It is requested that those who expect to attend be on hand promptly at 7:30 as any who arrive late cannot be admitted to the church until after the reading of the first number on the program.

STAR HEARS OF PLANS FOR RAIL BETTERMENT. Norfolk Southern Reported to Be Considering Yards and Refrigerator Star, Nov. 24.—The Norfolk Southern railroad, it is understood, is planning further improvements by enlarging the Star yards to accommodate 400 more cars. When completed, it will be one of the largest railroad yards in North Carolina. It is also learned that the road plans to build a large refrigeration plant at Star, but the report is indefinite. It is understood that this would be to take care of the next season's peach crop.

Daughter of an Asheville Policeman Kills Small Boy. Asheville, Nov. 25.—Mrs. J. L. Delaporte, of West Asheville, daughter of Captain William W. Britt, of Asheville police department, was placed under arrest Saturday, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Mark McMinn, 10-year-old boy. Bond of $500 was required. McMinn was fatally injured when struck by Mrs. Delaporte's automobile. Death came shortly after the accident at a local hospital. According to reports, the accident was unavoidable.

PROMINENT WOMAN OF HARRISBURG IS DEAD

Mrs. R. A. Gourley Died at Her Home There Yesterday Afternoon.—Funeral This Afternoon. Mrs. Lucy Gourley, wife of the late R. A. Gourley, died yesterday afternoon at 5:15 o'clock at her home in Harrisburg. She had been ill for some time. Mrs. Gourley was 77 years of age.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Rocky River Presbyterian Church, conducted by the pastor, Rev. T. N. Spence, and interment will be made in the cemetery at the church.

Surviving are one sister, three daughters and three sons. The sister is Mrs. Harriett Greene, of Chattanooga, Tenn. Mrs. Ed. Ervin, of Harrisburg, Mrs. Tom Klutz, of Marion, and Miss Mary P. Gourley, of Charlotte, are the surviving daughters. Mr. James Gourley, of Greer, S. C., and Messrs. J. B. and W. M. Gourley, of Harrisburg, are the surviving sons.

Mrs. Gourley was a daughter of the late Sam and Mary Ervin and her family has been prominent in the county for many years. She was a member of the Rocky River Presbyterian Church, and was keenly interested in Church work. She had many friends and relatives throughout the county and by a spirit of friendliness and culture had endeared herself to many who knew her intimately.

Sacred Concert at Central Church. The sacred concert given at Central Methodist Church last evening by the choir, under the direction of Mr. Price Doyle, with Mrs. Victor Means as organist, was largely attended, the auditorium of the church and prayer meeting room being filled. The soloists were: Mrs. Janie Patterson Wagoner, Miss Elizabeth Macey and Miss Mary MacLaughlin, sopranos, and Miss Pat Adams, contralto. The following program was rendered just as given:

Organ Prelude: "To a Wild Rose"—MacDowell. "Lift Up Your Heads"—Ashford. Invocation—Foster. How Lovely Are Thy Messengers—Mendelssohn.

"The Lord Is My Light"—Wolcott. "Ave Maria"—Mendelssohn. Mrs. Janie Patterson Wagoner. Flute Obligato—S. K. Patterson. "Hark, Hark, My Soul"—Shelley. Remarks—Rev. W. A. Jenkins. Offertory: "Theme"—Vienctemps. "Send Out Thy Light"—Gounod. "Fear Not Ye, O Israel"—Roberts. "The Living God"—O'Hara. Prof. Price Doyle. "Mighty Jehovah"—Bellini. "The Heavens Resound"—Beethoven. Organ Postlude: "Chorus in E Flat"—Homer.

Who Made the Mistake? Charlotte Observer. Somebody blundered whether doctor or chemist, remains to be ascertained. In a hospital for the insane at Cincinnati, 14 women patients were laid out for inoculation with a specific used in treatment of paresis. Three injections were made when a violent reaction was noted and the patients and the work was immediately suspended. But the three women died and the coroner reported death due to "acute poisoning, toxic acid arsenic, in one case, and acute toxemia from arephenanthine poisoning" in the other two. All the preparations used had been supplied by the State Board of Health, which is now making an analysis of the toxins to determine the cause of the fatal action. The incident is one likely to cause an interesting discussion in the world of medical science.

Home at Midland Destroyed by Fire. The home of Mr. Robert L. Furr, at Midland, was completely destroyed by fire this morning about 3 o'clock, according to reports reaching this city. All household effects, together with clothing of all members of the family, were destroyed in the blaze.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Furr. It is stated, who noticed the smoke and called members of her family. The blaze was discovered in a clothes closet and had gained such headway that it could not be checked. Except for a small amount of clothing saved by each member of the family, practically everything in the house was burned.

Mr. Furr suffered several burns, it is reported. His face and back were burned when he entered the house in an effort to save some goods, and his hair was badly singed. No one else was injured.

There was no insurance on the house, it is reported.

Child Very Severely Burned. Willie Marion, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Preslar, was seriously but not fatally burned Saturday morning when her clothing caught fire as she was putting some coal on an open grate.

The child was alone in a room at the home of her parents when the accident occurred. She stated that just as she put the coal on the fire her clothing caught, sending the blaze over her entire body. Her screams alarmed her mother, who rushed into the room and put the blaze out with rugs.

The child was burned on several parts of her body, but physicians declare she will recover. She is today reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

St. James Has a Year of Fine Work. The annual congregational meeting of St. James Lutheran Church was held yesterday morning at the close of the service. At that time reports were made by the pastor, the treasurer of the different funds, and from each of the organizations in the church.

Two deacons—Messrs. Dewey Moore and S. Kay Patterson—were re-elected to the church council.

In the afternoon the every member reports was made by about fifteen teams of men from the congregation. The budget for the coming fiscal year shows an increase of about 20 per cent. At 6:30 o'clock the teams made their report, showing the budget was oversubscribed by a good margin, with some of the reports still incomplete. The reports for the past year showed that the St. James congregation had done excellent work, and it was one of the best years in the history of the local church.

A. C. L. Fined $1,000. Raleigh, Nov. 24.—The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad was fined $1,000 in Federal Court here today for eleven alleged violations of the National Safety Appliance Act. The case grew out of a strike of employes on the road, it is said.

DINNER STORIES

Louie—Say Bracker, what does M. D. stand for? Bracker—He stands for a great deal around here. Louie—Oh, it stands for Medical Doctor, doesn't it? Womack, telling a yarn about his boyhood days in Mississippi, and ending up by saying, "We got home by 12 MM." Ahern—What do you mean by 12 MM? Womack—Mississippi Mook.

Ahern—Say, Louie, did you ever have Starboard watch while you were in the navy? Louie (interested in a book)—Why an Ingersoll watch in my life.

Bracker (taking a sip of cocoa)—Wow, my cocoa is hot! Louie (interested in a book)—Why don't you put an ice bag on it?

Mike had a son in high school, of whom he was very proud. One day he went to the school to see how young Mike was getting on. "Tell me," he said to one of the teachers, "is young Mike makin' good progress?" "Yes, indeed," was the reply. "Phwat's he studyin'?" asked the Irishman. "Algebra, English and Latin," replied the professor. "Lat'in, hey? Well, that's foine. And will he be taught plasterin' too?"

"You had a narrow escape from that motor car, my friend." "I did, indeed," replied the pedestrian, as he took a tape measure out of his pocket. "What are you going to do?" "I'm going to measure the distance I jumped. I believe I exceeded my previous record fully two feet."

"I fear you American women look on your husbands as nothing more than walking bank accounts," remarked the lady lecturer from abroad. "I'll have to take exception to one part of your statement," said the fashionable matron. "With half a dozen cars at his disposal, my husband doesn't have to walk."

A Scotchman woke up one morning to find that in the night his wife had passed away. He leaped from his bed and ran horror-stricken into the hall. "Mary," he called down stairs to the general servant in the kitchen, "come to the foot of the stairs, quick." "Yes, yes," she cried. "What is it? What is it?" "Boil only one egg for breakfast this morning!" he said.

He: "Is she progressive or conservative?" She: "I don't know. She wears a last year's hat, drives a this year's car, and lives on next year's income."

Stage Hand: "Did you say you wanted a window or widow?" Show Manager: "I said widow, but they're both much alike. When I get near either of them I always look out."

A school teacher had found her class of boys reluctant in their writing of English compositions. At last she conceived a great idea to stimulate their interest—to write an account of a ball game.

It seemed that she was successful. On one exception, the boys threw themselves at the task and evolved youthful masterpieces. The backward one chewed reluctantly at his pen and was then struck by a burst of genius. When the teacher opened his paper, it read: "Rain—no game."

A chap was arrested for assault and battery and brought before the judge. Judge (to prisoner)—"What is your name, your occupation and what are you charged with?" Prisoner—"My name is Sparkles, I am an electrician, and I am charged with battery."

Judge—"Officer, put this man in a dry cell." They tell of a young married artist in Washington Square who has a predilection for talking in his sleep. Several times recently he mentioned the name "Irene," and his spouse questioned him about it.

"Oh, that," said he, thinking fast, "is the name of a horse." Several days later when he came home he asked his wife the name of the day: "Nothing exciting happened," she said, "except your horse called you up twice."

Although occupying the same living rooms and in the custom of sitting together for hours at a stretch, a couple in London had not spoken to each other for six years, according to testimony given when the husband was brought up in court on a charge of desertion.

Co-Eds Find Zen Dull. Chicago, Nov. 23.—University of Chicago co-eds, meeting to discuss men, dances, parties and proper introductions, decided yesterday that "all men are talkers; some of them serious and dull; some of them forty and dull, others trivial and dull."

A movie with the right man is more desirable than grand opera with a "sap," said the girls. They expressed themselves in favor of three dates a week, preferably theatre dates. Two shows are regarded as better than one theatre-and-supper date.

"If the man is interesting, I want him all for myself," said one co-ed. "But if he is tiresome, I don't want anybody to see me with him."

The girl most popular with men is one who can adapt herself to any companion and a condition, whatever they may be, the meeting concluded.

Holly Hunters in the Mountains. Asheville, N. C., Nov. 23.—Hundreds of holly hunters already are invading the mountains of western North Carolina and divesting the few remaining holly trees of their branches of prickly leaves and aside berries. At the present rate of the disappearance of the tree in this vicinity, it is predicted that it will be practically extinct within 10 years. It is estimated that holly trees have been diminished 60 per cent. in the past ten years.

An infectious disease in a house in Holland is announced to visitors by a pile of white cloth tied across the bell handle.

NORTH CAROLINA GREATLY BLESSED BY NATURE

But Has Need For More Co-operation Among Her People. Fayetteville, N. C., 22.—"North Carolina is so greatly blessed by nature, the enterprise and energy of her people, and the wonderful development which is going on that one is tempted to say she has no great material or temporal needs," writes G. G. Myrover, editor of the Fayetteville Observer, in reply to a request for his opinions as to what are North Carolina's greatest needs. "However," he continued, "there is nothing mundane which has not need for improvement somewhere."

"North Carolina has need for more co-operation among her people, especially the agricultural classes." Co-operation in farming, in the advocacy of good roads building and maintenance, in community welfare work, in furthering the cause of education, in improvement of farming methods, including war on the boll weevil—co-operation first and last and all the time is one of the greatest needs among the agricultural classes. And co-operation among themselves should not be the sole aim of the farmers; they should reach out and take in their city neighbors, who in turn should meet their country friends half way, and then co-operating in all lines of endeavor, the people of North Carolina would make wonderful strides and accomplish far greater things than they have accomplished in the past.

"North Carolina needs greater development and utilization of its waterways, for both transportation and power purposes. It needs development and construction of its ports, and all encouragement should be given the railroads which show disposition to assist in the development of those ports. The state already is traversed by three great trunk lines running north and south, transporting trainloads of passengers and freight from the great centers of learning, commerce and industry in the North, and from the sunny climes of semi-tropical Florida and Louisiana. Now she needs one more trunk line or more running from her ports to the east to the mountains in the west, there connecting with railroads runnings to the great middle west."

"North Carolina needs to know her father better—the traditions of her fathers, the pages of her history whereon are written the heritage of achievement of the noble men and women who made the old North State one of the leading states of the Union, the vast wealth of varied soil, water power and climate, the extent of her flora, which includes nearly every tree and plant and flower that is indigenous to the temperate and semi-tropical climes, the resources of her seas and fresh water streams, her coast plains, hills and valleys and grand mountains, the great extent and variety of her industrial enterprises, her splendid system of and generous provision for college and public school education, her modern public highways, which stretch from the seashores to the mountains."

"And having come to a knowledge of her rich heritage from the fathers, her wonderful natural resources and the manner in which they are being developed, she should give them publicity, to advertise them to the outside world, and extend an invitation to prospectors to come, see and be convinced."

Can We Love Our Neighbor? Sir Arthur Conan Doyle. The ethics of the Christ seem to me final, though one could hardly imagine such a change of heart in the world as would ever allow them to be practised. They have suffered much, too, as it seems to me, by over-statement and exaggeration. Where one is asked to do what is clearly impossible, one loses heart and neglects what is possible. Thus to love your neighbor if he jostles you and treads on your toes is obviously impossible and could never have been meant by so eminently sane a teacher as Jesus. "Make the best of your neighbor" or "Be patient with your neighbor" that is the most that he has really had meant. Or again when he is so severe against the rich, surely there is a great deal lost of His real meaning. Riches in themselves are often the symbol of industry or self-denial, the greatest of virtues. What was really meant was surely that the rich man should be able to recognize the responsibility of riches—that if he did not do so he would be called sharply to account for it. I think we could get down to the real practical things in the teaching of the great Master if we would all agree to put a common-sense interpretation upon the things which are unpractical or impossible.

Tobacco Co-operatives Market Nearly Half of Country's Crop. Washington, Nov. 23.—Tobacco co-operatives did a big business with last year's crop, eight producer-owned-and-controlled associations marketing nearly 600,000,000 pounds of tobacco or nearly one-half of the total crop produced, the Department of Agriculture reports. The eight associations have 259,840 members. The large organizations are the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association of Lexington, Ky., with 90,607 members, which marketed 197,000,000 pounds; the Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association of Raleigh, N. C., comprising 90,228 members, which marketed 163,000,000 pounds; and the Dark Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association at Hopkinsville, Ky., having 64,000 members, which marketed 175,000,000 pounds. Other associations are at Madison, Wis.; Hartford, Conn.; Baltimore, Md.; Baldwinville, La., and Convent, La.

Dokies at Winston-Salem. Winston-Salem, N. C., Nov. 23.—Hundreds of Dokies from all sections of North Carolina are expected to gather here November 29 for the fall ceremonial of members in this state of the Dramatic Order Knights of Khorassan.

At one time the mines of India produced all the diamonds in the world; now, more diamonds are obtained at some of the mines of the Transvaal district in one hour than are recovered in the whole of India in a year. Today the garnet output of India is worth more than the production of diamonds.

SOUTHERN AGRICULTURAL WORKERS ASSOCIATION

To Meet at Birmingham January 10-12.—North Carolinians to Speak. Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 22.—Members of the Animal Industry Division of the North Carolina State College and the Department of Agriculture will take a prominent part in the livestock discussions and meetings at the annual convention of the Southern Agricultural Workers' Association at Birmingham, Ala., January 10, 11 and 12, according to R. S. Curtis, chief of the Animal Industry Division.

Representatives from North Carolina have been called on to make nine talks, according to the convention program. V. W. Lewis, livestock marketing expert, will discuss the co-operative marketing of southern livestock. Professor R. S.

in production and marketing of spring lambs for eastern markets. He also will make a report for the Council of Livestock Research, of which he is chairman. Dr. J. O. Halverson, feed chemist for the North Carolina Agricultural Experiment Station, will discuss "Mineral Supplements for Livestock," while E. H. Hostetler will report on the progress of soft pork investigations being made by southern experiment stations. He is a member of a committee of three which acts as a referee in soft pork investigations between the packers and the experiment stations.

Professor Curtis, Dr. Halverson and Stanley Combs will report in detail on the effect of feeding cotton seed and meal to cows and heifers in reproduction, and Earl Hostetler will discuss the utilization of standard southern grown feed for livestock.

How to Put Dollars in the Milk Pail. "It's a Good Feed But I Can't Afford to Feed It". Because Cow Chow is fed on the farms of so many prosperous dairymen, some people feel that it is a "rich man's feed" and not for the man who has to make his cows support him. You don't run across many well-to-do or wealthy men who aren't good business men and don't get the very most of every dollar. The big idea all over the Purina Mills from laboratory to mixer is "lower the cost of production". Feed Purina Cow Chow in the checkerboard bags, and watch the extra dollars in the milk pail. Call for Mr. Davis for demonstration at the CASH FEED STORE. SOUTH CHURCH ST. PHONE 122.
