Annual Red Cross Roll Call. Next week will be Red Cross week in Cabarrus County. As chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call this year, I wish to urge every citizen in our county to become a member of the Red Cross. It costs only one dollar per year—less than one-third of a penny a day. This money is wisely administered in all sorts of emergencies where human suffering and need are involved. No less than one hundred and ten such emergencies arose in our own land last year. And when the great earthquake made hundreds of thousands homeless in Japan, land they were suffering and starving, the Red Cross came to the rescue with $10,400,000 in a remarkably short time. On one vessel alone more than 400,000 feet of lumber was sent to build temporary homes for the sufferers.

The canvassers will see you Friday and Saturday of next week. Have your dollar ready. Get your Red Cross button and wear it. Put a Red Cross in your window. Let the people know that your heart and pocketbook are both in this most worthy cause. Yours for the Red Cross, Wm. A. JENKINS, Chairman.

In addition to the painting the decorations on the front of the movie house also are to be changed and some of them replaced by new ones. The P. O. The company's home is located on South Church Street, near the cotton platform. Chief L. A. Talbirt of the Concord police department, entered a Charlotte hospital Friday for treatment. Chief interest in North Carolina football today centers in the Davidson-Carolina game at Chapel Hill. The Davidson team is badly crippled and Carolina probably will score as many points as she desires. Other State games are between Wake Forest and Elon; State and Maryland; and Guilford and Wakeford. The biggest game in the east is the Yale-Princeton clash.

Following the program adopted some time ago, the Y. M. C. A. will tonight begin the free movie program which will be followed probably throughout the winter. The movies have been secured with the view to pleasing everyone, and they will be shown absolutely free of charge. According to reports reaching Concord the gin at Harrisburg, owned by the Harrisburg Improvement Company was robbed of all belting one night this week. The belting was valued at about $220, it is stated, and so far there are no clues as to who got them. The belting in the gin was stolen one night last winter and the robber was never arrested.

Other games in the South include the Virginia-V. P. I. game, the Clemson-P. C. game and the Center-Auburn game. The special school tax election, to determine whether or not the people of Cabarrus County want to give their children a modern system of high schools, will be held in Tuesday, November 20th. The registration books closed last Saturday, and all persons who registered must vote if they want to get the schools. All registrations will count against the tax unless a vote is cast, so those persons who registered and want to give the children better schools must go to the polls on Tuesday and vote.

About All Cotton Picked. According to reports from various parts of the county practically all of this year's cotton crop in Cabarrus has been picked. In a few fields some picking remains to be done, but the bulk of the crop has been picked. So far about 9,000 bales have been ginned and it is estimated that the crop of the county will total 10,000 bales. Most of the cotton has been weighed at the platform here, but some of it has gone to Harrisburg, Kannapolis and other points in the county.

Piedmont Edition Delayed. The Piedmont edition of the New York Tribune which was to have been published on December 2, will not be published until December 9th, it was stated here this morning by a person who has taken an active interest in securing data for the Concord page. It is probable that the edition will be 16 pages instead of 12, as was originally planned and this change made it necessary to postpone for one week the printing of the edition.

The special school tax election to be held Tuesday will determine what kind of public schools the county is to have. If the election carries modern high schools will be available for every child in the county. Miss Ruth Terry, of Mont Amoenia Seminary, is spending the week-end here at the home of her mother, Mrs. Margaret Terry. Miss Terry has as her guests Miss Edith Amick and Ruth Best, students at Mont Amoenia.

KIWANIANS ADDRESSED BY REV. J. FRANK ARMSTRONG. Movement to Form Chamber of Commerce Here is Endorsed.—Other Matters. Reception of a new member, an interesting talk by Rev. J. Frank Armstrong, a talk on Chamber of Commerce by Mr. J. L. M. Smith, and a splendid musical program by Mrs. H. G. Gibson and Miss Nell Herring, were the features of a splendid meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Concord Y. M. C. A. on Friday evening.

Tola D. Maness, one of Concord's leading attorneys, was introduced to the club as a Kiwanian by Clarence Barrier, in charge of the program. The vocal selections by Mrs. Gibson were enthusiastically received by the Kiwanians, who would not be satisfied without several encores. Miss Herring rendered the accompaniment at the piano in her usual artistic manner.

Rev. J. Frank Armstrong, pastor of the Forest Hill Methodist Church, made one of the best Kiwanis talks that has been heard by the local club for a long time. He took as his subject the motto of Kiwanis "We Build," and told his hearers some of the things that have been accomplished in the world in the recent past, and he also outlined some of the qualifications one expects to find in a builder. His talk was very helpful and inspiring.

Mr. Hal Jarrett, president of the Merchants Association, was then introduced by Chairman Barrier. Mr. Jarrett told the Kiwanians of some of the struggles the association has had in trying to get up a Chamber of Commerce and he introduced by J. L. M. Smith, of Charlotte, who is in Concord organizing such a body. He stated further that he had written to a number of persons in regard to Mr. Smith, and he read to the club the replies he had received from them, which were very complimentary to Mr. Smith.

Mr. Smith told of his plans in organizing a Chamber of Commerce for Concord. At the start, he said, about 150 members ought to be secured. These may be either firms or individuals. In part of the past two days he had called on a number of business men here, and obtained signatures for forty memberships, he said, and the remaining number ought to be easily procured. The need for a Chamber of Commerce here is great, he pointed out, and with such an organization this city should show rapid growth and improvement.

Upon motion of Albert Palmer, the club went on record as endorsing the movement, and a number of the Kiwanians after the meeting affixed their names as members. President Tracy Spencer appointed the following as a nominating committee to prepare ballots and nominations for the annual elections to be held in December. The committee is as follows: Sidney Buchanan, chairman, Joe Pike, Bill Wadsworth and Boyd Grady.

The attendance prize given by Clarence Barrier, was drawn by Rev. Mr. Armstrong. The silent boost was given by Clarence Barrier. Dr. Sidney Buchanan will be in charge of the next meeting of the club, which will be on December 7th.

sided game, such was not the case, for during the first half the cadets were able to put across only one touchdown, owing to the airtight defense of the Abbey boys. In the second half, however, the cadets struck their real stride and turned out touchdowns with great regularity. Credit for the victory must be equally divided between the line and the backfield; the linemen held like a stone wall for the cadets on defense, and offensively tore great holes through the Belmont line into which plunged the backfield men for long gains.
