No direct message has been received either from Miss Powlass or Mr. Norman.

CATAWBA COLLEGE. A Plea For Funds For This Institution.—Campaign Now On. Catawba College was established over 70 years ago at Newton. This institution has meant much to us as a Reformed Church. She has furnished 65 ministers of the Gospel to our denomination. Besides we have graduated many ministers for other denominations as well as other young men and women who are filling responsible positions in life.

A very prominent alumnus recently remarked "Catawba College is the hope of the Reformed Church in the South." Do we want the Reformed Church in North Carolina to die or do we want her to live? True hearts will say, "Let the church and the college live together."

Catawba is a Christian college. The meaning of Christian education is education with a view to making and developing Christian character. Next to maintaining a Christian home and a Christian church, comes the obligation to maintain the Christian school.

Catawba College served her day well for many years at Newton. But now her buildings are old and in many respects do not appeal to our young people. The student body has been small for a number of years and we feel hopelessly in debt. Our equipment was so poor and our endowment so small that the student who attended school there received no credit as compared with other colleges of the state.

The trustees decided to move from Newton to Salisbury for several reasons. First, Salisbury offered us property consisting of one fine new school building 297 feet long, never used, and 43 acres of land, well located, just overlooking the city, all of which actually cost about $200,000 for the sum of $43,000. Second, we will be located in the very center of the Reformed church in North Carolina. Third, we will be surrounded by five counties that do not have an "A" grade college. Fourth, we start off with entirely new buildings.

What is our plan? Answer: to make it an "A" grade institution. To do that we need to begin with $400,000 for endowment. We are making plans now to raise this amount. This is the way we propose to do it: $150,000 in the North Carolina Cassis; $50,000 in Salisbury; and $200,000 in the Reformed Church North and West. The new development, expansion and endowment, now so urgently needed, can only be accomplished by earnest work, co-operation, and liberality. Let our rich men give large amounts. Let others give smaller amounts. Let all work together for a greater Catawba College and a greater Reformed Church in the southland.

The campaign is now on. The preachers will talk Catawba College from the pulpit. Pledges will be taken the last week in September. Plan to double your subscription. Pray for the college and the workers every day. "Boost, don't knock." Now is your time. It is the proud hope of Catawba College that it can take boys and girls from our homes, and at a moderate cost, train them for Christian leadership. Help us in this campaign. If one man says, "Let the other fellow do it," we fail, but if each man says, "Let me do my duty until it hurts," then we succeed. X.

Venus at the Confederate Reunion. We old soldiers from Salisbury arrived in Winston-Salem this morning at 9 o'clock and were taken in automobiles from the depot to the Hotel Robert E. Lee, one of the finest hotels in this section of the state. We took dinner at the hotel today and got one of the finest dinners you ever saw anywhere. At the dance at the dance hall in the hotel I had two partners, one Miss Sarah Sutton, 129 N. Spruce street, Winston-Salem; the other one at another time was Miss Mary A. Stough, of Winston-Salem. A large number of the pretty girls of Winston-Salem turned out to dance with the old soldiers and gave them a fine time. The Fifth Field Artillery Band from Fort Bragg, N. C., made music for the dancers. One other couple on the floor, we got their names as follows: Miss Celeste Ross, Lawrenceville, Va., and Mr. J. K. Talley, Sanford, N. C., an old veteran. He had a mighty pretty partner.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Efrid took three of us old soldiers sight-seeing at night in their fine car, and it was beautiful driving up and down the streets to see the electric lights in all directions. We are treated so fine up here we don't know when we will get home. Some one told us that there were about 50,000 people living here. There are lots of pretty girls here.

There are nineteen old soldiers here from Salisbury. They are: E. A. Miller, J. T. Wyatt, M. N. Hall, I. F. Heilig, O. M. Holsinger, J. A. Shive, N. M. Baenhardt, P. C. Goodman, T. P. Johnson, W. T. Howell, J. M. Bostian, M. M. Ketchie, J. V. Fisher, M. C. Rhinehart, W. Parrish, J. R. Deadman, H. C. Kirk, M. A. Waller, J. A. Eddleman.

The old soldiers are here from all over North Carolina. We met R. M. Hall, formerly of Salisbury, N. C., a grand-son of Mr. and Mrs. Pinkney Ludwig, of Faith.

Col. A. H. Boyden, of Salisbury, is here. The good citizens are taking the old soldiers all over the city sight-seeing in their fine cars.

VENUS. The Dedication of the James William Cannon Memorial Building. Elsewhere in this issue is published the program for the exercises in the formal opening and dedication of the James William Cannon Memorial Building to occur at 2 o'clock on Tuesday, September 11, at the Jackson Training School, near Concord. The Uplift, which is published by the school, is anxious for everyone to know that a cordial invitation is extended to every one, to be present at this occasion, and that a cordial welcome awaits all who attend. The Uplift says: " * * * a really important and eventful period in the life of the institution set apart for the salvage of these dropped stitches of a vanished hand. It is also a matter that is significant that two of the Cannon brothers and four sisters are joining in the matter of furnishing this building which has been erected as a memorial to their late father. The expenditure will approximate about seven thousand dollars, it is estimated, and The Uplift is very appreciative towards Mr. Charles A. Cannon, of Concord, and Ross Cannon, of York, S. C., and Mesdames David H. Blair, of Washington, D. C., Margaret Cannon Carr, of Durham, D. C., G. Hill, of Winston-Salem, and Charles E. Lambeth, of Charlotte, for the handsome gift. The Jackson Training School is doing a fine work and a needed work. Young lives are being redeemed from the cause of humanity, and the work of checking a criminal career in its early making is becoming largely manifest through the work of the Jackson Training School. To Mr. Cook and the others who are contributing their best efforts in a noble and patriotic cause, belongs much praise, and they deserve a wider co-operation than has been accorded the school in the past. We hope that many of our Study folks will attend the dedication service Tuesday, Stanley to have a building upon the grounds.

The Stop Law Must Be Changed. Insurance companies and railroads are hereby notified that this examination will take active steps to have the Stop Law as it now stands, materially changed at the next session of our legislature. The law as enacted is unfair and unjust against those who are engaged in insurance companies. We admit it goes a long way in preventing accidents, but not enough to offset the enormous losses which are caused the insurance public. The motor car owner does all the stopping, takes all the risk, gets all the hits, and, according to the law, is always to blame. There are many wrongs at which thousands of cars pass daily to one or two trains. There are some crossing over which trains do not pass for weeks or days. A legislative committee of the Carolina Motor Club will present the motorist side of this question at the next session. In the meantime information as to arrests of persons who fail to stop at the usual crossings is solicited. Suggestions for amendments to the law will be appreciated.

Stately Japanese cedar trees line both sides of the 30-mile boulevard leading from the imperial summer palace at Nikko, Japan, to a nearby village. The trees tower 200 feet or more in the air. The legend has it that several hundred years ago the emperor summoned all the noblemen to his summer palace, each one being requested to bring a gift. An impoverished nobleman carried with him a sack of tree seeds, and planting the seeds on both sides of the highway caused his name to be remembered long after the gold and silver offerings of his colleague had vanished.
