NEW AUDITORIUM AT MONTREAL HANDSOME

Finest of the South Are Delighted With Pretty New Structure There.

Montreal, July 2.—The new auditorium, from a material point of view, is the outstanding feature of interest in Montreal, the summer assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, to which hundreds of Presbyterians and other members of different denominations are looking forward as the season of the present year begins. This auditorium, with a seating capacity of 5,000, which has been pronounced by the architects as one that which is as attractive from any viewpoint throughout the south, and probably not exceeded in any section of the United States, has been erected and completed at a cost far less than that which is usually expended in building edifices of a similar nature. It has been estimated that under most conditions this auditorium could not have been erected for less than $250,000.

NEW HEAD OF ROCKEFELLER CLAN

Something of the Man Who Is to Head the Standard Oil Company.

New York, July 3.—The lightning of Wall Street has been turned suddenly upon William G. Rockefeller, who by the death of his father has come into control of one of the largest fortunes in America, or in the world, a fortune that is variously estimated at from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

William G. Rockefeller, the able and excellent son of William Rockefeller and the probable future head of "Standard Oil"—this was the quotation applied to the younger Rockefeller many years ago by Thomas W. Lawson in his intimate and first-hand study of the Rockefeller financial dynasty. Nearly twenty years ago it became an accepted belief in financial circles, for some reason that has never been satisfactorily explained, that William G. Rockefeller, the son of William Rockefeller, was destined in time to take the helm of the Rockefeller ship of finance and become the dominant power in the world's aggregation of wealth and of the power of wealth.

It is interesting, therefore, to study William G. Rockefeller. He is now a man of middle age—his next birthday will be his 52nd. His father brought him up to the destiny of the family fortunes. He sent him to Yale, let him travel abroad for awhile, with a guide, philosopher and friend, and then schooled him down to the routine and dull of corporation management and policy of high finance according to the rules and the methods of the great live of power and control recognized in the Standard Oil Building at No. 26 Broadway.

At Yale Rockefeller knew few fellows—students and seemed not to care to know them. He paid no attention to sport, trained with no losing or winning team or crew, and drank no beer or "velvet" with coteries that the gilded and socially accomplished youth of his day formed. He lived simply. He got his diploma in 1892, being at the time a little older than most of his fellow graduates.

After his graduation he was seriously ill of a typhoid fever. His convalescence led him to a tour abroad. Soon after his return he married Elsie Stillman, daughter of James Stillman. Her father was famous as head of the National City Bank, and "boss" of the Rockefeller chain of banks that has wielded so vast and so undefinable a power in speculation and business.

The wedding on November 21, 1895, was a great social event, marked by the presence of persons most desirable as social canons. Go. There were William C. Whitney, and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Gornett, Rockefeller, Jr., and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, the Ogden family, and so on.

After the wedding young Rockefeller settled down in the "shop" at 26 Broadway. All agree that he took kindly to it. He was at his desk from 9 to 4 every day, except when he spent a week or two at his country place. Early in his career he was made a director of Amalgamated when that great corporation was floated. As the years have rolled by he has taken over more and more of the financial burden so long supported on the shoulders of his father. Still, when all has been said, it must be admitted that "the Street" knows very little to a certainty regarding the personality and capabilities of the man who has come into control of such a colossal fortune, and who may become the directing factor in Rockefeller, Finance, Clashish concentration of power is a Standard Oil tradition. If William G. has been proved to be the fittest, no doubt he will be chief.

SEES SLAYER IN GLASS

Aged Crystal Gazer Seeks Solution of Brutal Murder Mystery.

Mount Joy, Pa., July 3.—Surrounded by her even dozen black cats, Sadie Dree, an aged seer, crystal gazer and clairvoyant, believes she may solve the Z. W. Keller murder mystery which has baffled the State police for a week. Clad in a dress of old hags, she was reluctant to tell what the crystal had shown. With both eyes watching the stove as it bubbled, she attempted to seek the solution.

"I can see the slayer faintly in the crystal," she said. "He is a powerful man, a man who has served some time in the army. I can see a button on the lapel of his coat, but his features are faint. The crime was the result of hate, revenge. He lives not so very far from here. The State police will clear up the mystery."

TEXTILE UNION MAKES ANOTHER PLEA FOR BONDS

Says If We Are to Give Our Children Best Opportunity We Will Vote For the Bonds.

Fifteen hundred members of local No. 1222, United Textile Workers of America, have endorsed the following article, prepared by officials of the local:

Concord, N. C., July 3, 1922.

July 3rd is the day for the voters of Concord to go to their respective voting places and cast their ballot for the $225,000 school bonds, so that the city may take its place among other cities in educational lines.

It has been said that Concord was dead. "There is one way to let the people know that it is still alive. Put the present bond issue over with a large majority and show to the world that the people in Concord can still do things in the right way."

What will the world at large think of the people of Concord if they fail to provide suitable school rooms for their children?

Some people may not realize it but other cities are watching for the outcome of the present bond issue. Are the children of Concord not entitled to the same school advantages as the children of Salisbury, High Point, Thomasville, Hillsboro, or Gastonia? All of which have voted bonds for better schools within the last twelve months. Do we not think as much of the future welfare of our children as the people of any other town in the United States? If you are interested in the future welfare of your children then it is your duty as well as your privilege to vote for the school bonds.

Endorsed by the 1,500 members of local No. 1222 United Textile Workers of America, at their regular meeting Saturday night, July 1, 1922.

DEATH OF SAMUEL A. PERKINS

Occurred at His Home Here Saturday Afternoon.—Buried Sunday.

Samuel A. Perkins died at his home here Saturday afternoon at 4 p. m. after an illness of several days. During this time he was in great resorts hoping to be benefited, but without any permanent results. He returned to his home and family here about two weeks ago and had been confined to his room since that time. He was an active member of Barlow Memorial Presbyterian Church. At the time of his death he held the office of elder in his church and was for a number of years superintendent of the Sunday school, being at all times recognized as an efficient and competent official.

For a number of years Mr. Perkins had charge of the finishing department of the Masses Manufacturing company, of this city, and was held in high esteem in the business circles of the city. At the time of his death he was past master of Stokes Lodge, No. 32, A. F. and A. M., and was district deputy of the 25th district. He was also a member of the John C. Dreary chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and a 14-degree Scottish Rite Mason.

He was a member of the Knights of Pythias and Cold Water Lodge (Old Fellows and Junior Order). He leaves a father and three sisters, besides his wife, two sons and one daughter.

The funeral service was conducted from his late home Sunday afternoon at three o'clock by his pastor, Rev. Mr. McIVER, assisted by Revs. Albert Gibson and C. C. Myers. About 500 people attended the service which was conducted from the porch and a large crowd filled the grave in front of the house. He was buried with Masonic honors, the ritual service of the Masons being used. Members of Stokes Lodge marched in a body to the home and stood on either side of the walk through which the funeral procession passed, and at the grave such Masons passed the grave and deposited a sprig of myrtle in the grave of his departed brother.

A male quartette, composed of Messrs. Ed. Sherrill, Roy Crooks, Kay Patterson and Bob Benson, sang two selections at the home, "Some Sweet Day," and "We Are Going Home," and at the closing service at the grave sang "We'll Never Say Good-Bye to You."

The funeral services were many and beautiful. Among these were hand-bone designs from the finishing room of the Gibson Mill, Old Fellows, the Ladies' Aid Society of McKinnon Church, and many others from individuals.

Designs were also sent from the Lodge of Perfection Scottish Rite Masons of Charlotte, and the Junior Grand Lodge of the city of Columbia, S. C.

PRINTING THE BIBLE IN A NEWSPAPER

Proves to Be the Greatest Success of Any Feature Produced.

Topeka, Kans., July 3.—Is printing the Bible a good newspaper feature? Will the average person read the Bible if published in this way?

After printing a weekly serial from the Bible for three months, Arthur J. Carruth, managing editor of The Topeka State Journal, declares that the publication of the Bible has proved to be the greatest success of any feature ever printed by The State Journal. Moreover, it is being read by many subscribers as faithfully as would be the installments of a popular novel, Carruth states.

"The publication of the Bible serially has had a marvelous effect," said Mr. Carruth. "It has shown that the subscribers are sincere in their demand for reading matter of a religious character, and also has shown to the public that the newspapers do not print only the sensational, that they do not attempt to appeal primarily to the masses and that they do not neglect the church."

As an indication of the interest taken in the publication of the Bible, Mr. Carruth stated that he has received inquiries from every state in the nation, many letters from Canada and a number of communications from foreign countries. A number of Kansas newspapers have taken up the publication of the Bible since The Journal started it, Mr. Carruth stated. He said out of about sixty ministers in Topeka, he has received communications from all and that in only two or three cases have they criticized the publication.

STRIKING RAIL MEN BY BOARD

Six Railway Shop Crafts Unions Which Walked Out on Saturday Denounced by U. S. Labor Board.

FORFEITED ALL RIGHTS BY BOARD

Board Says Shop Workers Who Take Strikers' Places Will Be Recognized by It in the Future.

Chicago, July 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—The six railway shop crafts were denounced today by the U. S. Railroad Labor Board.

In a formal resolution the board declared that the unions by their action forfeited all rights by the board as railway employees, and that a new organization of shop men taking the place of the strikers should be formed to represent the shop employees in disputes before the board.

The board reported that the employees remaining in service and the carriers to take steps immediately to form a new organization for the purpose of representing the shop men before the board.

The resolution formally declared the striking shop workers no longer employees of any railroad and therefore without jurisdiction of the board. Although appealing directly to the shop men at this time, the board also said if the maintenance of way men, signal men, stationary firemen and others, and clerks joined the walkout they would be relegated to the same position as the shop men.

Letters will be addressed by the board to both the carriers having been on strike and to shop men remaining at work, advising them to form new "associations or organizations," which would function in behalf of the employees before the Board, and which would "be accorded the benefits of the outstanding wage and rules decision" of the board.

The Board's pronouncement formally rescinded the statement of Chairman J. W. Hooper Saturday, that the men remaining on the job could not be called in "for work" in case of a strike, because they would be considered "outside employees." The resolution said such men were "within their rights" and have the moral as well as the legal right to engage in such service in the American public, to avoid interruption of the indispensable railway transportation.

Such men are entitled, the resolution added, to "the protection of every department and branch of the government, state and national."

To Commemorate Establishment of Huguenot Settlement. Jacksonville, Fla., July 1.—A movement for the erection of a suitable memorial near the mouth of the St. Johns River, about twenty-five miles from here, to commemorate the establishment of the first Huguenot settlement in the New World, has been launched by historic, civic and social organizations in Florida. Jean Ribault and a small band of Huguenots landed near the mouth of the St. Johns on May 1, 1562 and gave the stream the name "River of Male," by which it was known for many years. After trading with the Indians, Ribault and his followers moved to Fort Royal, S. C., where they remained a year, returning to France in a ship of their own construction because of failure to receive proper support from their native land. Ribault and a larger party from France in 1564 in two ships under the leadership of Laudonniere and a settlement was established at the mouth of the River of Male. The colony was in existence only two years, the Spaniards, on the meantime had settled at St. Augustine, massacring the entire party in 1565.
