

ALAN DWAN PRINDELL" AGAIN

When we published an article from the Concord Times, in regard to the operations of "Alan Dwan," in the city and elsewhere. It will be recalled that the article was not finished due to the fact that the final page of the paper which contained the article was sent to the parties who furnished the paper. We wrote to the Concord Times asking them to send the completed article and we received it in the midst of the article in the middle of the paper. It was written by Ida Geer Weller, and is as follows:
Very truly yours,
IDA GEER WELLER.

carried no accounts for or with Dwan. And here is the letter that, undoubtedly sounded the resuscitation on Mr. Dwan's hopes. It is written on the stationery of the Central National Bank which he had evidently acquired in some manner, though never through an exchange of notes, golden or otherwise, according to bank officials:
Mr. Alan Dwan,
Metropolitan Opera House,
New York.
My Dear Mr. Dwan:
At Mr. Dick's request I am sending you the bank balance of the Association of American Artists April 12th, 1923, the balance of $68,380, sixty eight thousand, nine hundred and eighty dollars, you all have twelve thousand dollars in liberty bonds that we are holding for yourself. We shall be glad to assist you in any way you may call upon us.
A number of inquiries have come in regard to the association but acting on your instructions we have given out nothing. Thanking you we are Respectfully yours,
The Central National Bank,
By A. C. DAUGHTON, Cashier.
That is all for this time. Mr. Blakeley is preserving all the correspondence that has passed between him and New York but he has no idea as to Mr. Dwan's whereabouts. If anybody here has seen him, Mr. Blakeley or in fact any of those whose "letters" are listed in Mrs. Weller's communication, will be glad to get in touch with them.

FOX NOT ABLE TO BE EXAMINED AT PRESENT
"Too Nervous" For Examination, Physicians State When Called to See Alleged Slayer.
Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 10.—Philip E. Fox, Ku Klux Klan publicity man, was declared "too nervous" to undergo an examination when Dr. N. M. Owensby was called today to examine the slayer of W. S. Coburn, attorney for the Simmons faction of the Klan. Fox was returned to his cell, physicians announcing that he was in too bad a physical condition to submit to a mental examination.
Cotton Firm Fails.
New Orleans, Nov. 10.—The failure of the important spot cotton firm of W. J. Davis & Co., which maintains offices here and in many Mississippi towns, was announced on the cotton exchange floor today.

UNVEIL MONUMENT TO FREDERICK W. GALBRAITH
Monument Erected in Cincinnati in Memory of the Former Legion Commander.
Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 10.—Official representatives from half a dozen nations were in Cincinnati today to take part in the ceremonies attending the unveiling of a monument erected here by the American Legion in honor of late National Commander, Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, who was killed in an automobile accident near Indianapolis. Dedication was coupled with the celebration of Armistice Day as a fitting tribute to Col. Galbraith, a Cincinnati, who gained for himself an enviable record in the world war. Michael Aaronson, to whom the honor of pulling the cord that unveiled the memorial could not behold the beauty of marble and bronze monument erected in Eden Park where it commanded view of the Ohio River and Kentucky hills. Aaronson was blinded by an explosive shell while serving as a Major under Col. Galbraith in the battle of the Argonne.
Even though you bolt the door against love it will find a way in.

WOMAN OUTRAGED BY MASKED MOB
Mrs. Josie Starnes, of Union County, Brutally Treated by White Men.
Monroe, Nov. 8.—The Monroe Journal says Mrs. Josie Starnes, daughter of Bob Irby of North Monroe, a frail little ignorant woman of not over twenty years of age, was jumped upon by a crowd of masked brutes in the form of men, beaten all over the body with some hard instrument, and left lying in the public place on the Morgan road about a mile from town early in the evening as she was going from Braswell's store to the home of a Mrs. Flynn. She was accompanied by a companion, Betty Flynn, who ran when the men grabbed Josie. Mrs. Starnes says that there were certainly as many as ten men and that they were robed in white gowns and caps. She also says that they said nothing but beat her with something like a leather strap and then kicked her as she fell.
Perhaps from terror, the Journal says, or for other reasons, she did not report the matter to the officers. Sheriff Fowler heard of it only by accident while in a barber shop last Saturday night, just a week afterwards. Dr. Smith was called to see the woman some time last week and found her suffering a good deal, with bruises and signs of beating about the body, especially severe about the lower parts and a wound on one breast.
A mystery seem to hang over the affair that indicates that the work was done at the instigation or with the connivance of someone with a personal interest in the affair, the paper states. The officials accept as a fact that she was beaten by men wearing white sheet disguises. Further than that, they are at sea.
The little woman does not bear a good reputation but that is beside the question. Any set of grown men who would do a deed of this kind would burn your house over your head and you in it. If the men were white robed as this woman says, it make no difference whether they are Ku Kluxers or not, so far as the guilt of that organization is concerned. It and it only has introduced the white robe and the midnight attack upon ignorance and defencelessness, and if a crowd of other hoodlums go out and wear the disguise, it's all the same. Any community with men of this type in it is not safe from any kind of cowardly assault. The officers and responsible public sentiment should not rest till this gang is exposed.

DINNER STORIES
Teacher in Physics—A transparent object is one that you can look through. Now name something that is transparent.
Billy Bright—a Doughnut.
A new schoolmaster was trying to explain the meaning of the word "concealed."
"Now, boys," he said, "suppose I was always boasting of my learning—that I know a good deal in Latin, for instance—or I said that I was a handsome man, what should you say I was?"
"A liar, sir!" was the too ready response.
"Who was George Washington, Nellie?" asked the teacher of a little girl in the primary department.
"He was Mrs. Washington's second husband," was the unexpected reply.
"I say, that's my umbrella!"
"I don't deny it. I bought it at a panwhop."
The old darkey preacher met one of his parishioners who was badly battered. He stopped him and gave the fellow the once over.
"Sam," he solemnly commenced, "don't you know what the good book says?"
"Ef you enemy smites you on one cheek you gwine turn de other cheek?"
"Yassir, parson, I know. But dis fool nigger bust me in the nose."
"Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm?" asked the hardware clerk as he wrapped up the nails.
"Yessir, parson, I know. A stiffening of her head was his only answer.
Then he rolled his overcoat and placed it on his seat, sat on it, and getting his hat from under the seat, placed it on his head.
In a moment there was a cry of "Take it off!" "Take that hat off!"
The lady unfastened her hatpin and removed her hat. "So did the man."
A doctor who was superintendent of the Sunday school in a small village asked one of the boys this question: "Willie, will you tell me what we must do in order to get to heaven?"
"Very true," replied the doctor; "but tell me what we must do before we die."
"Very true," said Willie, "and send for you."
Too Much Faith.
A Southern darkey became converted and for some time his religious fervor was a matter for awe among the brethren. One night, however, he showed up at a meeting with a lugubrious face.
"Is he backslided," he announced mournfully from the platform. "Is a doubtin' sinner. I ain't got de faith in divine providence what, Brother Johnson got."
"Brother Johnson he got such faith in divine providence, dat jes to show off, dat man climb a lightnin' rod in a thunder storm. Me, I stays down below on terra cotta. Yassuh. Ise backslided."
Could the tongue be clipped every time it caused a hurt, thousands of us would soon be dumb.

Why you will find such a splendid spirit among our salespeople

You can depend upon a Miller & Rhoads salesperson for sound judgment and good taste. In the selection of merchandise their intelligent guidance is a valuable help to the shopper.

We do not believe that a tired, overworked salesperson can give you the attention you deserve. We have, therefore, provided an employees' roof garden, with rest rooms, and a hospital room in charge of a trained nurse and maid. Here the employees may relax and rest. Lunch is served to employees at cost.

A SHOPPER came to us one day fairly bubbling over with enthusiasm. It was her first visit to Miller & Rhoads Store.

"I have never before received such splendid treatment on a shopping trip," she said. "Your salespeople were so attentive and polite, and so anxious to please. They seemed to know just what I wanted, and were willing to go to any trouble for me. They really made my shopping a pleasure."

We are proud of our salespeople. They fully deserve the compliment. It is through just such willing service that we have won the confidence and good-will of our customers.

We realize that you will judge our store by our salespeople. For that reason we have built up a sales force which will reflect credit on Miller & Rhoads Store. You will find those who wait on you pleasant, agreeable and willing to serve.

Every salesperson, whether experienced or not, must go through a thorough course of training. Were you to attend a session of our beginners' class, you would be amazed at the things these young salespeople are taught.

Service to the customer is the keynote of their training. They are taught that willing, courteous and intelligent attention to the customer is the best service they can perform for their employers. This store is for the customer. It is only through the customers' good-will and patronage that it will grow.

For thirty-eight years Miller & Rhoads Store has grown steadily from a small shop of ten employees to a great department store employing nearly a thousand persons. Thousands of pleased and loyal customers throughout the Virginias and Carolinas have made this tremendous expansion possible.

A trip to Richmond should certainly include a visit to Miller & Rhoads Store. You will be cordially welcome whether you come to shop or just look around. You will find our salespeople anxious to make you feel glad that you came. Make use of our free checking service to relieve yourself of parcels and grips while you shop. There are pleasant, comfortable rest rooms, too, and you are welcome to use them to rest or wait for a friend. At lunch time you can have delicious food at reasonable prices in one of three delightful tea rooms on the fifth floor. You can spend a whole shopping day profitably in Miller & Rhoads Store.

Visit our embroidery department. Your heart will throb with delight over the lovely bits of hand-made fancy-work. If you want to do some of it yourself, buy the materials and take a few lessons in our art needlework school. There is no charge for teaching.

If you arrive in Richmond at Broad Street Station, pause a moment to enjoy the beauty of that splendid structure. It is an imposing and monumental building of limestone and marble. Miller & Rhoads Store is only ten minutes' car ride from there.

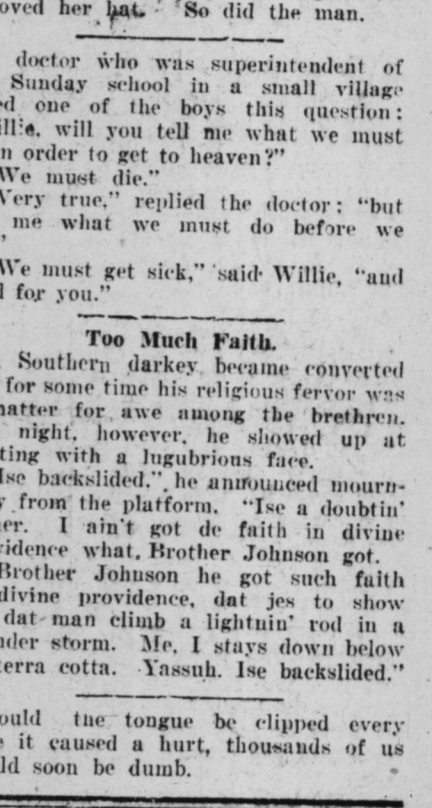

LITTLE 'BILLIE' ALIVE. HIS MOTHER ADVISED
Obdurate Husband Steadfastly Refuses to Divulge Whereabouts of Their Child, Charlotte, Nov. 9.—Little "Billie" McIntyre, alleged to have been kidnapped October 13 from his home in Richmond, is alive and well. This information, given to his frantic little mother, Mrs. Minnie McIntyre, here today by Welfare Superintendent M. M. Gray, brought relief from the anguish which had made her hysterical for days.
It was her piteous pleadings the past two days in Superior court here, that her husband tell her only if her "baby" were alive, that inspired the public welfare officer and others to bestir themselves to secure information that would partly relieve her distress.
Meanwhile the husband and father, M. C. McIntyre, arrested here Wednesday on a warrant from the Virginia capital, remained unmoved, steadfastly refusing even to assure the frantic wife that the child was alive.
His fight for liberty through habeas corpus proceedings ended today when Judge Harding denied his petition and ordered that he be held for the Virginia authorities.
Superintendent Gray did not announce if he knew the whereabouts of the 2 1/2 year-old child, but assured his mother that through the cooperation of the associated charities, it had been ascertained that the boy was alive and well.

Mrs. Sarah D. Holshouser Dead.
Mooresville Enterprise.
Mrs. Sarah D. Holshouser, widow of the late A. A. Holshouser, of Davidson township, died last Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. A. Mayhew, with whom she lived, aged 91 years, 7 months and 12 days. The deceased was one of the best known old ladies in the county, being a daughter of the late Thomas and Elvera Caldwell White, and was born and reared in Iredell county. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Mayhew and Mrs. Burgess Jones, the latter of Greensboro, and numerous grandchildren and great grandchildren, among them being Messrs. C. A. Lester and Vance Mayhew, of this city. Mrs. Holshouser was a devout Christian and was highly esteemed by young and old alike, and was a blessing to the community in which she lived for her extensive service was held at MacKendrees Methodist Church Monday morning at 11 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. D. P. Walters, and the remains were laid in the cemetery nearby by the side of her lamented husband.

Declines to Pardon Lumber Company.
Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 9.—Governor Morrison has finally disposed of the case of the Suncrest Lumber Company of Haywood County. The company was convicted at the criminal term of court last spring of violating the statute forbidding the operation of logging trains on Sundays and was fined $500.00 and costs. The lumber company appealed to the Supreme Court and a few weeks ago the Court in a lengthy decision in which the company in working its men on smelt work as logging operations on Sunday and upheld the lower court.
The lumber company then appealed to Governor Morrison for a pardon and in the decision made yesterday the executive declined the pardon.

Local National Guard at Albemarle.
Staunly News-Herald.
Gen. Van Metts will be in Albemarle next Wednesday for the purpose of checking up on the local national guard company. The required number of members have now signed up and the organization is ready to take on the duties for which it was organized. Gen. Van Metts will meet the "Boys" in the American Legion club room Wednesday night. Every member is expected to be present at that time.
Modern fashions are said to have raised the standard of health among women.
