OPPOSITION IN NO. 10.

Correspondent Says That Even Some of the Younger Men Will Not Vote for the Railroad—Argument in Favor or It.

Mr. Editor:—We said in our last letter we thought all the younger generation of farmers in No. 10 would go for the railroad. We must retract. We are pained to have to admit that we find after talking with our people there are a few of even the younger members of our commonwealth who will cast their ballots in protest "ferment" us. There are those who seem to think the road will not traverse more than five miles of the township, but the facts which we have before us will bear us out in saying there will not be less than nine miles of railway in the township. We have read the contract of the Salisbury Railway Company, pledging themselves to put the road between Georgeville and Bost Mill. Now if they cross Rocky River anywhere between these two points they cannot possibly get to the Union county line under nine miles. Again we hear that some object to the tax. The property assessment of No. 10 is $400,000, so we are only asked to pay the puny little sum of 18 3-4 cents on the hundred dollars worth of property. When we consider the rise in real estate values, to say nothing of the innumerable advantages and conveniences that will come to us as a direct result of having a railroad through this section, the tax would seem insignificant indeed.

Then again, it is estimated that the road will cost $1,200,000. Then if the road paid as small a dividend as 6 per cent there would be $7,200 in dividends to be paid to the stockholders. No. 10's part would be $900, exactly $150 more than the tax paid in by all the citizens of our township. So instead of being taxed to get the road, we would, according to the above figures, receive a bonus each year of $150. Then at maturity of the bonds, (40 years) instead of having to pay $150000 we would have only $9,000 to pay to take up the bonds.

"There comes a tide in the life of all men which if taken at its flood leads on to fortune or to fame." The same may be said of communities. There are times when communities can, by taking advantage of favorable circumstances enhance their general surroundings. "We can't grind the grist with the water that's passed the mill." The tide is coming our way and we ought to launch our bark for the nearest haven of prosperity. It's not worth while to buck up against the inevitable. The spirit of the age says go forward. There are those who would rather get astride the receding wave that would carry them to an uncertain destiny, than to embrace an opportunity that promises to make good. Then some people are afraid to take a stand. They would rather wait and see what the other fellow thinks about it. The very quiescence of indecision, they will subscribe to the first unfavorable diagnosis of the case that happens to come their way. Some men live in advance of their age, some live in the present and some in the past.

"There was young Sam Simon and old Sam Simon, and young Sam Simon his son. Young Sam Simon will be Sam Simon when old Sam Simon is gone." Now, is it a fact that because young Sam Simon put a bushel of corn in one end of his bag when he went to mill and a rock in the other to balance it, through respect for his father's teaching, that we must go on living and carrying on in detail the lives of our ancestors? We couldn't if we would. Even China, that once sleepy, heathen nation has learned better, and we would do well to emulate her in many respects. "Never condemn a matter till you hear it," was spoken by a very wise man. Now, let the promoters of this road locate it, and after they have done it, you people who are anticipating every improbable event as to its location will have cause to discredit your own knowledge of what might, could or should be. We should place implicit confidence in men and their professions as long as nothing appears contradictory to their integrity and beneficent purposes. So far as any of us know these railroad people have not swerved an inch from their original intention, to build a road that shall give the greatest service to the greatest number. And No. 10 certainly ought to feel highly favored in this connection, for she has every reasonable assurance that the road will go through some nine miles of her choice territory. If you want the road you had better not listen to everything that's being said "ferment" it, for most of them don't know what they are talking about.

Sensational Killing at Goldsboro.
Special to News and Observer.

Goldsboro, Feb. 22.—A sensational shooting occurred in this city this afternoon, a little after one o'clock, when, following a few hasty words of short duration, the soul of Camille Pruitt was hurled into eternity from wounds received at the hands of her lover, Roscoe Rivenbark, who shot her five times with a revolver, two of the bullets entering her body, one passing through the shoulder and the other through her arm.

The shooting occurred at the home of the deceased in the southern part of the city, better known as Little Washington. In an interview with the prisoner tonight, who it seems has been dependent and in poor health for some time past, he gave as his reason for committing the above crime, due to the fact that he believed he was going to die in a few days and he did not want to die and leave the woman he loved behind. He does not seem to regret the crime whatever and stated to an officer this afternoon that he was satisfied of one fact, and that was, that he would never hang for his crime, and was quite sure he would be dead before his trial was called.

While talking to his lawyer this afternoon Rivenbark held up his arm displaying a cigarette between his fingers and at the same time remarked, "that the d—n thing which is mainly responsible for the whole affair: I know I'm going to die for I plainly saw my days on this old earth were but a very few more in a dream I had a few nights ago, and I just could not bear the idea of dying and leaving Camille behind."

Conditions in Famine District Grow Worse.

New York, Feb. 23.—Advices from China to the American Red Cross today are to the effect that conditions in the famine districts are growing worse as the days go by. That 2,500,000 Chinese will die for want of bread if assistance is not rendered immediately, is the prediction in a statement made by the organization. This number comprises nearly the entire population of the northern part of the provinces of Kiangsu and Anhui. The statement continues:

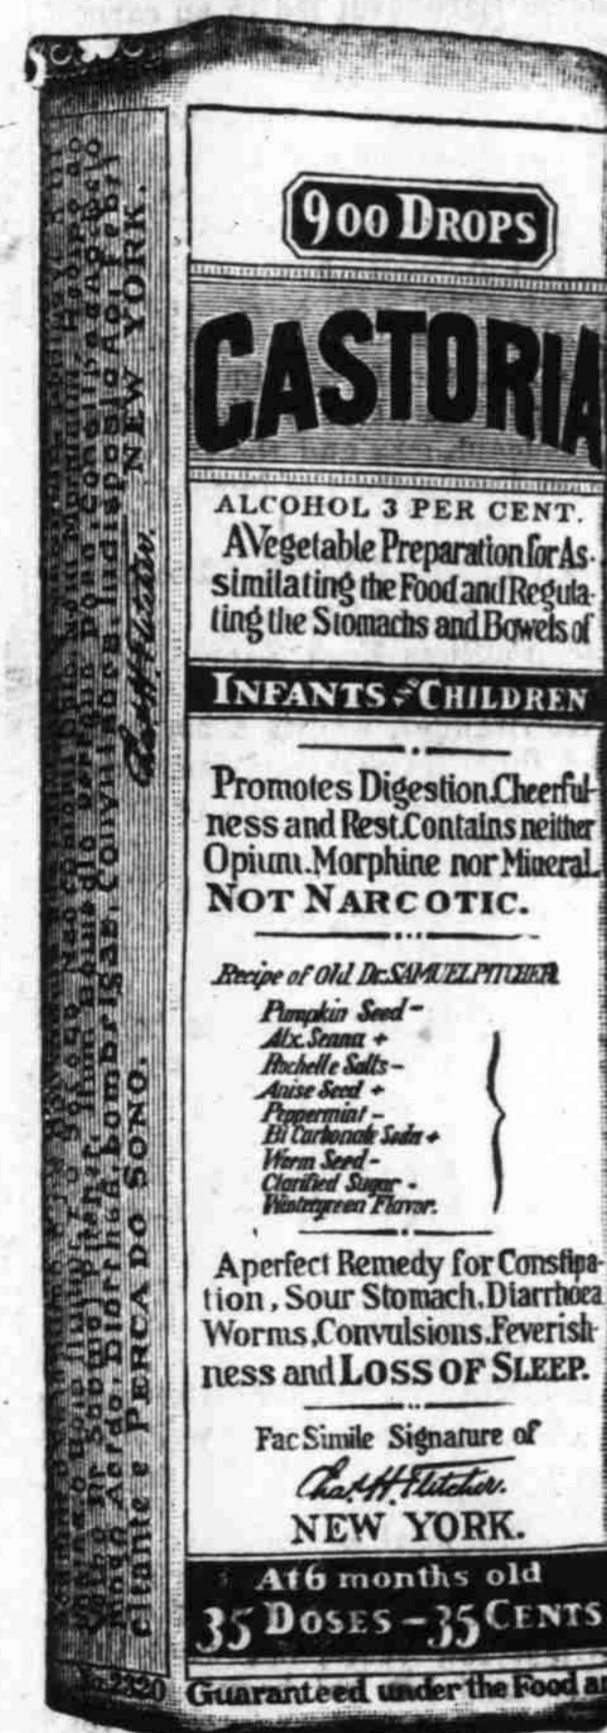

The bubonic plague is creeping southward toward this famine district. It has ravaged Manchuria and thousands of refugees who have fled to Chefoo, in Chang Tung province, have carried it there. Hundreds of deaths occur daily. The plague is now about 150 miles from the provinces, and if it ever reaches there the result will be appalling.

Pneumonia Follows a Cold.

But never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar, which checks the cough and expels the cold. M. Stockwell, Hannibal, Mo., says, "It beats all the remedies I ever used. I contracted a bad cold and was threatened with pneumonia. One bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar completely cured me." No opiates, just a reliable household medicine. Gibson Drug Store, Concord, N. C.
