POLITICS IN TENNESSEE.

Mrs. W. H. Filson in Atlanta Journal. The history of Duncan Cooper throws light on the politics of Tennessee for the last twenty years, and the people who throng the court house in Nashville to listen to the testimony, which is certainly convicting, the men who assassinated ex-Senator Carmack are brought face to face with the deeds of certain men who have used their political offices to rule or ruin everything in front of them. The criminal court of Nashville may save the necks of the assassins, but their escape will undoubtedly be credited to the influence of certain men in high office who are tarred with the same stick.

Tennessee is a great State, but it has been afflicted with glaring imposture, in the persons and acts of a number of its prominent officials. Many of our readers will recall a Justice Snodgrass, who sat on the bench to shoot at his enemies. The defaulting State Treasurer who robbed the treasury of Tennessee of large sums of money, in conjunction with this Duncan Cooper, now on trial before the criminal court, will not be overlooked in the story of Tennessee's affliction and humiliation.

But fiction is outdone—outclassed—in the story of Cooper's connection with Tennessee politics, which has culminated in the assassination of ex-Senator Carmack, as the possible way to curb Carmack's pen (and take his life), in the opinion of this hoary and disreputable politician, who is desperate and deadly in hate. So violent and so tyrannical have been his methods that he has finally shoved his only son into the dark shadow of the gallows to carry out his foul plans.

I am sorry for the son because he has been brought up under the influence of a father who had no respect for the presence of a nice young lady and poured out such filthy abuse of Carmack before he started out to kill him that she could not repeat the obscenity when called as a witness against him. He is a self-confessed gambler, and a notorious embezzler, when occupying a seat as chancery judge to whom had been committed money belonging to widows and orphans, as shown by court records.

When Tennessee was robbed by Treasurer Polk of many thousands this same Cooper was exploiting a silver mine down in Mexico with money furnished by Polk as his active partner. We have read of morphine fiends, who searched continuous to their own bodies with hypodermic injections until the entire epidemic was tattooed and disfigured, but here is a man who has had the run of the governor's office in Tennessee for the past year who scarred with evil deeds, evil thoughts and murderous intents, and yet has gone unscathed and defiant until healed before the criminal court for conspiring to murder ex-Senator Carmack.

Backed by official influence, he conferred with Tennessee's chief executive before he went forth to kill, and he was in no wise deterred by the presence of Mrs. Eastman, when he caught up with his intended victim, and saw his own son do the murderous deed, conspiring with his own parent, as armed, to kill a man a sight for men and angels to look upon! To show the extent of this wretched man's infatuation and degradation and dishonesty he made public boast on his oath that he donated over a thousand dollars to a poor Confederate soldier a short time ago and yet was forced by his own counsel to go back and again testify on oath that the donation was less than fifty dollars. This cloak of Confederate sympathy, so often abused and misused, was attempted to be applied by this man, (catching at straws) to influence the jury to save his neck.

It goes without saying that Tennessee, under her present trouble, will either repudiate the entire gang of conspirators or receive the public scorn and contumely that her impetuosity and impotency will merit.

Values His Honesty at $100.

Mrs. J. R. Dunn, a Harlem resident, on her way to the Lincoln Trust Company Monday to make a deposit, lost a bank book containing $110. She advertised her loss, offering indefinitely "a reward."

Tuesday $10 of the money and the book was returned to the trust company with a note saying: "I suppose this money was lost by a wealthy person, and I am keeping $100 as a reward for my honesty."

If you'd be dubbed a handsome girl, And win a handsome Knight, The secret here I do impart, Take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea at night. Gibson Drug Store.

ANOTHER MILE POST.

N. C. Christian Advocate, 4th. To-day marks the passing of another mile post in our National history. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, having completed his term as President of the United States, steps aside, and Mr. William H. Taft, of Ohio, assumes the obligations of Chief Executive of the most powerful nation on the face of the earth. The brief history of the United States, as an independent nation, makes a thrilling story, and one cannot give it thoughtful study without becoming convinced that a wonderful providence is manifest in it all. From the year 1776, when our independence was formally declared, till 1789, when George Washington was inaugurated as the first President, there were many stormy scenes, but these were the birth throes of a great nation. From Washington to Taft there have been many upheavals, social and otherwise, but out of them all we have come stronger and better prepared to work out a great destiny as a nation.

With all our enlargement as a nation, however, there has come greater responsibilities and every day of progress makes our relation to all other nations more and more delicate. Social and political problems become more and more complicated, and there is nothing that can give us hope for the future but a continued reliance upon the providential guidance that has brought us into so large a place as a nation. As we could not have come into this inheritance without the guidance and goodness of Almighty God, neither can we expect to maintain our place of influence and power without the continuance of His leadership.

It is not so much our form of government as the predominant forces of righteousness that has brought us to a place as a nation. The circuit rider and other ministers of the gospel have done more to exalt our nation than the statesman or politician. Without the moral influence of these men it would have been impossible to have shaped the policy of the state so as to have made this country the refuge of the oppressed, and the abiding place of prosperity. Let the devout everywhere to-day pray that the mantle of wisdom and discretion may fall upon Mr. Taft and that the God of nations may guide him to an administration of peace and happiness.

Try the Money-Back Cure For Indigestion.

Nine times in ten stomach derangements are responsible for sallow complexion, dull eyes and thin body. It is the stomach that supplies nourishing blood to the muscles, the nerves, and skin. If the stomach is healthy, plenty of nutritious matter will be absorbed by the blood. If it is not healthy, the food will ferment, and undigested, will pass along through the bowels, furnishing so little nutritious matter that the blood becomes impoverished, and the glow of health vanishes.

If you suffer from nervousness, sick headache, belching of gas, sour taste in the mouth, heaviness after eating, or any other miserable stomach disturbance, you need Mi-o-na, and the sooner you get it the quicker you will be healthier and happier.

It will relieve any distressed stomach condition almost immediately. It will cure if used according to directions. Gibson Drug Store sells it for 50 cents a large box, and they think enough of it to guarantee it to cure indigestion.

It is to be hoped that the next fool who perpetrates the fake marriage joke will not announce, as the latest one did, that the bride had just met the groom. Love at first sight and marriage at first are two different matters. It is not complimentary to the alleged bride (leaving the alleged groom out of account) to say that she would marry a man upon her first acquaintance. Charlotte Observer.

Lame Shoulder.

Whether resulting from a sprain or from rheumatic pains, there is nothing so good for a lame shoulder as Chamberlain's Liniment. Apply it freely and rub the parts vigorously at each application and a quick cure is certain. For sale by All Druggists.

"To Hodgenville: Greetings," says the Louisville Courier-Journal. Yes; so say we. Where have you been so long, Hodgenville, anyway?

Some conception of the expense of war may be gathered when it is known that it costs as much money to fire a 12-inch gun as an editor makes in two years.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The Superintendent of the Street Railways at Nashville, Tenn., has written stating that "since the organization of the Y. M. C. A. for street railway men, accidents have decreased 37 per cent., the employees are in a better frame of mind to take up the daily work, the Association has given to them a better conception of what life means to mankind, and the moral character of the conductors and motormen has advanced."

When the Y. M. C. A. at Pine Bluff, Ark., set out to secure $10,000 to pay off a debt on its building, the Cotton Belt Railroad Company gave $2,000. The Jewish Rabbi and the leading Protestant pastor worked side by side in the Citizens' Committee soliciting funds. It was a "still hunt campaign," as not a word appeared in the newspapers about it until the work was completed and more than $12,000 in pledges taken. More than $28,200 was expended for improvements on the building last year.

On the occasion of laying the cornerstone of the Y. M. C. A. building, W. J. Bryson, a building contractor, said: "I might say that, merely as a business investment, it would pay men not Christians to subscribe for the Young Men's Christian Association for in proportion as you can improve the moral standard of your people you make your property more safe, and you reduce the expense of your courts in enforcing the criminal law. I believe the institution could be justified on the low basis of dollars and cents without any regard to the spiritual significance of it. It is cheaper to save men from crime than to punish criminals after they have become such, and the cost of this institution is saving your young men from crime and your community from the expense of prosecution of criminals—this saving would justify the expenditure for the building and the cost of running it."

Churches Too Proliferous.

"American religion" was the subject of a forceful sermon delivered last Sunday night at the First Baptist church in Washington by its new pastor, Rev. J. B. Clayton. "Church attendance in America is falling off. There are too many churches," declared Mr. Clayton. "Only for the soundest reasons should more than one church be established in a community which has a small population and is financially weak. The world needs the vitalizing influence of churches whose membership includes men strong in the community; men who look upon religion, not as a sentimental theory of life, but as a great force in the regeneration of society, and in the reform of social and legislative abuses."

Mr. Clayton pointed out that the ideal of Christ was a universal religion, and that he attached far less importance to church worship than to an everyday religious quality.

Drunkards May Not Wed.

Springfield, Ill., Dispatch. Young men who frequent saloons will not be permitted to enter the matrimonial relations in Illinois if a bill introduced into the House be enacted into law, and it probably will pass.

The bill was introduced by Representative Groves and amends the marriage laws of the State by declaring an habitual drunkard incapable of contracting marriage and defining an "habitual drunkard" to be a person who becomes intoxicated twice a year. The bill provides also that applicants for marriage licenses shall make affidavit that they have not been intoxicated twice in the preceding year.

Near Death In Big Pond.

It was a thrilling experience to Mrs. Ida Soper to face death. "For years a severe lung trouble gave me intense suffering," she writes, "and several times nearly caused my death. Mrs. Soper lives in Big Pond, Pa. It works wonders in coughs and colds, sore lungs, hemorrhages, la grippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00. ### MONEY TALKS.

Charity and Children. That it does. And it talks to Southern people as loud as to our brethren in the North. When we were poor we spent our time abusing the tariff. Now we abuse it only in spots. Louisiana wants her sugar protected, and the lumber interests are clamoring for their share. We formerly berated the trusts—literally flayed them alive. Now we speak softly about them and then turn pale when they threaten to leave us. Of course we still pour out vials of wrath against the Standard Company and old John D. Rockefeller, for he lives in New York and his company have small holdings in North Carolina, but we have changed our attitude towards the American Tobacco Co., and all because the Dukes are spending money freely in Durham town and at other places. The Dukes are also about to swipe every ounce of water power in the State which means that they will ultimately get the factories too, and the statesmen who were trained to abuse trusts say in a whisper "be careful or you will injure the business interests."

We listened to a speech in the Senate, last week, of remarkable pungency and power. It was by Senator Lockart of Anson county on this very question. He warned the Legislature against the evil day and pointed out that the craven cowardice of the night riders to bring the American Tobacco Company to its knees; and he urged the Senate to remember what had been promised the people on every stump in North Carolina; but the "business interests" now dominate the situation, since the election is over, and the very men so violent three or four months ago, are gentle as cooling doves to-day. Money has spoken. Have you ever noticed how completely a man's attitude changes when he rises in the scale of prosperity? We happen to think of a man who at one time would have all but laid down his life for the "dear people," but who having struck luck and made $10,000 on a truck farm, has grown wonderfully conservative, and thinks first of the moneyed classes and afterward of the common folks whom he formerly adored. Money is talking to our Southern people as it never talked before. We are all alike and the best of us listen to its soothing song.

"Tired is Foolishness," Says Chicago Doctor. "Being tired is foolish." This is the latest enunciation of Dr. Sheldon Leavitt, in charge of the Immanuel Baptist Psychotherapy class at Chicago. "When I am tired I tell myself that I am rested," the instructor says, "and then I am. This universal energy reservoir we live in is always full. We have a feed pipe where we pay it out, but there's a bigger supply pipe where it will enter faster if we only think it along. "You will find some patients who don't seem to be able to walk alone. The only way to do with them is to get them up on the edge of the nest and the push 'em over, just as the old bird does. Force them to try it alone."

Simple Remedy for La Grippe. La grippe coughs are dangerous as they frequently develop into pneumonia. Foley's Honey and Tar not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs so that no serious results need be feared. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no harmful drugs and is in a yellow package. Refuse substitutes. Gibson Drug Store.

Attention is being called to the fact that the farm uplift commission worked without compensation. But think of the fresh eggs they got while visiting the farms of the nation.

No married man should advocate a tax on bachelors. That would be confessing an envious spirit that is no compliment to his wife.

Don't wait until your blood is impoverished and you are sick and ailing, but take Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea now. It will positively drive out all winter impurities. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. Gibson Drug Store.

Are we going to have the battle of Santiago fought over again by the friends of the would-be-vice-admirals?

A spring tonic that makes rich, red blood. Brings strength, health and happiness to the whole family. Nothing equals Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea as a spring regulator. 35 cents. Gibson Drug Store.

WAR ON HOUSE-FLIES BEGUN.

Little Insects Familiar to All Are Active Agents in the Spread of Disease.

Preparation for a war of extermination on the common house fly or "typhoid fly," as it is called by Dr. L. O. Howard, United States Entomologist, are being made in Florida. Edward Hates, Jr., of New York, came on recently to confer with Dr. Joseph W. Porter, State Commissioner of Health, in regard to the inauguration of the fly war, and Dr. Porter has issued rules with instructions for dealing with the fly nuisance.

Posters depicting in vivid illustrations the habits of the house fly and its proclivities for gathering and disseminating disease germs are being scattered broadcast throughout the State. The unusually warm weather this spring has started the fly on its rampage earlier than usual. Atlanta will take up the warfare, and Clark Howell, of the Atlanta Constitution, says: "Atlanta will be made the cleanest and healthiest city in the South." Savannah has also entered the fight and will begin by renaming the district known as "Said-by Park."

A campaign against the fly has also been instituted in Louisiana under the leadership of Mrs. Bernard Titcher, of New Orleans. As a part of the general campaign against flies Dr. W. C. Woodward, Health Officer of Washington, will cause the prosecution of stable keepers who fail to register as his office. The object of the registration is to insure the supervision of the stables by sanitary inspectors.

At Asheville, N. C., rules have been formulated and put into operation. In fact all the Southern States are up in arms against the pest. The line of battle will advance northward as the temperature rises. The mode of warfare will be to destroy their breeding places.

The war on house flies was begun in New York last spring when a special committee of the Merchants Association, headed by Edward H. Hatch, Jr., in a report to Dr. Daniel D. Jackson, of the Brooklyn Water Department, condemned the fly as a menace to the public health. The American Civic Association and the National Municipal League are pledged to aid in the anti-fly crusade.

It would not be a bad thing to have Concord included in this effort to get rid of these dangerous pests. Let us get some of the "Posters" and put one in every family, so that people may understand what the house fly is bringing into the house, what he is depositing on the bread, in the meat, and in the milk, when he lights on them at meal time, and at other times. Let us investigate the stables, which are the breeding places of this innocent looking insect, but which bring sickness and death to so many of his victims.—EDITOR TIMES.]
