Why a NATIONAL BANK is Best

- 1. A National Bank is under the supervision of the United States Government.
- 2 Laws governing National Banks are very strict.
- They are required to submit to the government a sworn detailed statement FIVE TIMES a year.
- The stockholders are held responsible for DOUBLE the amount of their stock. This is for the benefit of the depositors.
- 5. The capital stock is required to be paid in cash, and must be held intact for the benefit of the depositors.
- 6. The Bank is required each year to add to its surplus account before declaring dividends. This is for the further security of the depositors.
- 7. A National Bank cannot loan more than 10 per cent. of its capital to one man or firm.

Senator Beveridge, a very bright member of the Senate of the United Manufacturers' Record. Albany News.

Just at this time all the world is clamoring for a law to remedy every evil. We are not much of an alarmist, but as we see it, this nation is drifting towards paternalism. We teach our boys around the fireside to make money, get it honestly if they can—but get money. Get money is engrafted into the curriculum of our schools, and we send our boys there that their wits may be sharpened and their hands trained for the school of financial graft. And thus we send forth into the marts of trade cultured financial sharks to rob and shedding copious tears over the condition of the children who are employed in Southern cotton mills. The amazing magnitude of this gain of $7,300,000 a day is strikingly shown by the statement of the London Express, which, bemoaning the inability of Great Britain to keep pace with America's growth, put the increase in Great Britain's wealth at $7,000,000 a week.

But that's not the remedy, because the American homes are turning them out faster than we can turn them down. It's like greasing a horse's tail for the lampers, we are doctoring too far away from the sore. It's not law that we need in this country, but it's willow switches and cowhide whips, rock piles, chopping wood, hoeing in the garden, pulling weeds in the lambar seriously anywhere. The opportunity to get off a little oratory in behalf of the silent sufferers was too much for Beveridge to stand, and so he arose in his place and curled off his polished phrases and bored for water even in the hard and barren field known as the Senate of the garden, pulling weeds in the lambar seriously anywhere. BLACKBURN'S MISFORTUNE. Fairbrother's Everything

The papers have contained here of late several dispatches recounting the personal misfortunes of Congressman Blackburn. That he is in hard lines financially is a matter of regret to us. A man who meets reverses is always to be pitied, even if he was the architect of his own misfortunes. Unmerciful disaster seemed to follow fast and follow faster in his case, and we regret that the enterprising correspondent in Washington wanted to set him up only to knock him down with the announcement that he was financially crippled. The story is published that Blackburn may go to Arizona. If he does, if he goes there and mixes with the boys, even as he formerly mixed with them in Wilkes, it will not be long until you hear of his going back to Congress. The Golden Gate, which left fortyfour years ago for Panama with more than $3,000,000 in gold, took fire when off the Mexican coast, burned to the water's edge and sank. The men of the Arago expedition built a pier out to the wreck, rigged powerful pumps, and on January 1 were all ready to pump out sand and gald when a storm swept the beach and carried away their pier and most of the wreckage gear. Johnson has not abandoned hope and will arrange for another expedition.
