules are as high as cats' backs, labor scarce and every commodity getting higher, and cotton ought to bring ten cents to the farmer, and they won't make money if it don't.

East Texas and Western Louisiana are the lumber regions of the great southwest. I marvel that there is a tree standing in the forests and yet I learn that it will take these mills, and there are hundreds of them, forty years to cut all the lumber out of that country. And such prices as they are getting for their lumber were never known before. The railroads are way behind with the saw mills now. They just can't haul the lumber out as fast as these immense mills cut it up.

I find politics pretty hot in most of the southern states. Texas has three or four candidates for governor. Arkansas has had a heated campaign in which Jeff Davis beat Senator Berry nearly ten thousand votes in the primary.

Tennessee is having it hot and heavy. Cox and Patterson, with Judge Bond following in the rear, and they are fighting over every inch of ground. Senator Carmack and Bob Taylor are the candidates before the primary for the nomination to the United States senate. I believe Carmack is gaining ground every day. I hope he will be re-elected to the senate. He is the peer of any man in the United States senate in manhood, in brains and courage. He is thoroughly equipped for that position.

Governor Bob Taylor is a magnificent lecturer. Tennessee could not do a better thing than to put Carmack back in the senate and let Bob Taylor continue to lecture. There is more money in it to Bob, and it's a more genial work for him. Governor Taylor is an imitable lecturer, full of sentiment, and he is Nature's Way is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building plan of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce's is following after Nature's plan of restoring health.

He uses natural remedies that is extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the experience of much time, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

Used as ingredients of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Blaud's Cherry-Bark, Queen's Root, Golden Seal Root, Bloodroot and Stone Root, specially exert their influence in cases of lung, bronchial and throat troubles, and this "Discovery" is, therefore, a sovereign remedy for bronchitis, laryngitis, chronic coughs, catarrh and kindred ailments.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers of all the several schools of practice, for the cure not only of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpid liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's, says so alone as this; what he claims for his "Discovery" is backed up by the writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession. A request by postal card or letter addressed to Dr. J. C. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicines, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent free to anyone sending a note, in one-cent stamps, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 31 stamps.

greeted everywhere with crowds and cheers. It would be a pity to take him from the lecture platform when there is such demand for talent like his, and it would be more than a pity to take Senator Carmack out of the senate. I hope Tennessee will let the thing stay as it is.

Our Georgia politics are no better than in our other southern states. The fact of the business is, a fellow can't run much now without a "rousement," and the best way to get up a "rousement" is to make a "spread eagle" speech on the phrases and shortcomings of your opponents. But, really, people don't believe much they hear in political contests, and nobody is specially damaged at what the candidates say about each other. I want some fellow to top up round about himself and bragging on his opponents. I want to see how he would run. I believe I would vote for that sort of a fellow myself on general principles.

I am glad to notice that Judge John W. Akin will have no opposition to the state senate from this district. With his returning health, he will come back into public life, and be a most efficient man in all respects.

I am through with my lecture for a while and begin meetings next Sunday at Evansville, Indiana, and will, Providence permitting, remain there two weeks. I go from there to Winona, Miss. If I had the physical strength to work in these large meetings, it would be a source of great pleasure to me to devote my whole time to that work.

I trust that the coming of Torrey and Alexander to Atlanta in May may be a great benediction to Atlanta, and I am glad the Christian people are looking forward to that movement with prayers and interest. I wish I could attend these meetings some myself.

I notice that my chautauqua work begins about the 20th of June and I shall have about two months and a half solid chautauqua platform work.

Yours truly,
SAM P. JONES.

Paraphrases from the Wilmington Star.
The reference of the Rockingham Headlight to "The Star and its venerable editor" is in exceedingly bad taste. We still hold our membership in the "Boys' Brigade," thank you.

It is said that Maxim Gorke is not his right name, but only a nom-de-plume under which he writes. In this country his name appears to be Dennis.

"Will we have many peaches this season?" an exchange queries. Will we? We've already got 'em, and they are beginning to wear their white dresses.

An exchange refers to the people of San Francisco as "brave in the face of calamity." There is abundant proof of it in the statement that many marriages have taken place since the earthquake.

It is announced that President Castro, of Venezuela, is soon to visit this country to study the American ways of doing things. In order to insure himself a real pleasant trip he should bring the real Mrs. Castro with him.

How An Editor Was Cheated.
The editor of an Arkansas paper recently apologized to his readers for lack of news somewhere in this fashion: "We expected to have both a death and a marriage to announce this week, but a violent storm prevented the wedding and the Doctor himself having been taken ill, his patient recovered, and we were accordingly cheated out of both."

Joseph Jefferson was a strong believer in early marriages, and he never missed an opportunity to impress his convictions upon young men. In an address at Yale he said: "I abominate bachelors. The older they grow, the more convinced they become. I was talking to one and I asked him why he did not marry. He parried the question by telling about different young women he had known, finding some fault with each one. But it appeared that all of them were married.

"You are in danger of getting left," I said to him. "You had better hurry up before it is too late."

"Oh, said the bachelor, 'there are just as good fish left in the sea.'"

"I know that," I said, "but the bait isn't there, danger of the bait becoming stale!"

THE CHURCH AND THE PENITENTIARY.
Baltimore Sun.

There are in Baltimore just about as many men as there are women. In the churches at the Sunday morning services there are seven times as many women as there are men. In Maryland Penitentiary there are seven times as many men as there are women—651 of the former and 90 of the latter. This provides an interesting field of speculation for those who have nothing better to do than to speculate. Do men go to the penitentiary because they do not go to church, and do women escape the penitentiary because they go to church? Are women good because they go to church, and men bad because they do not go to church or do they absent themselves from church because they are bad?

And, again, why are women better than men? Is it because they are too timid to take the risk of law-breaking or because the Creator has endowed them with superior virtue? A great proportion of the population of the penal institutions are thieves. Is there any just cause why men should be less honest than women? The latter are not as a rule less avaricious. On the contrary, it is believed that in that particular vice women are worse than men. But they do not seem to let their avarice break out into overt acts. It is usually men who snatch and purloin the penitentiary for deeds of violence are usually men, because all male animals—the male dumb animals as well as the human animals—are instinctively the fighters. When a woman is mastered by her angry passions she usually catches and punishes if the children had to be reared by women who are no better than the men! If the mother were as indifferent about going to church as is the father, if she should have the swearing habit and drink whisky, what sort of children would she rear?

Favor is deceitful, and beauty is vain, but a woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised.

Molasses Fed to Horses.
In Brooklyn, N. Y., a sugar refinery, feeding molasses to it teams, she usually saves 4 quarts corn meal, quart wheat bran and 3 pints sugar house sirup and 7 pounds cut hay; at noon 5 quarts oats. The night ration is the same as the morning, except 5 pounds of loose hay is fed in addition to the cut hay, which is mixed with the grain.

These horses weigh from 1,700 to 1,900 pounds, and are fed at a cost of 34 cents per day. They are fine, sleek looking animals, and attract attention of horsemen generally on account of their extremely well-fed appearance. According to experts the economy due to the molasses feed results in a saving of from 20 to 27 per cent. over the old system of maintaining on oats and hay entirely.

A plantation working 177 mules fed with a molasses portion resulted in a yearly saving of $5,000. While another plantation cut down the daily ration from 35 to 40 cents, to 19 cents.

The hygienic value of the molasses feed formula is proved by an experiment which was made on two run-down horses. According to experts ordinary rations. Their weights were 800 and 750 pounds when they were put on the molasses system, and both soon showed improvement.

Didn't Fease Him.
Philadelphia Record.

A newspaper man who recently returned from a Southern trip tells this story: "It happened to spend a Sunday in a little town down south and in the morning went to a colored church to listen to the sermon of a colored preacher who was a character in the community. He had for his text the escape of the Israelites from Egypt, and when I came in he spoke something like this: 'And the Lord froze the Red Sea into a solid cake of ice and de Israelites crossed safely over to de 'oder side. Then the Gyphtians followed them over the ice, but when they got into the middle de Lard sent down a heavy thaw, melted de ice and perpetrated the Gyphtians into the water and they were all drowned.' The congregation was still for about two minutes. Then a tall, thin colored man arose and said: 'Mister preacher, I begs to disagree with that last statement of yours. According to de geography de Red Sea is in de tropics, close to de equator, and de water there never freezes.' The minister listened attentively, then in a loud, angry voice replied: 'I thought there would be one of those smart niggers in this congregation to contradict me.' But he is not so smart as he thinks he is. In the days when the Israelites ran away from Egypt, long long ago, there was no such thing as jography or an equator neither."

COTTON FACTORIES.
St. Louis Republic.

Southern farmers who are seeding for their cotton crop will be pleased to know that both Northern and Southern mills are taking more cotton this year than last, while the English mills in the Manchester district are busier than they have been for several years.

Consul General Brady reports that Manchester mills which in August, 1904, were running only forty hours a week were in full operation by the beginning of 1905 and have been steadily busy ever since.

And Manchester is building new mills. Fourteen new ones with 1,223,350 spindles have been put in operation during the past eight months, says Consul Brady, while thirty-four new mills, with 2,818,000 spindles, for American cotton, are building.

For certain goods the English mills use not a little Egyptian cotton, but they are not likely ever to become independent of American for their main supply. The British Cotton Growing Association claims to have demonstrated that every variety of cotton can be grown under the British flag, but with all its effort to develop the culture in Africa and elsewhere the association does not expect a crop of more than 23,000 bales this year.

The world's demand for cotton grows steadily, year by year. The Japanese promise to become great manufacturers of cotton and the three or four hundred millions of Chinese are increasing their use of cotton goods.

The South cannot grow too much cotton, though it may, in certain years, make a larger crop than existing mills will take at prices which give the farmer a good profit. Probably the best rule for the Southern farmer is to grow all the cotton he can after providing for other crops and for live stock enough to make the farm self-supporting.

AN OFFICIOUS POSTMASTER.
Statesville Landmark.

The Landmark is informed that a postmaster at a small office in Davie county is now, and has been, very officious in opposition to the establishment of rural routes in his neighborhood. The reason for the opposition is doubtless a fear that his office will be abolished. This postmaster has been telling people that the establishment of these routes will increase taxes and that they will have to pay direct taxes for their maintenance. It is not necessary to explain to intelligent people that the citizen pays no direct taxes to the national government. All taxes for the national government are indirect and the average citizen would not know the difference in national taxation if there was not a rural route in existence.

The Landmark has mentioned this to say that the Postoffice Department ought to look after the Davie county postmaster. A postmaster has no business to try to prevent the establishment of rural routes. That is a matter for the Postoffice Department and the people who may want the routes.
