Morgan (with courthouse at Morganton, as in those days there were both district and county courts)," wrote Col Olds in his history of Ashe County. It appointed Nathan Horton, John Bowers and Jefferson Taliaferre commissioners to fix a proper place in the center of the county whereon the public buildings are to be erected, but until the courthouse be completed, or some convenient place by these commissioners the courts shall be held at the home of Jacob Huntsinger. A tax of a shilling (12 1-2 cents) and 4 pence (four cents) on each 100 acres of land was levied for 1800.
