AUTOS KEEP FARMERS AWAKE.

So Indiana Rural Roads Are Beset With Traps.

Indianapolis Dispatch.

Automobile riding in Indiana is becoming increasingly dangerous, pleasure riding is on the decrease, and dealers are beginning to complain of the effect on the trade.

When autos were new on the country roads and farmers, horses were easily frightened by them it was supposed that the prejudice of the farmers against the machines would disappear when their horses became accustomed to the sight. But the reverse of this appears to be true, and drivers of machines are having more trouble in the rural districts than previously.

Many automobile parties once drove out to towns and cities forty or fifty miles away, got dinner and returned by moonlight, but such excursions have been almost entirely abandoned through fear of accidents caused by bridges purposely weakened, deep ruts in the roads made to give the drivers trouble and other means of annoyance, which the farmers have invented to prevent the use of the roads both by night and by day. In many cases machines have been wrecked, and hundreds of minor accidents have occurred through what the autolists call the unreasonable prejudice of the farming communities.

In one case for more than a mile on one of the highways pieces of barbed wire two or three feet long were laid at a distance of a few feet apart and for more than a week autos going over the road were stopped by punctured tires. One auto picked up four pieces of wire in a few hundred yards and each made a puncture in a different wheel.

The most dangerous devices, which the auto owners have had to contend with are large poles laid across the roads, usually at a sharp turn, and planks removed from small bridges or culverts, which bring the machines to a sudden halt with a jar out on the road. Men have driven over a road in the afternoon and returning after nightfall have run into deep ruts that were not in the road when they passed over it a few hours before.

They think that the person who thus tried to wreck their machines saw them pass, and soon after nightfall purposely made the ruts to wreck their machines. In many cases farmers living near the scene of mishaps have refused to lend assistance to people in disabled autos, even declining to let out their horses to pull the machines, though asked to name their own price.

The farmers say that there are two sides to the question. They complain that many of the automobile parties visit road houses and are in a hilarious mood when they return, making the night hideous with their mirth and the honk honk of their machines.

They say that they work hard during the day, getting up 4 a. m., and retiring at 8 p. m., and that they have earned a night of quiet and rest. Instead of getting this they are kept awake, if they live near a public road, by the ceaseless passing of machines whose occupants seem to have no consideration for anything except their own pleasure.

A lady seeing a small boy robbing a bird's nest of its eggs called him a wicked boy and asked him what he thought the poor mother bird would do when it found its nest despoiled. He answered that the "poor mother bird" would never return because the lady had it decorating her hat.

In Kansas the inquiry goes around as to the fate of the dog that used to trot to town under the farmer's wagon. The farmer now goes to town in a motor car, and his dog no doubt died of a broken heart.

HEED THE WARNING.

Many Concord People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are sick they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Sick kidneys expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brick-dust" sediment and painful in passage. Sluggish kidneys cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequently rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only; they cure sick kidneys, and rid the blood of uric poison. If you suffer from any of the above symptoms you can use no better remedy.

Concord people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. L. M. Moser, 240 N. Spring St., Concord, N. C., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with such beneficial results that I am glad to recommend them. I had had symptoms of kidney trouble for a long time and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at Gibson's drug store. They soon relieved me and thus encouraged, I continued their use until cured. I would advise anyone similarly afflicted to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PROHIBITION IN GREENSBORO.

Frankly admitting that it opposed state-wide prohibition, the esteemed Greensboro Record has this to say of the effects of the new law in Greensboro, which should be read closely. The improvement pictured in Greensboro has been equally marked in all other parts of the state:

"A fight is on at Florence, S. C., between the dispensary located there and prohibition and as usual it is hot, with all kinds of reports as to the working of prohibition in this state. The local paper at Florence, the Times, prints an interview with Mr. James M. Allen, Jr., presumably of Goldsboro, this state, though his place of residence is not given, in which he tells the Times of the utter failure of prohibition in this state, especially in Goldsboro, though he adds that practically the same conditions exist in most of the other towns of this state."

"In substance Mr. Allen says that labor is demoralized because the colored man can make more money running a blind tiger than by honest work; that business is demoralized; that more money is being sent away after liquor than was spent for liquor under saloons; that drunkenness is rampant, with blind tigers running along smoothly and practically undisturbed."

"The Record is not in a position to speak by the book as to Goldsboro, although our information is quite to the contrary; but as Mr. Allen takes in the state as well as Goldsboro we may be permitted to say that so far as Greensboro is concerned he is wide of the mark. The Record did not support prohibition; it opposed the measure because we did not believe that prohibition would reduce drunkenness, but seeing it believing, and we repeat what we have often said, that such has been its success that we do not believe enough signatures could be had to petition to call an election were it possible to hold one for a few months following prohibition was shipped here; people ordered it and drank it, but they got tired of it and for the past two years there has been very little of this business. Of course there are blind tigers; we had them here when the saloons were in full blast, but there are also victims and road sentences so that it has been very little of it. No one but a wild-eyed fanatic would claim that prohibition would completely stop the drinking of liquor, but in Greensboro it has accomplished an immense amount of good and it is a rare thing to see a man even with the influence of liquor, much less drunk and down."

"Mr. Allen's assertion that so great is the disgust that the next legislature may repeal the State prohibition law is enough to make a wooden Indian laugh; it is too absurd on its face to discuss."

Cows Tail Came Off.

Alken, S. C., Journal.

A day or two ago a cow belonging to Martha Brown came home without a tail. A good deal of interest was created in the matter, as it appeared to be a case of inhuman cruelty to animals. The police were notified and two days elapsed before they could find out the straight of it. It appears that the cow was in Mr. Henderson's pasture. Elue Chavis, a small negro boy, a cow minder, was in the pasture, and he caught hold of the cow's caudal appendage in a playing manner, it is said, and it pulled off. The cow had undergone an operation upon the appendage for "hollow tail," the tail is cut into, and a portion of the bone taken out; the place had developed, it seems, into a kind of old sore, and not much of a pull was necessary to sever the caudal member. It is not believed that any case will be made against the boy.

Daniels Assails Bryan.

The following is an extract from a speech made in the U. S. Senate by Senator Daniel, June 21st:

"His loud-mouthed adulators," said Mr. Daniel, "think that whatever Mr. Bryan says settles it. In his speech for a ten per cent. bank tax on June 5, 1894, Mr. Bryan, in parting company with his associates, declared that no man need be bound by a platform he did not write. I will say that Mr. Bryan has avoided that responsibility but seldom in the past twelve years."

"What is the use of arguing with small fry politicians who deride Senators because they do not take up the rejected and discarded platform of 1908? No party takes the same platform twice."

Mother—"Just run upstairs, Tommy, and fetch baby's nightgown."

Tommy—"Don't want to."

Mother—"Oh, well, if you're going to be unkind to your new little sister, she'll put on her wings and fly back to heaven."

Tommy—"Then let her put on her wings and fetch her nightgown."

GENERAL NEWS.

When Roosevelt was president half a million dollars was spent to change the White House to suit the Roosevelt. Now $55,000 has been appropriated to meet the present needs of the Tafts.

The New York Tribune says that in that State the mosquitoes were so thick the men in a glass factory could not see the melting pots or the ends of the blow pipes, and therefore the factory had to close down.

With a view to the better enforcement of the prohibition laws and their general bracing up Gov. B. B. Comer, of Alabama, announces that he will assemble the Legislature in special session July 27. The call is not yet out, but prohibition will be the leading feature of it.

With teeth chattering until they could hardly answer the solemn questions of the officiating minister, W. N. Lynch, of Fruitvale, Cal., and Miss Violet Poort, of Colorado Springs, Col., were married last week while standing neck deep in the icy waters of the Sacramento river, near Shasta retreat.

The president of one of the largest steel-plants in America has issued an order requiring all the employes of his company to sign a temperance pledge. This is in line with the action of some of the railroads. Men rendered untrustworthy by alcohol are not fit to be employed in dangerous occupation.

President Taft has issued a proclamation providing for the opening up to settlement of about 700,000 acres in reservations in Montana, Idaho and Washington. Would-be settlers will be registered between July 15th and August 5th, and on August 9th the distribution of lands by lot will begin.

The United States is importing fish into the Panama canal zone now to eat up mosquitoes. These fish belong to the group broadly known as tip minnows, so-called from always feeding at or near the surface of the water, for which the structure of their mouths and habit of swimming in a large part of their backs out of water adapts them.

Bibles have been placed in guest rooms of many of the big hotels of the country as a result of the demand of the Gileons, a national organization of Christian traveling men which convened in annual session in St. Louis. The association expects to continue its propaganda until every quest of every hostelry in the land will be provided with an opportunity to peruse Holy Writ.

Cheap moving-picture shows are everywhere. The importance of some supervision, either of the class pictures or of the shows which view them, has lately been illustrated by an incident in Atlanta, Georgia. Three boys, the eldest eight years of age, the youngest six, visited a picture show and saw a representation of an execution by hanging. After they went home they tried to repeat what they had seen, with the youngest boy as the victim. He was found barely in time to save his life.

Concerned about what they suppose to be the possibility that the negroes may be sent into the homes of white residents of the south as enumerators to gather information for the thirteenth decennial federal census, democratic members of congress will urge President Taft to give instructions that only white enumerators shall be employed in districts south of the Mason's and Dixon's line. Representatives of the southern states in congress say that they have little hope of preventing the employment of negroes, unless the President interferences.

Old Fashion Economy of College Boy Needed To-day.

Charity and Children.

Formerly we heard men boast that they lashed at college with $2 in the pockets and worked their way through with only a small debt, and the rare ones with no debt at all. All this sounds strange to those who are familiar with present day college life.

We have heard of boys who cooled their heads, cut wood, or hair, shined shoes, sold clothing, performed any and all kinds of work and made every edge cut, whether sharp or dull, to save a sixpence.

This fine self denial and resourcefulness is not so common as it used to be. We are more extravagant in every sense of the word than we were 25 years ago, but nowhere is it more plainly seen than among the college boys.

Why even the young preachers, in some cases, are getting somewhat above themselves and spend the money that is given to them like lords of the land. We heard not long since of a young fellow who sent a bill for cut flowers to the church that was helping him along. But this spirit of spending money is not at all peculiar to the preachers. It is the rule rather than the exception among them all. The boys wear fine clothes now, we are told, every day in the week and Sunday, too. Tennis outfits have become a requisite to social position. Baseball togs must be had at any cost. Instead of saving at every point the rule now seems to be spending at every point.

As a consequence, education has come to be a most expensive luxury. A father with half a dozen children to educate must be a third cousin to Rockefeller. $500 a session instead of $225 is not considered startling. We will have to get back into the old way or somebody is going to be hurt; and those worst hurt will be the boys who cultivate these habits of extravagance. The fellow who must dig for his education is about the only one who is really educated for one of the most important elements of the education is the proper valuation of a dollar.

Careful economy is not stinginess. To be able to restrain one's self and say no to desire, is one of the fundamental elements of strength that enables a man to do things in after life. The feeble yielding to the slightest pressure to gratify every whim undermines character and blocks the way to ultimate success.

The old-fashioned economy of the college boy of two decades ago in what we need in our college life today.

STATE NEWS.

An old man who lives near Kernersville claims that he can cure any case of appendicitis with watermelon seed tea. He has planted five gallons of melon seed and will soon be ready to make cheap and quick cures.

Referring to the fact that the Atlantic Coast Line and Norfolk and Western railroad will build the road from Wadesboro to Winston-Salem, the Southern will extend its line from Norwood, only twenty miles, to Wadesboro more big railroads than any town in the State.

Excited over an order of the court that he and his wife must leave the city within four hours, John Bennett, posing as a lame beggar, walked out of the courtroom at Raleigh Thursday without his crutches and had to go back for them amid the ridicule of the spectators. He was distributing court plasters, and asking ten cent donations while his wife had some other form of graft.

The Yarkin Ripple calls attention to the fact that the national government will furnish free marble markers for the graves of any soldiers who ever served the United States, whether in the revolution, Mexican or civil wars. The state also furnishes free marble markers for the graves of Confederate soldiers. The burial expenses of a Confederate are also paid by the state when not exceeding, we believe the sum of $20.

The annual meeting of the Rowan county board of education was held Monday when County Superintendent R. G. Kizer made his report for the year, showing the work done by Rowan schools in 1908-1909. At a cost of $41,000 83 white schools and 40 colored schools were maintained during the past year with an enrollment of 7,433. There are 87 white illiterates and 35 colored in Rowan. The board elected committeemen for the 83 districts for the ensuing year.

The meeting of the North Carolina Press Association last week in the beautiful town of Hendersonville was without question the most delightful that the newspaper men have held in many years. Mr. Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, said that he had been attending press conventions in the State for the last twenty-eight years and he could recall no meeting which surpassed this one.—Lexington Dispatch.

The Southern Railway Company, according to a circular letter received by the passenger department of the road in Asheville, is to experiment in Virginia with automobiles as a method of transporting passengers between Manassas and Strasburg, Va., a motor schedule, operating automobiles between these two points, a distance of 61 miles, in addition to the steam car service.

PROHIBITS PROFANITY.

Saturday Blade.

The Wisconsin Legislature before it finally adjourned for the season passed one most excellent law—a bill to prohibit profanity in public places.

The new law provides that any person who shall use in the hearing of other persons in any public place, lewd, lascivious, obscene or profane language shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $25 or imprisonment in the county jail, not to exceed thirty days or by both such fine and imprisonment.

It is a good law, and it is hoped it can be enforced. It protects the respectable citizen and especially the finer sensibilities of women from an outrage and an insult which is not sufficiently guarded against. It is not the wickedness of it that excites so much indignation, although that is a strong factor, but it is the low down coarseness, the laxness of the act. The contents of the vessel are known from what comes out of it.

If those who use profane and obscene language could know how they rate themselves in the minds of those who hear them they would feel like sinking into a hole and getting out of sight. Being callous or unconscious of this condemnation it ought to be made visible by them by fines and penalties imposed by a court. The violation of the laws of decency are more to be condemned than violation of statute law.

France has refused to recognize Benjamin Franklin as the inventor of the lightning rod, claiming that honor belongs to a French physician named Jacques De Romas, who in 1750, two years before Franklin, announced a means of diverting lightning. The French Academy of Science in 1754 recognized Romas's claim to priority, and now President Fallieres has accepted the presidency of a committee formed to erect a monument to Romas, the real inventor of the lightning rod.

The Southern Railway Company, according to a circular letter received by the passenger department of the road in Asheville, is to experiment in Virginia with automobiles as a method of transporting passengers between Manassas and Strasburg, Va., a motor schedule, operating automobiles between these two points, a distance of 61 miles, in addition to the steam car service.
